Generation No. 2

- 2. Johann August Rudolf² Gronau (Martin¹) was born 26 Feb 1839 in Lissniewo, Karthaus, West Prussia, and died 23 Nov 1903 in Elgin, Antelope, Nebraska. He married Wilhelmine Karolina Skibbe 1860 in Mickrow Parish, Stolp, Pomerania, Prussia, daughter of Matthias Skib/ Skibbe. She was born 21 Jan 1840 in Pomerania, Prussia, and died 05 Sep 1910 in Elgin, Antelope, Nebraska.

Notes for Johann August Rudolf Gronau:

My Gronau family was originally from Neu Vargow, a small block of houses in the Village of Vargow, Stolp, Pomerania, Prussia. It's local Parish was the town of Mickrow. In 1871, after Otto Von Bismarck's victory in the Franco-Prussian War, Prussia was incorporated into the new German Confederacy. The County of Stolp was in East Pomerania. It remained a German possession until 1945.

After World War II, Prussia was dissolved by the Allies and Pomerania was divided into two regions. The Western region remained German; the Eastern was annexed by Russia and became provinces of Poland. After the Russian Annexation, nearly all Germans from Polish Pomerania were killed or expelled by the Russian Army.

The German history of Pomerania is nearly unknown to the Polish people living there today. Most of the old documents of these former German areas are now in Germany. Mickrow is now called Mikorowo and situated in Slupsk, Pomorskie, Poland.

The Clearwater Cemetery in Nebraska has many deaths dated from 1903 to 1905 of various ages, including Johann Gronau (1839) and his son Robert Gronau (1885). I think there may have been a diphtheria epidemic in the area at that time but this hypothesis hasn't been confirmed as of 8/2003.

History of Antelope County Nebraska

... Elgin Churches, Trinity Lutheran Church

The beginnings of Trinity Congregation go back to the year 1893. A number of Lutheran families around Elgin had been attending services at the Lutheran Church near Clearwater Creek for some time. At their request the Rev. Henry Koester of Clearwater Creek began conducting services in the public school house three miles west of Elgin. The next two years services were held in the Reinhard Papke home two miles west of Elgin, and for two years after that in the Richard A. Ganskow home three miles west of Elgin. Following that, they again conducted services in the public school until they moved to their permanent quarters in Elgin.

In 1903 the Rev. F. Neben accepted the call to the Clearwater Creek Parish. Under his leadership, Trinity Congregation organized on September 24, 1905, with seven charter members, namely, Richard A. Ganskow, Friedrich Glampe, Hermann Glampe, Heinrich Gronau, Johann Gronau, Reinhard Papke, and John Pinnt. The first officers were John Pinnt, elder, and Reinhardt Papke, treasurer.

In 1906 the congregation decided to build a church in Elgin. They set to work immediately and completed the church the same year. They dedicated the church on January 20, 1907. The church cost $1,800.00. One thousand five hundred dollars of this amount was paid in cash and the balance of $300 was paid some years later...

The move to South Dakota....

*Some information taken from Clifford Schwarting and Lavern Krone.

Around 1918 Nebraska was plagued with tornados, disease, poor crops and Anti-German sentiment. "Anti-Americanism" laws passed in Nebraska during the end of World War I. These laws made it illegal to speak or teach German in public schools and churches. Telephone operators were even instructed to distort German language telephone calls. The disparate German communities throughout Nebraska were harassed by official policies. When laws were not effective, the Klu Klux Klan was enlisted to persuade German-Americans to "forget" their ways. Eventually, German-American Culture, Food, Language and Customs were abandoned in Nebraska. Meanwhile, the US Government opened the former Sioux Indian territories of Roberts County, South Dakota to white settlement at extremely low prices.

Seeing opportunity, the Gronau brothers, Johann, Heinrich and Julius moved north with their families from Madison and Antelope counties Nebraska. Unfortunately, South Dakota's land was riddled with glacial stones and poor land. Johann Gronau (1867) purchased three farms and planted flax. After the first harvest, no other crop would grow. He eventually went bankrupt in South Dakota. A similar fate affected Julius and Heinrich. Most of their children would move to Minnesota, Michigan, and Washington State and even back to Nebraska. Some remained farmers but most pursued other occupations. Of those who stayed in farming, like my Grandfather John August Rudolf Gronau (1902), life was tenuous, uncertain, and often filled with struggle. Few farmers thrived.
