

Ancestors of Emily A. Burd

Generation No. 1

1. Emily A. Burd, born 28 Oct 1909 in Mine Hill, Morris Co., NJ. Federal Census New Jersey 1910. Delayed Birth Certificate One Year died 01 Jun 1991 in Tampa, Florida (Source: Florida Death Record #003370). She was the daughter of 2. Stewart E. Burd, Jr and 3. Anni Hulmes. She married (1) William Ebnetter 04 Sep 1926 in Little Falls, New Jersey. He was born 10 May 1896 in Weehawken, Hudson Co., NJ, and died 01 Jun 1980 in Dover, Morris Co., NJ. He was the son of Joseph Anton Ebnetter and Barbara Thalmann.

Notes for Emily A. Burd:

Emily A. Burd is listed as Emma in the 1910 Census. Her delayed birth certificate says Emily A. Burd with date of birth as 28 Oct 1910, but in the 1910 Census she was already eight months old. She was listed as Anna in a New York state census when she lived with her Uncle William H. Bird and Grandmother Alice Benjamin Bird Edwards in New York state for a brief period.

From Emily's granddaughter and daughter of Bill Ebnetter, Sue, 25 Nov 1940 - 10 Oct 2000.

Now in the after-life is a wonderful woman, my grandmother, Emily A. Burd Ebnetter. This woman was a powerful influence on my life. She lived through many trials and tribulations. She came out of those times each time stronger than ever. I want to share with you the woman, the grandmother I once knew.

Gramie (as I knew her) was born October 28, 1909 in Mine Hill, Morris County, New Jersey. Gramie's mom died when she was very young. Gramie would say, "When you're left without a mother, you learn to be tough and prided herself on being brave and strong. Relatively, fear was non-existent in her life. She always said that when your time is up, your time is up.

As a young girl she had to lift heavy milk cans and drive a wagon pulled by a horse. This made her physically strong which enabled her to protect herself at least one occasion when a boy picked on her and she beat him up. 'Till this day a chuckle to my heart, I could just see her doing that too.

Before Gramie married my grandfather, whom I knew as Pop-Pop, he worked in a factory. I can recall her telling me about making cardboard boxes. She married Pop-Pop when she was only sixteen, but she turned seventeen a month later. Her cousin, Margaret, remembered her wanting children so she would push a baby doll around in a stroller.

Gramie gave birth to four children - all boys. So when I came along grandchild, a girl at that, I was spoiled rotten. All four of her sons grew well respected, hard workers, intelligent men. I'm sure she made them that line as they were growing up as she did my sister and me when we were with her. When her boys were late coming home she would go out looking for them. Once found, she would whip them on the spot with a willow switch. I can remember those switches myself.

After her children were in school, Gramie worked at a shirt company. She also took in laundry. She was always taking odd jobs like washing floors, gift wrapping, etc. around the holidays for extra money for Christmas. Gramie worked hard all her life.

When my father was four or five years old, Gramie & Pop-Pop built their family home in Ledgewood, New Jersey. Gramie lived in this same home until she was about 79 years old in 1988 when she moved to Florida. This was her perfect home. Gramie was the best homemaker I've ever known. She made always delicious foods, mostly from the garden. Gramie canned and made jellies every year. She baked lots of cookies at Christmas time. I especially loved those almond cookie press Christmas trees. She sewed a lot too. Her home was always clean with everything in its place. I remember those spring cleaning every year, when we cleaned everything everywhere, top to bottom.

Not only was the inside of the home kept in perfect order, so was the outside. The lawn and gardens were immaculate. Gramie loved flowers and shrubs and put them everywhere. One side of the home was dedicated to the vegetable garden, fruit trees, and rose bushes. I can remember weeding the tulip beds that ran along the driveway.

Gramie was a caretaker at heart. Not only did she take care of her children, and animals, she also took care of her father whenever he was ill. He would come and stay with Gramie when he was ill. Then, later in life she took care of my sister, Lorrie, and me, her grandchildren.

It was rare that Lorrie or I had any chores to do, other than being responsible for our rooms. She took the attitude on washing dishes that the mess was not worth making trying to help would not be worth it. She always did the cooking and washed dishes by herself. Everyone was to stay out of the kitchen until she was done.

Gramie had a strong will, bred into her from her youth. Gramie stayed married to and loved Pop-Pop until his death. Gramie went through the depression during her twenties, which was a feat in itself, with a family to support. She said Pop-Pop always worked and that he was a hard worker. Those rough years are what made her the woman I knew.

The woman I knew settled for nothing less than the best. No two words about it. Lorrie and I lived with Gramie and Pop-Pop for four years during our childhood. Our clothes and possessions were always top of the line. I can remember the best of times.

If you asked Gramie what nationality she was, she would tell you 100% Yankee, meaning she was 100% American. She might be surprised to know that she had distinguished ancestors going back to the early colonial days of our nation. She was 100% American.

Gramie had a soft spot for children (especially girls) and animals. When she was about five years old, she had about thirteen cats and three dogs. She had Persian and angora cats and German Shepherd dogs. She had several German Shepherds, one after the other, all named Bullet.

Gramie was in her late 50's and early 60's when Lorrie and I lived with her. Lorrie and I agree that those years were the best years of our childhood. At that time, she made sure we went to church every Sunday. I had received pins from Sunday School for perfect attendance three years in a row. She sent me to Brownies and Girl Scouts. Lorrie was sent to baton twirling and gymnastics classes. Without a doubt, we were well taken care of.

Gramie went through many surgeries during her lifetime, numbering in the teens. She was even a cancer survivor, twice. In the end, it was repeated strokes that took her life. Gramie made a powerful impact on my life. I am grateful for the time I was graced to spend with her. If I had to choose, she definitely would be mine.

Notes for Welch B. Bird:

Listed as Lock Tender on birth record of son, Stewart E. Bird born Ginnington, NJ (Guinea Hollow) - may have been named for the man who worked the locks there.

Lock Tender, Lock 2 (later 4) West, 1860-ca.1863

Lock Tender, Lock 3 (later 2) East, ca. 1863 (work record from B.C. Bird)
Died of consumption at age 45

Notes for Christiann Seals:

The Marriage Record for Welch and Christiana gives her parent's name as Joseph and Mary Anna Searles. This record is under the name of Welch rather than Welch. Christiana's age is given as 25 yrs at time of marriage.

In some records Christiann's first name ends with an "a" and her last name as Searles. The name seems to have developed from Searles to Seals with the passage of time.

1850 Census for The Township of Washington, Morris County, NJ
Sep 1850 lists Joseph Seals and Mary Ann his wife with children Susan, Isaac, and Robert. Christiann's death certificate gives parents as Joseph or Scates and Mary Ann Scales or Scates. First Marriage Certificate for Stewart E. Bird lists name of Mother as Searles or Seales. Stewart E. Bird's death information given by his second wife gives the last name as Seals.

From a Sussex County newspaper:

"DROWNED--About 9 o'clock on Saturday evening, the 2d of the late storm was at its height, William Bird, aged about 21; Joseph Bird, fell into Bagot's Lock, on the Morris Canal, between Waterloo and Hackettstown, and was drowned. In company with his brothers, John and Welch Bird, he set out to cross the canal on a bridge near his father's house, but, making a misstep, he fell in which had at the time only about 6 feet water in it. Welch plunged after him, and John shouted for help. Their father and mother came to the cry, and the latter reached the lock first--Mr. Bird lingering long enough to light a lantern and procure a pole: The boys in the meantime not get out by climbing--it being smoothly planked on all sides. The only means brought by the father was the only means by which they could be rescued. But William, who was badly bruised by the fall, was beyond help when his father arrived. Welch had barely strength enough to take hold of the pole, and he was thus drawn out of the lock. The body was rescued from the water by procuring a small boat from the Musconetcong; launching it upon the canal, and floating it in. (Sent by Bob Goller whose friend, Kevin Wright, discovered

Dec 1891 In Service

This information from a notebook written apparently between by James Powers, the last supervisor of the Middle Division of Canal, which encompassed the portion from Ledgewood to the Hollow lock, west of Waterloo.

Description of the Morris Canal west of Waterloo by Robert
"Not very far west of Waterloo, the canal joined with the Musconetcong River at a lift lock, Lock 4 West. This was a place locally known as Guinea Hollow, where Morris Bird lived and worked as lock tender many years, probably right up to the time he died, and where he lived and worked as lock tender before him. (Originally, for complicated to explain here, this lock was known in earlier times probably when Welch was there-as Lock 2 West) Boats heading locked into the Musconetcong at Lock 4 West and continued slackwater navigation of the dammed river for a mile to the gate at Saxton Falls, Lock 5 West (originally unnumbered). There the river separated again, and boats locked back into the canal."

Further information from Bob Goller: Elsie Claus ran a tavern at Hollow on the Musconetcong River in the 1960's and 1970's at Claus's Inn. The property at the present time, 1997, is for sale with liquor license, $175, 000 without. The structure is posted as unsafe and there is no city water or sewerage.

Morris was listed as a grocer in the 1870 Census living in an household with his brother John Hance Bird (farmer) and Ann

Benjamin Chamberlain was a patriot of the Revolutionary War. He was a farmer and shoemaker and attended the Sparta, New Jersey Presbytery. He provided material and made shoes for the American soldiers during the Revolutionary War, foregoing payment until the successful completion of the war. This fact enabled him to be recognized as a patriot who performed an "overt act" against the authority of Great Britain.

Notes for Thomas Keepers:

"The Development of Jefferson Township A Record of the People, Events and Industry 1700-1900"

pages 47 and 48 "The Keepers family line began with Thomas who came from England to settle in Milton, New Jersey sometime before 1800, in which he was conveyed a tract of land by a Samuel Ogden. It was on this plot of land that he later built and operated the Russia Forge, for which he became well known. His land holdings also included a farm which he actively cultivated... Thomas had three brothers, Joseph, John, and William, who also resided in the northern section of Jefferson. There are no records on Joseph, and those pertaining to John and William deal with their service in the military. They both fought in the American Revolution, William serving as a member of the Morris County Militia in Crane's company. William was wounded in a battle at Botolph's Clump, New Jersey, and John was captured by the British and imprisoned. In connection with this an interesting incident is recorded. John made good his escape from the barracks in which he was imprisoned by sprinkling gunpowder around the structure while the British officers slept off a great deal of whiskey. When the gunpowder was lit, it so scared the officers that John and those imprisoned with him were able to escape."

70. Christopher Huffman, born 02 May 1746 (Source: Genealogical Magazine of New Jersey Vol 49 Number 3 Sep 1974 page 100 and Sussex County Wills, Book A, p. 26); died 20 Sep 1804 (Source: Genealogical Magazine of New Jersey Vol 49 Number 3 Sep 1974 page 100 and Sussex County Wills, Book A, p. 26). He married 71. Amey Abt. 1784 in Sussex County, New Jersey.

71. Amey, died Unknown.

Notes for Christopher Huffman:

Will Book A Will of Christopher Huffman of Mansfield Woodhouse, Sussex Co., dated 21 Mar 1801 probated 6 Oct 1804. Mentioned in his will were "my" wife Amey, daughters, Else Flock, Elizabeth Shiner, Mary (Ayres), granddaughter, Mary Shiner, grandsons, Christopher Huffman, Christopher Shiner, sons-in-law, John Flock, Andrew Shiner, and Aro. Executors were "my wife," Ammey Huffman and Nicholas Neighbor. Witnesses were Elisha Bird, John Bird, and Jacob Andrews.

In an e-mail dated 24 Jan 2002 Margorie Erlebach wrote in reference to Christopher:

I did find in the N.J. Genealogical Magazine that he is buried in the Great Valley Union Churchyard County. I also have information that he had a farm in Beattystown, in Sussex (Warren) Co a few years before his death he bought 800 acres across the river in Monmouth (Hollingshead Tract).

In the 1773-1774 Knowlton Twp. Tax List there is a Henery Huffman Philip Huffman. In 1774 Newton Twnp. Tax List, Sussex County there is a Jacob and a Philip Huffman. I also searched the Knowlton Presbyterian records and found a Henry Hoffman and wife Gertauta as sponsors for children. (This was spelled "Hoffman".)

I have also been searching in German records. In a book written by H. J. "Westerwald to America" he lists a Johannes Henrich Hoffmann who came to U.S. on ship Two Brothers 1749 with wife Anna Gertraud (same name as in Knowlton records). He had two children Anna Maria b. 1743 and John Matthias born 1744. There was a blank year for 1746 that our Christopher may have been born. I had a researcher read the German records from Hochstenbach, but she did not find our Christopher born in 1746.

In an email dated 2 May 2002 Marjorie Erlebach wrote:
I am still trying to find out the source of the information being spread that Christopher Huffman, born 2 May 1746 is the son of Henry Huffman and Charity. I did find a source. I found a Heinrich Huffman and Gertrude Charity, his wife in the Knowlton Sussex County Lutheran and Reformed church records as witnesses to several children's baptisms but not find birth of any of their children in these records. I found a record of a Henrich and Gertrude in Henry Jones book who gave their birth place. I looked at a German film from this period and found where he left to come to America with 2 children, but Christopher was not listed.

107. Phebe Leonard, born 22 Aug 1723 in Bridgewater, Massachusetts. died 08 Feb 1748/49 in Mendham, New Jersey. She was the daughter of Ephraim Leonard and 215. Martha Perkins.

Notes for Eliab Byram:

Graduated from Harvard College in 1740. Preached at Rocksiticus Mendham, in October of 1743 when scarcely twenty-five years old. Dr. Brainerd took Eliab with him on his trip to preach and work with the Delaware and the Susquehanna Nations in 1744. Rev. Brainerd's Journals show the congenial:

(128-129) Monday October 1 (1744) " ...Towards night rode about four days and met brother Byram; who was come at my desire, to be my companion on travel to the Indians. I rejoiced to see him; and, I trust, God made his conversation profitable to me: I saw him, as I thought, more dead to the world and its anxious cares, and alluring objects than I was..."

In 1746 Rev. Eliab Byram journeyed to preach to the settlers in August in Virginia. Presbyterians in Falling Spring and Providence, Virginia called him to serve in 1747, but he remained in New Jersey.

In 1751 Rev Byram was made Clerk of the Presbyterian Synod and the following year was installed as the settled pastor of the Presbyterian Church in "Amwell" now Raeville, New Jersey. Notes for Francois LeSueur:

Francois Le Sueur was a civil engineer. He came to America which

Long Island; then moved to New Harlem in 1661. He had just completed engineering work for the town site of Harlem at that time. Early in 1661 he moved to Harlem because of excessive taxation, going to Esopus, NY. Francois was a soldier in the Esopus Indian War. Because of failing health, he returned to New Harlem with his family about 1670. He died the next year at New Harlem.

Francois Le Sueur died when Nicholas Lozier was about three years old. Nicholas was raised by his Dutch mother and her relatives who imparted Dutch customs to him. When Nicholas married, he moved from Harlem to Hackensack, NJ to farm. He purchased the farm from agents of King William of England. It remained in the Lozier family until 1930. It is shown on the 1848 Erskine maps used by Gen. Geo. Washington as "Lurziers" house and Hill"

from "Lozier Descendants of Francois Le Sueur" by Theodore Woodworth. Nicholas Lozier retired in Arkansas LDS Film 1321074
