She married George William Blood September 01, 1927 in Incarnation Church, Philadelphia. He was born July 01, 1899 in Philadelphia, and died July 19, 1962 in Philadelphia.

Notes for Catherine Margaret Byrne:

Catherine Byrne was born on October 3 1904 at 2630 Almond Street which could be her parents residence at this time period. Her father in his younger years worked in a coal yard as a driver this could be George B. Newton Coal Co. and that is how he met Annie, Catherine's mother. Peter was later injured in an accident in the coal yard and took a job in the office. Later he would open up a store in area of Martha and Lehigh and then moved to Lawrence and Rockland. Mom always worked in the mills and usually made good money making "piece work" as an "invisible mender" in the hosiery mills. The more piece you could turn out, the more you made, and if you were let go from one place, you could walk down the street and get a job in the next place if you were that good. But according to mom it was the unions that killed the mills and drove them South. She believed that for the most part the mills owners took care of the good workers and did reward them for a job well done. And when the Unions came in they were asking for just too much and it was time to close down and they did.

During the War mom worked in the Frankford Arsenal at Bridge Street making .45 cal ammo. I am now hearing stories of how some of the ammo made it home to Venago Street and the coal bin and a certain kid by the name of George hit one with a hammer and almost took a wall down.

After a move to Atlantic Street about 1954 and Cappie Steaks on Frankford Ave mom was working at Kuhn and Blum at Amber and Willard Street.

Notes for George William Blood:

George William Blood was my dad, and being the baby of the family has left me at a disadvantage when it came to the family history. My dad died was I was 12 years old and I still remember taking the call from the hospital and my mom being told that dad had died the night before. Both mom and dad had worked all their lives and I only known of the few last years when dad worked as a shipper for American Engineering on Wheatsheaf Lane by Frankford Junction. It was only in talking to mom that I would learn that at one time dad had been a weaver in a carpet mill, and his job was described as a full wolten weaver. The story goes that dad could pull up a corner of a carpet and tell how well it was made.

The story goes that mom and dad lived by 2nd and the Blvd where Grandpop Byrne had a store. From there they move to 2020 East Venago Street and then onto 2073 East Atlantic Street. Dad never had a license to drive so we always had to take a bus or a train to the shore. Dad love the shore, he had brought a double lot 60x100 at a stand on the boardwalk when I was just a baby (1949) without telling my mother, when she found out later she was furious. This is something I would do. The house was build later at 1809 Surf Avenue right across from Lou Booth's.

36. Robert Peter⁵ Blood (Catherine Margaret⁴ Byrne, Peter Francis³, John J.², Francis¹) was born June 09, 1928 in Philadelphia, PA, and died January 01, 1972 in Pittsburgh, Pa.. He married Gertrude M. Reinhard January 12, 1950 in Heidelberg, Germany. She was born June 09, 1924 in Heidelberg, Germany, and died January 02, 1986 in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Notes for Robert Peter Blood:

Robert Peter Blood was born on the 9th of June 1928 at St Mary Hospital in Fishtown Section section of Philadelphia. Both Bobby and George were only about a year apart so that in growing up they got to hang out together. The family was living in the area around 2nd and the Blvd as the boys were going to Saint Ambrose School. The boys would come over to Grandmother's house for lunch and after school as mom would be working. And poor Aunt Nellie or Nora would have to put up with their acting. It was not long before the magical words were heard: " NUTS TO YOU AUNT NELLIE" and the door would be slammed.

Both Bobby and George went to Northeast Catholic High School. Robert Class of 1946 and George Class of 1947. Robert enlisted in the regular army on the 14th of June 1946 at Philadelphia and while stationed in Germany at Heidelberg he met Gertrude M. Reinhard (Trudy).

Robert made Sergeant on 1 February 1949.

Robert was discharged on 12 January 1950 at Heidelberg with service of 3 years, 6 months 29 days. and then reenlisted 13 January 1950 at Heidelberg Germany. The reason is so that he could he could marry Trudy . An enlisted male could not marry a person in occupied country under military law. So that Robert had to resign , marry and then reenlist. Which, a lot of other service men and women did.

Robert was awarded the WW II Victory Medal and Army of Occupation Medal. He was listed as a Radio Repairman and this came in to play when he left the service and went to work for Bell Telephone and later At and T Long Lines. Robert worked at 9th and Race Street in Philadelphia, in Erie and in Pittsburgh Pa.
