 A Mills and Kendall Family History by Helen Schatvet Ulmann, 2002 Newbury Street Press, Boston, MA documents Revolutionary War service from Pension File as a sargent and appears to have served in the campaign to Quebec, but it appears that by reaching Lake Champlain the colonist were on retreat and Edward returned to NJ. He probably continued to serve in the militia until February 22, 1780 at which time he recieved a certificate for his pay, but did not receive the funds until at least January 1, 1787. Further notes in the Ulmann history, Page 36 reflects that Edward was a proprietor of the Morris Aqueduct on November 16, 1799, that he served as constable at Morristown from at least 1805 to 1810. In 1809 he owned a store selling groceries, china and cloth on the corner of Market and Bank Streets. In 1815 and 1817 he Collector for the town.
