Notes for John Marshall Van Camp:

John Marshall married his first cousin.

Shirley Shores writes that John Marshall Van Camp was "very quiet", "almost dour in his demeanor".

She includes the following description taken from John Marshall Van Camp's Civil War pension records:

Shirley Shore also provides the following colorful slice of family history:

This is the story my mother told me concerning how her mother got her name. John Marshall Van Camp was severely wounded in the head 4 days before the end of the Civil War. He was taken to a field hospital in Casinova, Virginia, and he always credited the surgeons there for having saved his life. When Grandma was born, he named her "Arma" in honor of the Army, and "Casinova" in honor of the surgeons who saved his life - choosing to use the location because he did not know the names of the doctors.

I remember going to visit Grandma up on the hill (I have since learned that the name of the road leading to her house is "Slider Run"). I remember sitting on the porch at night and watching millions of fireflies. We talked and sang until it was time for us to go to bed. Grandma had no electricity or running water in the house. It seemed a great adventure to me to live that way. She had a battery operated radio for emergencies. We weren't allowed to listen to it at just any time. I was allowed to listen to one half-hour show per week - and I chose "I Love a Mystery." I still remember sitting in her darkening bedroom, listening spellbound, savoring my weekly "treat."

I remember one time when it hailed huge hailstones - I think they were the proverbial "golf-ball" size - but they seemed bigger than that to me. The noise they made pounding down on grandma's tin roof was deafening. After the storm, we gathered up all the hailstones, and grandma made homemade ice cream. She had an ice cream maker that had a crank that we turned until the ice cream was thick. After Phillip was not allowed to have any milk products, we had another such hail storm, and that time Aunt Blanche made the ice cream. I remember being so upset that Phillip wouldn't be able to have any, but Aunt Blanche told me not to worry and that she would fix it so he didn't feel bad. She gave Phillip a large plate of butter which looked a lot like the ice cream, and he really did not like it. He thought we were all very strange to like such terrible tasting stuff.

Another of my favorite memories of days "on the hill" was the time when all the men got together and went on a turtle hunt. They brought home three washtubs full of snapping turtles. "Teddy" caught a baby snapper and delighted in chasing us all around the yard with it. Aunt Blanche cooked a fantastic meal - I can still see the table - there were two big platters piled high with fried turtle, two big bowls of green beans fresh from the garden cooked with potatoes and bacon, and two big plates of sliced tomatoes - also right out of the garden. There were thick slices of homemade bread, and - of course - the home-churned butter. It's odd, but as I write, I can almost taste that wonderful meal. When I went to visit Uncle Archer just before he died, I remember being so surprised that the dining room was so tiny. It almost seemed that it was too small ever to have held such a magnificent banquet.

I remember Grandma climbing a peach tree to pick peaches, and I was terrified that she would fall. She just laughed at me.

As I said, there was no running water in the house. When the house was built, there was a good well right by the back door. However, Grandfather wanted a deeper well. He and Grandma argued about blasting. She was sure he would ruin the well; he was sure he would make a deeper, better well. She was right. He blasted and the well was lost. The water resurfaced in a spring down over a steep hill from the house. There was a narrow path that Grandma or Aunt Vaughn would walk every day to go to the spring for a bucket of water. I don't know how those two old ladies ever managed to go down that steep little hill when it was icy or muddy. The land around the spring was quite dense with underbrush - berries and the like. This area was fenced in all the way down the mountain until it hit the piece of ground where Aunt Twila & Uncle Brady had their house. I imagine that Grandpa gave them the land when they married, but I do not know this for sure. I do know the fenced land was part of the Van Camp property. Uncle Archer used to graze his cow on this land - now that I think of it, I really wonder how that cow ever found anything to eat - it was so overgrown. Another of my memories of the spring is watching Uncle Archer milk the cow (her name was Pet) down by the spring. He would get under the fence & set up his bucket & stool. My cousins and I would stand on the big rock by the spring, and as Uncle Archer would milk Pet, he would squirt at our open mouths. We thought it was great fun. Memories of the House on the Hill would not be complete without a few snake stories. Mother said that often there would be large blacksnakes draped across the tops of the berry vines in the land down by the spring, and the snakes would watch them as they picked the berries. Grandma never killed blacksnakes unless they were in the henhouse. I remember one very large blacksnake she killed with her hoe. Dad took movie pictures of it. (Unfortunately, all of the old home movies were accidentally ruined.) Grandma often killed copperheads in her cellar. Those snakes were quite prevalent. I remember one of Uncle Archer's dogs - Fannie - who was bitten by a copperhead. Aunt Blanche put a rag soaked with kerosene, I believe, on the wound. At any rate, Fannie recovered from the bite I remember one bright, moonlit night when we were walking back to Grandma's house from Uncle Archer's. Mom suddenly gave a short little skip, bent over, picked up a rock from the side of the road, and threw it - killing a large copperhead that was lying on the warm clay road. I never recalled ever having seen Mama move so fast.

And now, two stories of quite unusual, supernatural events that I want to pass on:

Oddly enough, both of these stories seem to be tied to the outhouse. In the first story, one of the children was very sick (I believe it was Aunt Vaughn). At any rate, she was in very serious condition, and the doctor gave little hope for her recovery, saying that the crisis was near. Grandma went out to the outhouse, and when she started her return to the house and rounded the corner of the chicken coop, she looked up in the sky and saw a bird - this was no ordinary bird. It was an eagle, and it was so large that its wings sheltered the entire house. Grandma said it was the Great Speckled Bird in the Bible. At any rate, Grandma said that at that moment, she knew the crisis had arrived, and she felt a great sense of calm. She wasn't sure if it meant that Aunt Vaughn had passed away or that she had survived the crisis. All Grandma knew was that she had been given a great sense of inner peace. When she got back into the house, the crisis had indeed come, and Aunt Vaughn had begun to recover.

The other story concerns the death of Theodore Van Camp. The night Grandpa was buried, we were all at Grandma's house. Aunt Hallie took David Ray out to the outhouse. As it was pitch dark, she took a flashlight with her. Suddenly, there appeared a small white light that danced around David Ray's head - Aunt Hallie focused the flashlight on it, but it continued to dance.

This went on the entire time they were outside, but when they came back into the house, it disappeared. Aunt Hallie was convinced that it was her father's spirit come back to give a blessing to a grandson.

Everything is gone now. The house was torn down, and all the big trees that once shaded the house and kept it so comfortable on hot summer days have been cut down. There is now a "Party Cabin" there owned by folks from Ohio who come there on weekends. All that is left from my treasure of memories is the row of cherry trees along the road, the wild rose bushes that grow along the lane leading up to the house, the huge rocks in the lane that make it impossible to drive a car up the lane, and the big tree and rock opposite the lane where Margaret Ann, Patty , and I - after a heavy rain - would make mud dishes and put them on the rock to "bake". The road was yellow clay - and after a rain, mud was plentiful. Cars would make deep ruts in the road, and we would dam up the ruts & make lakes. We played right out in the soft, warm rain, damming up the ruts and then jumping into the "lakes" making big splashes. The road is now paved, and no more little ones will ever know the joy of having a whole set of mud dishes, complete with mud pies and cakes. And these are some of the memories that - for me- will never grown dim.

Notes for Mary Belle Martin:

Mary Belle married her first cousin, as did her own mother.

Shirley Shore writes:

After the birth of her fourth child, Mary Belle suffered from complications of childbirth, and when it became clear to her that she was not going to live, she asked her sister Margaret to take care of her four children and her husband. Margaret promised Mary Belle she would do so. Six months later, Margaret and John Marshall Van Camp were married.

With regards to the parentage of Mary Belle Martin, Shirley Shore cites History of the Upper Ohio Valley by Hardesty and "an article about the school at Rosby's Rock".

Children of John Van Camp and Mary Martin are:

- i. Clarage Forrest Van Camp^{28,29}, born 28 nov. 1862; married Liva Belle Gamble.
- ii. Samuel Boyd Van Camp^{30,31}, born 07 juil. 1866; married Sophia Virginia Probst.

Memories of the House on the Hill would not be complete without a few snake stories. Mother said that often there would be large blacksnakes draped across the tops of the berry vines in the land down by the spring, and the snakes would watch them as they picked the berries. Grandma never killed blacksnakes unless they were in the henhouse. I remember one very large blacksnake she killed with her hoe. Dad took movie pictures of it. (Unfortunately, all of the old home movies were accidentally ruined.) Grandma often killed copperheads in her cellar. Those snakes were quite prevalent. I remember one of Uncle Archer's dogs - Fannie - who was bitten by a copperhead. Aunt Blanche put a rag soaked with kerosene, I believe, on the wound. At any rate, Fannie recovered from the bite I remember one bright, moonlit night when we were walking back to Grandma's house from Uncle Archer's. Mom suddenly gave a short little skip, bent over, picked up a rock from the side of the road, and threw it - killing a large copperhead that was lying on the warm clay road. I never recalled ever having seen Mama move so fast.

And now, two stories of quite unusual, supernatural events that I want to pass on:

Oddly enough, both of these stories seem to be tied to the outhouse. In the first story, one of the children was very sick (I believe it was Aunt Vaughn). At any rate, she was in very serious condition, and the doctor gave little hope for her recovery, saying that the crisis was near. Grandma went out to the outhouse, and when she started her return to the house and rounded the corner of the chicken coop, she looked up in the sky and saw a bird - this was no ordinary bird. It was an eagle, and it was so large that its wings sheltered the entire house. Grandma said it was the Great Speckled Bird in the Bible. At any rate, Grandma said that at that moment, she knew the crisis had arrived, and she felt a great sense of calm. She wasn't sure if it meant that Aunt Vaughn had passed away or that she had survived the crisis. All Grandma knew was that she had been given a great sense of inner peace. When she got back into the house, the crisis had indeed come, and Aunt Vaughn had begun to recover.

The other story concerns the death of Theodore Van Camp. The night Grandpa was buried, we were all at Grandma's house. Aunt Hallie took David Ray out to the outhouse. As it was pitch dark, she took a flashlight with her. Suddenly, there appeared a small white light that danced around David Ray's head - Aunt Hallie focused the flashlight on it, but it continued to dance.

This went on the entire time they were outside, but when they came back into the house, it disappeared. Aunt Hallie was convinced that it was her father's spirit come back to give a blessing to a grandson.

Everything is gone now. The house was torn down, and all the big trees that once shaded the house and kept it so comfortable on hot summer days have been cut down. There is now a "Party Cabin" there owned by folks from Ohio who come there on weekends. All that is left from my treasure of memories is the row of cherry trees along the road, the wild rose bushes that grow along the lane leading up to the house, the huge rocks in the lane that make it impossible to drive a car up the lane, and the big tree and rock opposite the lane where Margaret Ann, Patty, and I - after a heavy rain - would make mud dishes and put them on the rock to "bake". The road was yellow clay - and after a rain, mud was plentiful. Cars would make deep ruts in the road, and we would dam up the ruts & make lakes. We played right out in the soft, warm rain, damming up the ruts and then jumping into the "lakes" making big splashes. The road is now paved, and no more little ones will ever know the joy of having a whole set of mud dishes, complete with mud pies and cakes.

And these are some of the memories that - for me - will never grown dim.

Notes for James Stanclift:

According to the website of the Connecticut Gravestone Network, the gravestones carved by James Stanclift:

sometimes cannot yet be distinguished from some of the work of his eldest son William. For the most part they are distinguishable by the tented line he placed at the top of his letter "A." He carved in large capital letters on stones that usually have evenly rounded tops rather than the lateral "shoulders" that were so characteristic on most New England gravestones. [James'] earliest dated stone is for Renold Marvin in the Duck River burying ground (Old Lyme) and is backdated to 1676. The stone for Rebecca Minor (1701) in Wequetequock (Stonington) is the farthest east in Connecticut any of his stones have been discovered.

3101. Margaret Unknown³⁰⁵, born 1615 in Andover, Essex, Massachusetts; died 10 juil. 1689 in Andover, Essex, Massachusetts.

Children of John Russ and Margaret Unknown are:

- i. Nathaniel Russ³⁰⁵, born Abt. 1639.
- 1550 ii. John Russ, born 24 juin 1641 in Newbury, Essex, Massachusetts; died 04 mars 1691 in Andover, Essex, Massachusetts; married Deborah Osgood 28 août 1663 in Andover, Essex, Massachusetts.
- iii. Mary Russ³⁰⁵, born 16 févr. 1644.
- iv. Jonathan Russ³⁰⁵, born Abt. 1646.
- v. Thomas Russ³⁰⁵, born 1648.
- vi. Josiah Russ³⁰⁵, born 1650.
- vii. Joseph Russ³⁰⁵, born 1652.

3102. Christopher Osgood³⁰⁵, born Bet. 1607 - 1612 in Marlborough, Wiltshire, England; died 1650 in Ipswich, Essex, Massachusetts. He was the son of 6204. Christopher Osgood and 6205. Elizabeth Brockwell. He married 3103. Margaret Fowler 28 juil. 1633 in St. Mary's, Marlborough, Wiltshire, England.

3103. Margaret Fowler³⁰⁵, born 1615 in England; died 1659. She was the daughter of 6206. Phillip Fowler and 6207. Mary Wingsley/Winslow.

Children of Christopher Osgood and Margaret Fowler are:

- i. William Osgood³⁰⁵, born Abt. 1634.
- ii. Abigail Osgood³⁰⁵, born 1636.
- iii. Elizabeth Osgood³⁰⁵, born Abt. 1638.
- 1551 iv. Deborah Osgood, born Bet. 1640 - 1643 in Andover, Essex, Massachusetts or Ipswich, Massachusetts; died in Andover, Essex, Massachusetts; married John Russ 28 août 1663 in Andover, Essex, Massachusetts.
- v. Christopher Osgood³⁰⁵, born 1643.
- vi. Thomas Osgood³⁰⁵, born 1651.

3104. Thomas Harris³⁰⁶, born Bef. 1590.

Child of Thomas Harris is:

- 1552 i. Captain Daniel Harris, born Bet. 1615 - 1625 in Cheltenham, Gloucester, England; died 30 nov. 1701 in Middletown, Connecticut; married Mary Weld Abt. 1648.

3106. Joseph Weld³⁰⁷, born 07 avr. 1598 in Suffolk, England. He was the son of 6212. Edmund Weld and 6213. Amye Dereslye. He married 3107. Elizabeth Wyse 11 oct. 1620 in Suffolk, England.

3107. Elizabeth Wyse³⁰⁷, born Abt. 1600 in England; died oct. 1638 in Roxbury, Massachusetts.

Child of Joseph Weld and Elizabeth Wyse is:

- 1553 i. Mary Weld, born Abt. 1627 in England; died 05 sept. 1711 in Middletown, Connecticut; married Captain Daniel Harris Abt. 1648.

3120. William Cornwell(Cornell)^{308,309,309}, born Abt. mars 1609 in Terling, Essex County, England; died 21 févr. 1678 in Middletown, Connecticut. He was the son of 6240. William Cornwell and 6241. Margery Haywarde. He married 3121. Mary Hyanno(?) Abt. 1639 in Hartford, Connecticut.

3121. Mary Hyanno(?)^{310,311}, born Abt. 1618 in Middletown, Connecticut; died 21 févr. 1678 in Middletown, Connecticut.

Notes for William Cornwell(Cornell):

According to Linda Coate Dudick:

William, the immigrant ancestor, is first listed in America in the Reverend John Elio's list of the members of his church in Roxbury, Massachusetts as William Cornwell and Joane Cornwell, the wife of William Cornwell, 1633. By 1636, he joined a group of settlers moving to Connecticut according to a "Commemorative Biographical Records of Middlesex Co., CT. (F-576.8) According to an unnamed genealogy on William Cornwell, his parents were William Cornwell and Joan Martyn instead of Margary Hayward and it's source was the Parish Records of Terling. I suspect from other writings that the author was a J. Ferren at Jferren1@cs.com. The Parish records however, only list his father, William.

In 1639 when the land records began in Hartford, Connecticut, he was already living there at #54, west of South Street, south from the Lane with eight acres of land in the village. He was not an original landowner of Hartford but was still one of it's earliest residents. Part of his lands were received for his services in the Pequot War.

A land inventory was taken of Hartford in 1639 where he is called "William Cornwell, Sergeant-at-arms". Some sources say that this title comes from the fact that he was a body guard for Charles I before emigrating to the new world, but this has not been proven. All indications from records in England is that he was a farmer, pure and simple. He emigrated to New England about the time he married and became a Puritan. Historian, Christopher Kylin, believes this would have been in the early 1630's. Shortly after his first marriage he travelled to the Americas in search of other opportunities. He is listed as a founder of Hartford in their monument in 1636. He was an Indian Fighter in the territories here, participating in what is now the famous Pequot Massacre of 1637 in Mystic, Connecticut. This is where he achieved the rank of Sergeant. He was one of 77 soldiers involved, 58 of them from Hartford, CT under John Mason, and 19 from Massachusetts under Capt. John Underhill. It is statistically likely that William had moved to Connecticut by 1637. In any case, he joined up under John Mason as his troops moved through Hartford on his way to Fort Saybrook. In 1638, he helped negotiate the purchase of Indian lands for the Stratford Colony in Connecticut. In 1639, he was granted a plot of land in Hartford and was called the "Sgt." in these records. By 1639, he supposedly had married again by the person of Christian name Mary. No marriage record has been able to be located, at a time period when marriage records were being documented. It is entirely possible that William's second wife was a common-law wife. (E)

One source, United Ancestries, a professional genealogical research group, published on CD-100 that Mary's maiden name was Hyanno. This happens to be the name of an Indian Princess of that time period. This was research done for Sharon L. Dodson and they gave her no sourcing for their work. (F-639) There is another family, the Bearce's that claims her in their line from: "Who our Forefathers Really Were. A True Narrative of our White and Indain Ancestors," by Franklin Ele-watum Bearse. It lists as proof a diary of one of her grandchildren where she was the wife of Augustine Bearse and was having children with him from 1640-1660 in Massachusetts. Bearse submitted this lineage to the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Connecticut during the depression hoping to gain financial assistance for his supposed "Indian Blood." Jacobus in the "The American Genealogist", Tol. XV (1938-9), disproved much of this document and considered the Mary Hyanno, wife of Augustine Bearse, to be highly suspect. The diary wasn't in existence in the Library of Congress as was stated in Bearse's work either. A professor in Florida discovered that even Bearse's middle name was not his name on his birth record, but made up to support his claim that he was descended from 3 Indian princesses. In 1937, he applied for a U.S. social security number about the same time he was submitting his lineage to the Indian Bureau, and claimed he was Schagticoke Indian.... with the middle name of Elewathum. (F-642)

Although the Bearce lineage can be easily dismissed, no first hand evidence has been found that Mary Hyanno is the wife of our William Cornwell either. There is some circumstantial evidence that supports this connection though. William was involved in negotiations with the tribe that Mary Hyanno was a member of. He appears to be the original land owner of sections of land on "Indian Hill" in Middletown, the town he helped found. (Could he have inherited this through a marriage to Mary Hyanno?) The fact that his 2nd marriage wasn't recorded in a time period when marriages were listed in the public records is possibly indicating that it could be because of a marriage to an Indian. (F-582)

They next were found living in Middletown (Mattabesek Settlement) on the Connecticut River, fifteen miles below Hartford. He could have actually moved to the Mattabesek settlement by as early as 1642. It appears that William had some land he was renting in Hartford previous to 1644, that he sublet out to a William Lewis. William Lewis defaulted on his payments, for which the landlord, Matthew Allen, sued him. The court case mentions the fact that Mr. Lewis had made arrangements with William Cornwall for the rental agreement. There are no other land transactions or records that suggest William continued to live in Hartford at the time of or after this court case.

William and Mary moved to the east side of the Connecticut river at Hocanum probably years before Mar. 5, 1648. On that date, he indentured his seven year old second son, William, to Susannah Hooker of Hartford, CT for his education.

According to the research of Christopher Kylin, he and his sons helped found Middletown and could have been some of it's earliest settlers around 1650 or 1651. They and their eldest son John lived next to each other near the present day corners of Main and Washington streets. (F-322) He owned 5 acres at the intersection of these streets and ten acres across the street from his home as well as 900 acres in Middletown and "a great lot over the Great River." He was granted 903 acres of this land on Mar 15, 1652, and the deed was recorded for it on Feb. 30, 1657. It is interesting to note that his will indicates that he owns multiple acres on Indian Hill (Indian lands before his ownership of them). (F-576)

William and family joined the church in Middletown on 3 Dec. 1668 shortly after it was founded. William became a representative from Middletown in the Colonial Legislature in 1654, 1664 and 1665. He was also a constable in 1664. A March 26, 1670 tax list gives 52 house holders in Middletown, CT, including him and three of his sons, the other two having stayed behind in Hartford. He was included in this list even though the General Court in 1667 had freed him from paying taxes, probably due to his age. Sons John, Samuel and William Jr. had accompanied him to Middletown. William's house was taxed or worth 160 lbs. at that time. (F-534)

He was 64 when he signed his will in 1674 and he called himself "well stricken in years and much abated in any natural strength." "William Cornwell, Senior, of Midletowne," gave to his son "John Cornwell so much addition to his present house lot out of my house lot as may make up his present house lot the full half of the whole," "...two acres of the meadow and swap at the riverlet" ...and "one half of that wood land in the south division of the land beyond the mill" ..the other half of this lot to his daughter Sarah Cornwell, ... to his "son William Cornwell ten acres of of land upon the Indian Hill" as well as "one third part of (his)0 land yet to be divided by the list of 1674 on the east side of the river, the other two thirds of the aforesaid land to (his) sons Samuel and Thomas equally to be divided between them"; to his "son Samuel one hundred acres of my wood lot at the Long Hill, the remainder to go to (his) son Jacob", to his "son Thomas what is aforesaid the remainder of (his) lot at the Indian Hill, the ten acres as above mentioned being taken out of it"; to his "daughter Hester Willcox (his) whole lot lying on the east side of the river"; to his "daughter Elizabeth Hall one parcel of upland lying in the Boggy Meadow Quarter"; to his "loving wife Mary Cornwell (his) house, homestead, all the buildings, household stuff and movables whatsoever with the remainder of (his) meadow at the riverlet .. during the term of her widowhood," She was told to maintain their daughter Sarah while she was single; after his wife's decease, he willed the "above mentioned house, household and meadow land at the riverlet to (his) son Jacob Cornwell." Jacob was told to pay his sister, Sarah, "one third part of the valuation of the forementioned housing and land" unless of course his wife remarried. In that case, when she died, their 3 daughters were to have the household stuffs divided amongst them.

The inventory of his estate on Feb 22, 1677 included a listing of his lands: The house, barn & 3 acres of land, 5 acres of meadow by the ferry, 10 acres of upland at the Indian Hill, 27 acres joining the other, 395 acres beyond the mill, 250 acres at the Long Hill, 65 acres in the Boggy Meadow Quarter, 24 acres over the Great River, 4 acres of pond and a great lot over the Great River.

He is probably buried in Riverside Cemetery, though no tombstones exist from that date. (F-322, 576) He actually spelled his name Cornell in all the Middletown, CT deeds and records I'm seen from him there.

This William, original immigrant, had a Thomas Cornell follow him shortly after he arrived who settled in Rhode Island. According to a Prentiss Glazier, William is the nephew through a half-brother to this Thomas of MA, NY and Rhode Island . (F-383, 576.6)

Notes for Mary Hyanno(?):
According to Linda Coate Dudick:

There is some suggestion that Mary is the Mary Hyanno or Mary "Little Dove", an Indian in that time period. No first hand evidence has yet been found to support this claim. (F-634) An entire Bearce line claims that this Mary Hyanno married an Augustine Bearce instead, but this is effectively put in question in the "American Genealogist", Vol. XV (1938-9). Catherine Judd and I have found further evidence that this Bearce line was first published by Franklin Bearce in the 1900's when he was trying to claim Indian ancestry during the depression to get help from the government. He added a middle Indian name which was not his name at birth or on his social security application and claimed to be descended from at least 3 Indian princesses, two of which Jacobus in the "American Genealogist" disproved. The third was Mary Hyanno but Jacobus considered it highly suspect because of all the falsehoods in the lineage. (F-642, 642a, 2376)

An LDS family file says that his second wife was named Mary Bull but this is a mix-up with their son William who married Mary Bull.

Mrs. Abigail Weller to Linda Coate Dudick Letter, July 25, 1977 at 1325 Cambridge Blvd., Columbus, Ohio 43212.

Children of William Cornwell(Cornell) and Mary Hyanno(?) are:

- i. Ebenezer Cornwell³¹²
- 1560 ii. John Cornwell, born avr. 1640 in Hartford, Connecticut; died 02 nov. 1707 in Middletown, Connecticut; married Martha Peck 08 juin 1665 in Middletown, Connecticut.
- iii. William Cornwell³¹², born 24 juin 1641; married Mary Bull.
- iv. Samuel Cornwell³¹², born sept. 1642; married Rebecca Bull.
- v. Jacob Cornwell³¹², born 16 sept. 1646; married Mary White.
- 1567 vi. Sarah Cornwell, born oct. 1647 in Hartford, Connecticut; married Daniel Hubbard 16 oct. 1675 in Middletown, Connecticut.
- vii. Thomas Cornwell, born sept. 1648³¹²; married Sarah Clarke.
- viii. Elisebeth Cornwell³¹², born janv. 1652; married John Hall.

3122. Paul Peck³¹², born Abt. 1618 in Essex County, England; died 23 déc. 1695 in Hartford, Connecticut. He married 3123. Martha Hale 1631 in Hartford, Connecticut.

3123. Martha Hale³¹², born 16 déc. 1618 in Watton, Stone Parish, Hertford, England; died Aft. 07 mars 1700 in Hartford, Connecticut. She was the daughter of 6246. John Hale and 6247. Martha Unknown.

Notes for Paul Peck:

According to Linda Coate Dudick:

Paul Peck was born in England, anywhere from 1608 to 1623. Ira Peck in A GENEALOGICAL HISTORY OF THE DESCENDANTS OF JOSEPH PECK states that it is believed he came to Boston in 1635 from Essex Co, England in the "Defence". No proof has been found to support this knowledge. He came to Hartford, Conn. in 1639 though not as an original proprietor. When he died in Hartford on 23 Dec. 1695, his age was recorded as 87. Jacobus believes this to be in error as he would have been too old for his wife and children and as he listed his age in the 60's in a 1683 reference. He was almost always referred to as "Deacon Paul Peck". He was the first preacher in Weathersfield, CT.

Jacobus and Savage are also related to this Paul Peck through his son Paul and granddaughter Ruth who married Samuel Sedgwick, Jr. The 10 children listed here are the children as Jacobus has researched them. They differ slightly with early versions of Savage and Ira Peck's book above for reasons explained in "The American Genealogist" vol. 9, p. 82-89 & 154.

In Paul's will, he lists his eldest son, Paul and grandson Samuel Peck (who lived with him). Samuel was to make payments to Paul's son-in-law, Joesph Benton and granddaughter Ruth Beach. His wife is to be paid annually by his sons (Paul and Joseph Peck), and four daughters, Martha Cornwell, Mary Andrews, Elizabeth Howe of Wallingford, and Sarah Clarke. Sons Paul and Joseph, and son-in-law John Shepherd were executors.

A possible sibling to Paul Peck, is William Peck, b. 1604, London. He died in Old Lyme, Ct. on Oct. 4, 1684. (F-415)

Bibliography:

Probate, 15 Jan 1695/96.

Will, 25 Jun 1695.

Notes for Martha Hale:

According to Linda Coate Dudick:

Martha's birth date was listed in either F-75, or 77 as 1618. In Savage's recent publication she is listed as born in 1622. In a medical entry by Gov. John Winthrop, physician, on 23 Mar 1666 she is listed at age 45 making her birth date around 1621 like in CD 100. CD-100 also gives a different birthplace, Kings Waldon, ENG. However, it is now accepted by genealogists that her age of 45 was a general estimate. Her baptismal record has been found in Watton, ENG as the daughter of John and Martha Hale dated 1618. In this medical record it states that she was the sister of Samuel Hale of Wethersfield and Thomas Hale of Charlestown, Mass.

She is likely the Martha Peck in the court records in Mar 7 1699/1700 bringing suit against Paul and Samuel Peck for refusing to make payments to her as willed by her husband. These are probably her son, Paul, and his son Samuel. (C-466c) This was settled out of court. However, If Sheryl Gustafson's death date for her of June 25, 1695 is accurate, than this court case does not apply to our Martha. (F-495)

This family supposedly came from "Woten-on-the-Edge", Gloucester, England. This could be another name for "Walden" which is a part of the place names for Martha's possible preceding generations.

It should be noted that there is still some controversy on her parentage as written in TAG Vol 38, p. 237 by S. Allyn Peck, "Have we Found the Parents of Thomas, Samuel, and Martha Hale of Connecticut?"

3227. Mary Preston^{352,353}, born Bef. 13 déc. 1629 in Chesham, Bucks County, England.

Notes for Peter Mallory:

According to Karen Coate Dudick:

"Supposedly, all of the American Mallory's come from the same original line back to Richard Mallore who lived between the reigns of King Stephen and King Henry II around 1135-1189. His descendants include many lords and ladies. It is likely that the family first gained lands and recognition when fighting with William the Conqueror, as the surname first appears in English records of the time."

3241. Jane Unknown³⁵⁹, died 10 sept. 1662 in Windsor, Hartford, Connecticut.

Notes for Sgt. Thomas Barber:

According to Don Barber:

"Before coming to New England Thomas was apprenticed on 18 Dec 1634 for a period of 9 years (until December 1643) under Francis STILES, a master carpenter from Millbrook, Bedfordshire, England. Stiles was contracted by Sir Richard SALTONSTALL to bring apprentices to Windsor, and to build houses in America for Englishmen who were to follow. Thomas Barber at the age of 21 was among the twenty apprentices plus others who sailed with Stiles for New England in the ship "Christian" (John White, Master), which left London 16 Mar 1634 (Julian Calendar), and arrived 3 months later in Boston June 1635. Each of the passengers had a certificate which read in part: "with certificate from St. Mildred, Bread Street, London, and having taken the oaths, to be transported to New England from London in the "Christian". [~ from the Public Record Office, Westminster Hall, London ~]

After 10 days at Boston the Christian sailed up the Connecticut River to Windsor, arriving there on the first of July 1635. That same year Thomas was granted a lot of a few acres, extending from Mill Brook, near the old Warham gristmill, north along both sides of Poquonock Avenue. The author's father was born on this same land, and my brother, sister, and I were brought up on this, the original land grant. After 330 years of continuous Barber ownership, the land has now all been sold.

The Pequot War in 1637, which according to the settlers was precipitated by the Pequot Indians and their continual harassment of the settlers, the friendly Mohegan Indians, and sometimes the Narragansetts, found Thomas a Sargeant, one of 30 soldiers from Windsor who were enrolled under Major Stoughton for 3 weeks and 2 days. Under the leadership of Captain John MASON, the May 26 1637 night attack on the Pequot fort was a complete surprise to the sleeping Pequots, and a large percentage of the tribe was massacred. Thomas Barber's bravery (he was inside the Pequot Fort at Mystic during the attack, and along with Edward Pattison, "having no time to reload their muskets, slew seven fleeing Indians with axes and knives"), gained him honorable mention from Capt. Mason, and in return for this service, in 1641 he was granted 600 acres of land in Massaco, in the western part of Windsor. Massaco became Simsbury in 1669.

On March 28, 1637 Francis Stiles (master carpenter) was ordered to teach his servants, George Chapple, Thomas Cooper and Thomas Barber in the trade of carpentry. The year 1645 found Thomas still an apprentice carpenter. Stiles apparently was slow to finish Thomas's apprenticeship, and needed a court order to force him to do so. Shortly after that Thomas was a free man. At the time of his death in 1662, Thomas may have been making preparations to move to Northampton MA, where he was offered a home lot and 20 acres.

Life was apparently not completely peaceful for Thomas BARBER. Court records in 1649 show that he was found liable for a debt to William FRANKLIN. Thomas claimed that he had given the money to Thomas FORD to pay to Franklin. Then in 1650 Sargeant Barber was fined 5 pounds and forced to surrender his rank, for the disorderly striking of Lt. COOKE in an argument over church matters; Thomas believed that the church had no right to interfere in temporal matters. This penalty was later canceled when apparently Thomas apologized: "he is affected with his great evil and rash passionate carriage in striking the Lt."

A deep mystery surrounds Jane, wife of Thomas. He married her in 1640, but the written record by Matthew Grant gives only the name Jane or Joan. Two of Thomas's sons married COGGIN ladies, but there is little sign that Jane was a Coggin, as some have suggested. One report (LDS record) has it that Jane COGGIN, b Bedfordshire ENG 1619 was daughter of John COGGIN, b in Bedford, Bedfordshire about 1593.

It has also been suggested that Thomas BARBER married Jane BANCROFT, widow of John BANCROFT who died in 1637. Jane Bancroft had ties to Windsor thru her daughter Anna, b 1627, who married 1647 John GRIFFIN of Windsor and Simsbury, and her son John, born about 1620, who married in 1650 Hannah DUPPER and had a family in Windsor. But Jane BONYTHON who married John BANCROFT was born in 1573, and would have been way too old to have borne Thomas BARBER's children. This theory against the wife being Jane Bancroft was written up in The American Genealogist, Vol 37, p 164, in 1961 by George E McCracken and more or less disproved at that time. He points out that she would have had to have borne children for too long a time span - highly unlikely, and also she would have had 2 sons named John and 2 named Thomas - also unlikely. Another account has John BANCROFT born about 1596, died 1637, m. Jane about 1622. That would have meant she was born about 1606 or before, making her about 47 in 1653 when Thomas's youngest child Josiah Barber was born - not impossible, but very unlikel

It has been said by some that Thomas may have married the daughter of one of the Dutch traders at Old Saybrook, or Hartford, and also that the one he married was "the first white woman to land in Connecticut".

One of Francis STILES' sisters was named Jane, born 1605. She married in England and presumably remained there. There was a Jane MORDEN or WORDEN, age 35 (in 1635), on the passenger list of the Christian; however I know nothing further about her. It seems she was too old to have borne all of Thomas's children.

There seems as yet no way of knowing who Jane was (an all too frequent problem in genealogy). [~ Windsor Hist Soc: Jay Mack Holbrook, 1992; 1909 Barber Gen; Barbour Index; Lyman Barber Gen; Stiles: Windsor; Lure of the Litchfield Hills ~]"

Children of Thomas Barber and Jane Unknown are:

Notes for William Cornwell:

According to Linda Coate Dudick:

IGI files give a couple other possible parents for a William Cornwall. William chr. 20 Nov 1577, Morval, Cornwall, ENG, son of John or chr. 24 Jul 1575, Heveningham, Suffolk, ENG, son of Gabriell Cornewall. (F-371, F-376) Savage's book has a better reputation for accuracy than any time matches in I.G.I. and so I've chosen the line as is. I do not know the children or spouses of either of these I.G.I. listings.

He is also listed with only one spouse in the Terling, England Parish records: Joan Martyn when they married on Nov. 23, 1602 and two children, William and Thomas Cornwell. The sources for their children are not of substance. (F-639) 6461. Elizabeth Cleverly³⁹⁷, born Abt. 1624 in England; died 1681 in New Haven, New Haven County, Connecticut.

Notes for Samuel Hotchkiss:

According to Linda Coate Dudick:

"Samuel is listed as the 4th son in his father's will. He and his other siblings were given 10 pounds each in the will. Samuel appeared to be the only son not living in Whitchurch, England at the writing of his father's will in 1656. This information comes from a book out on this Samuel that could be useful to obtain, "The Hotchkiss Family, First Six Generations: Descendants of Samuel Hotchkiss (ca. 1622-1663) of New Haven, Connecticut" by Nellie Cowdell. He was one of the original founders of New Haven, Connecticut in 1638. According to Virkus, he came over with the Davenport Colony that came on the "Hector" in June 1637. Some less respected sources give his arrival date at 1642 or 1643 instead. Samuel and Elizabeth sounded like they were a couple very much attracted to each other and paid a severe price for it at the time. "For their filthy dalliance together, which was confessed by them both, they were both severely whipped." Then later when they came to ask for permission to get married "having entered into contract, sinfully and wickedly defiled each other with filthy dalliance and unclean passages, by which they have both made themselves unfit for any other, and for which they have both received public correction, upon these considerations, granted them liberty to marry." This occurred in 1642. Samuel was apparently accused of theft, and for sleeping on his watch for which he was also beaten. In 1652, he purchased a home and lot from John Thompson. In 1655, he was assigned a seat in the meeting house next to the soldier's seats and his wife was given one on the women's side. In June 1664 he attended the General Court in New Haven. On Aug. 4, 1664 he took the oath of fidelity. Upon his death, his estate was valued at 86 pounds, 18 shillings. He was listed as Samuel, Sr. He is the ancestor of Emma Hale, the wife of Prophet Joseph, Smith, Jr."

Notes for George Cornwell:
According to Linda Coate Dudick:

Here are two of my theories on the parentage of George Cornwell. The first is from a book entitled "The Visitation of Essex, 1552". A census that listed family lineages was taken in Essex in 1552. For Cornwell it says that George was the second son of Humphrey Cornwell and Mary Mannoke (of Stoke Gyfford, Nayland, Suffolk Co. England) his siblings being first born, Thomas - heir, and third born Fraunces and sisters Jane, Margaret, Elizabeth and Fraunces. His father, Humphrey was the second son, but became heir when his older brother John died without male issue. They were the sons of Thomas who was the son of John. This original John listed was an "esquyer" of Haverell in the county of Essex. The only evidence so far that this is this George's line is that it included a son George of appropriate age in Essex County. (F-344)

The second theory of George's parentage is simply a listing of his peers named Cornwell living in Terling at the same time he was. These could be cousins or brothers. I've listed them in probable order of oldest to youngest by the years their children were born: John, Henry, (our George), Thomas, and Richard. (F-385)

Our George likely had a son Thomas by his second wife, who moved to MA, NY and then Rhode Island, shortly after George's son, William moved to Connecticut. (F-576.6)

I have disagreeing sources on his death date. My death date of before 1595 would not be correct if George was buried on 21 Dec. 1602 as in a lineage from Gale Cornwell. This burial supposedly took place at Terling Church, Terling, Essex Co., England. (F-641)
