Frank Boring, the third child of Mr & Mrs James Boring, was fatally injured by a work train on the TP & W Railway at Forrest, Thursday, from the effects of which he died two hours later.

Frank about two months ago started working for the TP & W. At the time of the accident, he was standing on the flat car of the work train next to the caboose, when a sudden lurch threw a number off. Young Boring fell under the deadly wheels, one of which passed over the middle of his body.

The company made up a train at once and brought the young man, who was still alive, to his father's house in this city, reaching here a few minutes before one o'clock. He lived but a short time after his arrival home. The funeral was conducted from the home Saturday afternoon conducted by Rev. D. W. Smith. He was an exemplary young man.
