Notes for ROBERT J "RED" HERON:

Played NHL hockey for 4 years, from 1938-39 until 1941-42. He played for the Maple Leafs for three years, and for split one year between the New York Americans and the Montreal Canadiens.

Career statistics:	GP	G	A	P	PIM
1938-39 - Toronto	6	0	0	0	0
1939-40 - Toronto	42	11	12	23	12
1940-41 - Toronto	35	9	5	14	12
Leaf totals	83	20	17	37	24
Playoffs	16	2	2	4	55

He wore numbers 16,17, and 18 during his Leaf career. He ended up traded to the New York Americans for 1941-42. (Images of Glory: Leaf history)

1941-42 - Montreal	23	1	2	3	14

He wore number 12 during his stay with Montreal.

He played the first part of the season with the New York Americans, and then was sold to the Habs. Although I do not have the statistics from NY, the statistics could of been combined from both teams. His coach was Dick Irvin, his 2nd year as coach of the Habs. He was rebuilding the team. He just left Toronto, so Red Heron had him as coach before. Hector "Toe" Blake was captain of the team. It was a particularly bad year for the Habs, as they finished in second last place only four points ahead of the New York Americans. The Leafs new manager Frank Selke (replacing Conn Smythe) and coach Hap Day won the Stanley Cup. Also, the New York Americans changed their name to the Brooklyn Americans. They were also selling off players, so that is why he ended up with Montreal. (from The Montreal Canadiens: A History by Claude Mouton).

Red Geatrex Heron

Centre Red Heron played parts of four seasons in the NHL with three different teams in the 30s and 40s. In addition to his 106-game big league tenure, he was a solid amateur and senior hockey player.

Born in Toronto, Heron played junior with the local Marlboros, Native Sons and West Toronto Nationals. He then played senior with the Toronto Goodyears and led the OHA in scoring in 1936 and 1938. The young pivot played six games with the Toronto Maple Leafs in 1938-39 but gained most his experience that year with the Syracuse Stars of the AHL. The next season Heron scored 11 goals playing with Gus Marker and Pete Langelle and helped Toronto reach the finals where they lost to the New York Rangers in six games.

During the 1940-41 season Heron continued as a solid checker and contributed nine goals but the Leafs were knocked out in the semifinals. The following October there was no longer room for him on the deep Toronto roster so he was loaned to the Brooklyn Americans along with Marker and Nick Knott for Lorne Carr. After 11 games the Americans loaned him to the Montreal Canadiens for a months before he was relegated to the AHL. After playing three years of senior hockey with the Research Colonels, Toronto Staffords and the RCAF in Hogtown and Rockcliffe, he retired in 1945.
