Manuel Martinez served as the Secretary of State in 1919-1920 and a second term from 1921-1922. This information comes directly from the Blue Book, 2005-2006 (p. 136).

Ponil Creek was a lively place and miners from Red River camps came here for dances. He was the caller for the square-dances. When worked as logger, he hired men to fell trees and make ties to sell to railroad. He worked on the railroad as Section Hand for 3 years. Catskill enjoyed a reputation rare for towns in the 1890s. It was known as a happy and fun loving town. Its citizens contributed time and money to build a church, a recreation hall, a racecourse, a dance pavilion, a picnic ground and a ballpark. It had a twenty-two-piece band as well as a dance orchestra. It was a fun loving town without violence. It was also a lumbering and sawmill town. It produced charcoal in such great demand that three thousand cords of wood were burned daily in the Catskill ovens. During the boom years thirty to fifty flatcar loads of lumber were shipped daily. The town was born in 1890 and had a good life until 1902. The timber around Catskill was becoming scarce and one by one the sawmills began closing down. In that year, the tracks of the Colorado and Southern Railway were pulled up cutting off Catskill's lifeline. There are a few surviving relics of the town most notably ten perfectly preserved red brick charcoal ovens east of Catskill beside the Canadian River. Once so easily accessible by rail, it can now only be reached with a four-wheel-drive vehicle.

Notes for Jose Ildefonso Sandoval:

Raised with cousin Fred Sandoval.

Lived in Cimarron, NM with wife and Beatrice according to 14th Census of 1920

Foreman of Springer Ranch (Colfax County, NM) from 1909-1920. Worked on Rey ado Farm from 1929-1937.

Rayedo almost didn't make it. When land baron Lucien Maxwell founded the settlement south of Cimarron in 1848, Cimarron didn't even exist. There were only Ute and Apache Indians, and they weren't happy with Maxwell. Settlers were reluctant to come until Maxwell brought Kit Carson from Taos, 35 miles west, as a protective presence. Rayedo, a stagecoach and wagon stop along the Santa Fe Trail, was the first settlement east of the Sangre de Cristo Mountains, the southern extension of the Rockies. Life was risky for a while until the Indian attacks slowed. By 1857, there enough settlers that the town of Cimarron was founded to the North. The reddish adobe buildings of Rayedo are now maintained by the Boy Scout of America on the 138000 acre Philmont Scout Ranch. Scout leaders dressed in period costumes lead visitors through Rayado's adobe hacienda. It has been restored from the two original rooms that had survived, according to Bruce Richardson, 30, a history teacher from Richland, Mo., who has been 12 years on summer staff at Philmont. "I've talked to people who told me they were actually born in this room," Richardson said in the kitchen. In neighboring buildings are the 1860 stagecoach stop, store and accommodations for stage passengers. (Credit an article in Carlsbad Curren Current-Argus)9/1/98. "Gone but not forgotten.

According to headstone was a PVT in US Army from Oct 1917 - Jan 1919
