Irish Palatine Story on the Internet

in Irish Palatine Association Journal, No. 7 December 1996]

The Palatinate or German PFALZ, was, in German history, the land of the Count Palatine, a title held by a leading secular prince of the Holy Roman Empire. Geographically, the Palatinate was divided between two small territorial clusters: the Rhenish, or Lower Palatinate, and the Upper Palatinate. The Rhenish Palatinate included lands on both sides of the Middle Rhine River between its Main and Neckar tributaries. Its capital until the 18th century was Heidelberg. The Upper Palatinate was located in northern Bavaria, on both sides of the Naab River as it flows south toward the Danube and extended eastward to the Bohemian Forest. The boundaries of the Palatinate varied with the political and dynastic fortunes of the Counts Palatine.

The Palatinate has a border beginning in the north, on the Moselle River about 35 miles southwest of Coblenz to Bingen and east to Mainz, down the Rhine River to Oppenheim, Guntersblum and Worms, then continuing eastward above the Neckar River about 25 miles east of Heidelberg then looping back westerly below Heidelberg to Speyer, south down the Rhine River to Alsace, then north-westerly back up to its beginning on the Moselle River.

The first Count Palatine of the Rhine was Hermann I, who received the office in 945. Although not originally hereditary, the title was held mainly by his descendants until his line expired in 1155, and the Bavarian Wittelsbachs took over in 1180. In 1356, the Golden Bull ( a papal bull: an official document, usually commands from the Pope and sealed with the official Papal seal called a Bulla) made the Count Palatine an Elector of the Holy Roman Empire. During the Reformation, the Palatinate accepted Protestantism and became the foremost Calvinist region in Germany.

After Martin Luther published his 95 Theses on the door of the castle church at Wittenberg on 31 October 1517, many of his followers came under considerable religious persecution for their beliefs. Perhaps for reasons of mutual comfort and support, they gathered in what is known as the Palatine. These folk came from many places, Germany, Holland, Switzerland and beyond, but all shared a common view on religion.

The protestant Elector Palatine Frederick V (1596-1632), called the "Winter King" of Bohemia, played a unique role in the struggle between Roman Catholic and Protestant Europe. His election in 1619 as King of Bohemia precipitated the Thirty Years War that lasted from 1619 until 1648. Frederick was driven from Bohemia and in 1623, deposed as Elector Palatine.

During the Thirty Years War, the Palatine country and other parts of Germany suffered from the horrors of fire and sword as well as from pillage and plunder by the French armies. This war was based upon both politics and religious hatreds, as the Roman Catholic armies sought to crush the religious freedom of a politically-divided Protestantism.

Many unpaid armies and bands of mercenaries, both of friends and foe, devoured the substance of the people and by 1633, even the catholic French supported the Elector Palatine for a time for political reasons.

During the War of the Grand Alliance (1689-97), the troops of the French monarch Louis XIV ravaged the Rhenish Palatinate, causing many Germans to emigrate. Many of the early German settlers of America (e.g. the Pennsylvania Dutch) were refugees from the Palatinate. During the French Revolutionary and Napoleonic Wars, the Palatinate's lands on the west bank of the Rhine were incorporated into France, while its eastern lands were divided largely between neighbouring Baden and Hesse.

Nearly the entire 17th century in central Europe was a period of turmoil as Louis XIV of France sought to increase his empire. The War of the Palatinate (as it was called in Germany), aka The War of The League of Augsburg, began in 1688 when Louis claimed the Palatinate. Every large city on the Rhine above Cologne was sacked. The War ended in 1697 with the Treaty of Ryswick. The Palatinate was badly battered but still outside French control. In 1702, the War of the Spanish Succession began in Europe and lasted until 1713, causing a great deal of instability for the Palatines. The Palatinate lay on the western edge of the Holy Roman Empire not far from France's eastern boundary. Louis wanted to push his eastern border to the Rhine, the heart of the Palatinate.

While the land of the Palatinate was good for its inhabitants, many of whom were farmers, vineyard operators etc., its location was unfortunately subject to invasion by the armies of Britain, France, and Germany. Mother Nature also played a role in what happened, for the winter of 1708 was particularly severe and many of the vineyards perished. So, as well as the devastating effects of war, the Palatines were subjected to the winter of 1708-09, the harshest in 100 years.

The scene was set for a mass migration. At the invitation of Queen Anne in the spring of 1709, about 7 000 harassed Palatines sailed down the Rhine to Rotterdam. From there, about 3000 were dispatched to America, either directly or via England, under the auspices of William Penn. The remaining 4 000 were sent via England to Ireland to strengthen the protestant interest.

Although the Palatines were scattered as agricultural settlers over much of Ireland, major accumulations were found in Counties Limerick and Tipperary. As the years progressed and dissatisfactions increased, many of these folk seized opportunities to join their compatriots in Pennsylvania, or to go to newly-opened settlements in Canada.

There were many reasons for the desire of the Palatines to emigrate to the New World: oppressive taxation, religious bickering, hunger for more and better land, the advertising of the English colonies in America and the favourable attitude of the British government toward settlement in the North American colonies. Many of the Palatines believed they were going to Pennsylvania, Carolina or one of the tropical islands.

The passage down the Rhine took from 4 to 6 weeks. Tolls and fees were demanded by authorities of the territories through which they passed. Early in June, the number of Palatines entering Rotterdam reached 1 000 per week. Later that year, the British government issued a Royal proclamation in German that all arriving after October 1709 would be sent back to Germany. The British could not effectively handle the number of Palatines in London and there may have been as many as 32 000 by November 1709. They wintered over in England since there were no adequate arrangements for the transfer of the Palatines to the English colonies.

In 1710, three large groups of Palatines sailed from London. The first went to Ireland, the second to Carolina and the third to New York with the new Governor, Robert Hunter. There were 3 000 Palatines on 10 ships that sailed for NY and approximately 470 died on the voyage or shortly after their arrival.

In NY, the Palatines were expected to work for the British authorities, producing naval stores [tar and pitch] for the navy in return for their passage to NY. They were also expected to act as a buffer between the French and Natives on the northern frontier and the English colonies to the south and east.

After the defeat of Napoleon (1814-15), the Congress of Vienna gave the east-bank lands of the Rhine valley to Bavaria. These lands, together with some surrounding territories, again took the name of Palatinate in 1838.

Just a note. Bavaria did NOT belong to Germany in the early 1800s. In fact, I don't believe it officially joined until the end of the 1800s to the very early 1900s. It was its very own Kingdom, as you correctly have it. The Prussians slowly started to consolidate the German States throughout the 1800s. Bavaria was the largest and the last state to join the German Confederation. SO, you might want to look into when exactly Bavaria or Baden or Wuerttemberg actually became a the German State. I know as of 1848, the first German attempt at a modern unification, there was NO Germany in the sense of a multi state Nation. Somewhere in that timeframe the Rhineland Palitinate or Rheinland-Pfalz, also belonged to Bavaria and throughout the history of Germany, Kingdoms and Principalities shifted with the tides of war. This often escapes most American Genealogists, but would help them immensely in realizing the way records were taken and places kept. So it is with the Church records, which are the formost records kept in the Germanic states, aside from Police Municipal Registration and Military Records. Knowing their religious affiliation is a must in researching in German Records, because that's where all the B, Bt, M and D records are kept ...as well as confirmation records. Most German cemeteries are cleared after 30 years unless someone is alove to renew the lease of the plots. Yes, they are in many places literally dug-up and discarded. Sounds macabre, but this has been the practice in a good deal of Germany for quite some generations. You see, most cemeteries are in confined church yards, walled and secured for a term. The "owners" are required to tend to the maintainance of those sites and if you ever get to see one, you'll see how well they keep to this obligation. Some of them are virtual botanical gardens, complete with benches, statues, fountains. Even under the old Blue Laws stores that catered to that maintainance were allowed to stay open on the Sabbath ...usually, florist shops or nurseries. It's an interesting traddition still cultivated today. There's a real reverence to this activity of honoring the dead in a civil way.

Thought you might like to know. Also, the Bavarian Kingdom and the Wuerttembergian are two different entities. You might want to look into that. There was a border conflict and that was settled in the 1800s when some territory was traded back and forth between the two.

Bob,
Is there any possibility the last name of Anna Maria could have been Gergin? Gerg is news to me, but have,
in my research ... Gergin.
Thanks,
Randy Hughes

Interesting reply ...

IT says expresssly GERG, but keep in mind that the suffix "in" is an indicaation of a feminine term and added to GERG to make it GERGIN would imply that female, woman, girl or wife of the family GERG. So, it is quite possible that she would in that sance be a "GERGIN." You need to know that in much of Germany and a great number of eastern countries in Europe, the last name is the "name of the house." That is often the last name precedes the name as in the case of my name it would be IRELAND Bob, to specify which of the numerous Bob's I was in the "village." In the presence of people you would only be introduced that way, but under or in the company of people thay would use your first name. You and Rachel would be the HUGHES Randy of all the Randy's in town and Rachel would be HUGHES Rachel of all the Rachel's in town. I know it seems a little odd, but that's how the Old customs were and I'll bet to a degree even the rural English, Scots and Irish use this in some places, but I don't know that for sure. A lot of customs died out here in North America, while others were taken on. I suspect this one is one that died if it made it over here although I suspect that in some strong cultural or ethnic neighborhoods it still survives here in the US today.

Notes for JOHN ADAM EMMERT:

The names of John's children, the pictures and dates were provided to me by one of his descendants - "Buck" Emmert. He and his wife live in Iowa.

They were very helpful to me with this family line.

They contacted me through email after finding my files on the Internet.

They both, inexplicably "disappeared" (from their email address) and I have not been able to contact them since 2002.

Letter dated 28 Feb 1918 from P.R. Emmert (Dewitt, Iowa) to Mrs. Wm. Cathers (Queensville, Ind.)

Dear cousin: Your letter received and sorry to hear of your father's death but we must all take the trip some day and only hope we may be as well prepared as your father was.

My father's name was John A. Emmert, Born October 3rd, 1829 in Kingdom of Bavaria, Germany, died May 8th, 1910 - Age 81.

Was in Mexican War 1846-1848 in Company E. of first Regiment Louisiana Volunteers and was a half brother to your father as I always understood him.

Enclosed, find notice as they made it in our paper.

As for my family there is my wife, Pheobe, daughter, Lillian E. Thompson of Milan, Illinois and Everette A. Emmert at home with me.

As for myself I was born right here on the lot where I live March 2, 1856 and will be 62 years old Saturday when all my family will be together as we have always been on my birthday.

I will be pleased to hear from you again and wishing you well, I remain,

Yours Respectfully, P. R. Emmert

Dorothy Emmert Scheidemantel was born Dec 14, 1844
Peter F. Emmert, C Irene's Father) was born Mar 1, 1849
His father Philip Emmert died before he was born so must have died early in 1849 or 1848 Philip Emmert had been the organist at the Smith field Evangelical Church of Pittsburgh, He also was singing master and taught at the German Evangelical Church School at 18th St on the Southside of Pittsburgh, This was known as the Rooster Church since it had a large gilded rooster as a weathervane on top its spire. The second

Mrs. Emmert died when Peter was an infant in long dresses (1849 or 1850)
Peter Emmert was raised in the Orphans' Home a Zelienople. At fourteen he wanted to enlist so his guardian took him to Pittsburgh. He refused a hundred dollars to go as a substitute and enlisted in the 77th Vol. Inf.
