Notes for DONALD ROSS:

Donald Ross was a lay preacher in Broughton, Cape Breton. At the time they didn't have a minister over in the Broughton (Mira area) so the people from the church came after him to go over and preach for them.

Cape Breton Post, 15 Jan 2007

Dr. Laurie Stanley-Blackwell, of St. F.X. University, has followed up her celebrated history of the Presbyterian Church in Cape Breton, the Well-Watered Garden (1983), with a study of the open-air communion tradition in Cape Breton called Tokens of Grace (CBU Press, 2006). Her little book is well-researched, instructive and entertaining.

Appropriated from the Scottish Presbyterian Church, the ritual of the five-day open-air communion during the period from 1840-1890 was very important from a spiritual and sociological perspective. Thousands of Cape Breton Presbyterians gathered from all parts of the island, by every known means and in all kinds of weather, to participate. It was a time of serious devotion, social consolidation and spiritual growth. Stanley-Blackwell stated the communion was meant to be a token, if not a channel, of divine grace, and 'a stimulus to faith and devotion.'

The coming together of as many as 5,000 in so many places — Cowbay, Mira, Boularderie, Baddeck, Cape North, Whycocogmah — was anticipated 'with a mixture of elation and dread,' for the visitors had to be fed and housed. These gatherings, Dr. Stanley-Blackwell shows, contained 'elements of the sacred and profane, of reverence and revelry.' Although people came to put their spiritual affairs in order, many came to court to horse trade, to carouse and in some cases to consummate. In that respect, they were no different than any other denomination, where the nominal are so well mixed with the devout!

The first open-air day was a day of fasting and prayer, the second of self examination, when a question was put to learned elders called 'the Men,' godly believers schooled in the scriptures. Large crowds listened to these famous people called precentors and were transformed. One famous precentor, Donald Ross, was from Cowbay (Port Morien).

The third was the day of preparation, with services in English and Gaelic. Next came the day of communion, when communion tokens were handed in and communicants sat at tables, all in black attire. A clergyman preached an 'action sermon,' moving many to tears. Sadly, as in other non-Catholic denominations in the 19th Century, only a fraction attended communion, their feeling of unworthiness being the main reason. The last day was the day of thanksgiving, with many emotional partings.

In an increasingly capitalistic world, the five-day communion eventually became anomalous.

Notes for MARY MACLENNAN:

The following is copied from "The Daily Gazette", a Glace Bay newspaper dated February 8, 1913. Headline; WAS NEARLY 102 AT DEATH Late Mrs. W. Ross, probably Cape Breton's oldest woman.

In the death of Mrs. William Ross which occurred yesterday afternoon at the home of her daughter. Mrs D. Carmichael, Dominion, Cape Breton's oldest woman passed away. The late Mrs. Ross was 101 years old last spring. She was born in Scotland and her age is fixed by the known fact that she was 12 years old when the first emigrant ship came from Scotland to Nova Scotia, the date of that's ship's voyage being known.

Coming to Cape Breton in her childhood, she lived with her parents at Peter's Brook near Baddeck, until she had grown to womanhood. She then moved to Whitney Pier and six years ago came to live with Mrs. Carmichael, who is the only surviving one of her children. She had four sons, Mrs. Carmichael being the only daughter. She is also believed to have been the last survivor of her own family. One sister went to California and is believed to be dead, not having been heard from in many years.

Her husband died many years ago. Besides her daughter and grandchildren at Dominion, she is survived by grandchildren at Whitney Pier and Halifax.

The late Mrs. Ross was a fine example of the sturdy people from Scotland who played such an important part in Cape Breton's history. She was active and energetic up to a few weeks ago, dressing herself and being around the house every day.

About two weeks ago she took the grippe which resulted in her death through breaking down of the vital system. She retained her faculties until almost the end, knowing her daughter up to the day before she died.

Such an example of longevity with unimpaired mental and physical vigor after such a long life of usefulness and good deeds is rare.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, interment at Ocean Avenue Cemetery.

Sydney Post Mar.19, 1925

North Sydney. Mar.17

A grand old lady from the highlands of Scotland passed away Monday morning at her home in Sydney Mines in the person of Mrs. Christina Tutty who until a short time ago enjoyed exceptional good health despite her weight of years numbering according to her own reckoning 106 being born in North Uist in 17 March 1819.

When a girl 18 years old she came to Cape Breton with her parents in the year 1828 and for some time lived in the Mira district where today she has many relatives. Her maiden name was Christina Mac Lean before she married Alexander Ross, a resident of Loch Lomond, 84 years ago.

Her second husband was Donald Tutty, the union taking place in 1883? And they lived happily together until his death at Black Point, where the late Mrs. Tutty spent many years.

She was the mother of 8 children, of whom only 2 survive, in addition to many grandchildren and great grandchildren and scores of other descendents in south Cape Breton and elsewhere. Malcolm Ross of North Sydney and Laughlin Mac Lean of Sydney are nephews of the deceased. Forman Waye M.P.P. is one of a long list of grandsons.

This remarkable old lady retained all her faculties until her recent illness and she never had much use for glasses, being able to read the Gaelic, her mother tongue, up to recent years.

Little Narrows, March 16 - Not only Little Narrows, but Victoria county as a whole, has lost one of its most public spirited citizens in the death of Alexander W Ross, which occurred at the home of his brother T J Ross, Little Narrows, on Friday afternoon, March 8th, in his seventy fifth year. He had been in failing health for a year or more, and for the last few months was confined to his room at his brother's home. Although he suffered considerably for several months, the end came peacefully. "Sandy" Ross was a man well known throughout Cape Breton. He was born at Little Narrows, a son of one of the pioneer families of that district. As a young man he gained some experience in the merchandise business, when he worked in the store of Capt. John MacDonald, who did a large general business at Little Narrows in those days. In early manhood he opened a store of his own, which he conducted until two years ago. He also was postmaster at Little Narrows over a long period of years. For a number of years he represented the district in the County Council, and always manifested a keen interest in the welfare of the community. Moreover, he was a loyal churchman. He was for years an elder in Little Narrows Presbyterian church, superintendent of the Sunday School, and precentor of the Gaelic psalms. Altogether, Mr Ross was one of Victoria County's first citizens, widely known, highly esteemed and loved. The funeral was held on Monday, 11th, Rev A D MacKinnon returned from a visit to Halifax to conduct the service, and join in the community's tribute to an estimable man. The deceased was married to Christy MacLean of Gillis Cove, Orangedale, who died nine years ago. There were no children. Two sisters and a brother survive, Mrs Katherine MacLennan, Little Narrows; Mrs Lena MacRitchie, Sydney; and T J Ross, Little Narrows.

Notes for CAPTAIN ERIC GUNNAR STOLT:
Lost at sea.

The SS FRIAR ROCK, was a steel hulled, single screw freighter with reciprocating engines, Scotch boilers, and burned oil.

She was seized by the U.S. Government on June 6, 1941 under an Executive Order. On October 11, 1941, the War Shipping Administration assigned the FRIAR ROCK to Waterman SS Company at the port of New York under a GAA agreement.

The Panamanian flag freighter, SS FRIAR ROCK, was torpedoed by the German U-130 (Ernst Kals) at 0748 GCT on January 13, 1942, while en route from New York to England, unarmed and unescorted, with a full load of cargo. The attack took place about 110 miles Southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland in position 45-30 N./50-40 W.

On board was a merchant crew of 37 men. Of this number, 31 men were lost. There were 8 American seamen in the crew. Six of them were lost. Seven survivors were picked up by an unidentified ship. One of them, the 2nd Mate, died ashore.

There is no record of who the rescue ship was* or to what port the survivors were taken. Also no record of how long in a boat or raft or what date they were rescued.

*From a history of the USS Wilkes DD 75 assigned to the Royal Navy at Halifax, Nova Scotia on 1 January 1941, and re-named HMS Montgomery G 95.

"The flush-decker underwent repairs at Barrow, Lancashire, from April to September and was later assigned to the 4th Escort Group. Based now at Greenock, Scotland, the destroyer operated between the British Isles and Canadian ports through the end of 1941. On 13 January 1942, the Panamanian-registered steamer SS Friar Rock was torpedoed and sunk by U-130 100 miles southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland. Four days later, Montgomery picked up seven survivors from that ship."

The FRIAR ROCK was one of those unfortunate ships to be lost early in the war and being under the Panamanian flag not much attention was given to this ship. Therefore, little is known about its loss. Fortunately, the Coast Guard files contained a copy of the crew list thereby we are able to identify the crew. This was so important as we try to find the names of American seamen lost on these foreign flag ships.

The ship was under the command of Eric G. Stolt, a 48 year-old Swedish native living with his wife and family in Newark, N.J.

The U-130 (Keller) was sunk west of the Azores on March 12, 1943 by the USS CHAMPLIN DD-601 in position 73-10 N./40-21 W. There were no survivors.

Published in Sydney Post Record p 6 on Tuesday, February 12, 1935

Sydney Mines, Feb 11 - At Jubilee, Little Narrows, Thursday evening, Jan 17th, there passed away to her eternal reward, Mrs Malcolm Ross in her eighty fifth year. Mrs Ross was enjoying her usual good health and attending her household duties when she suddenly became quite ill and was sick only a few days and altho receiving the best medical attention and nursing she failed to respond. Mrs Ross was a life long resident of Jubilee and was well and favorably known, of a modest unassuming disposition, a good neighbour, kind and hospitable to all, stranger as well as acquaintances. She is survived by her husband and four daughters, Mrs Kenneth MacLeod, Little Narrows who nursed her mother during her illness; Mrs Hugh McKinnon of Watertown, Mass.; Sarah of Boston; and Effie of the nursing staff of the Masonic hospital, Shrewsbury, Mass. The latter arrived home for the funeral. A son, Daniel with whom she resided and an adopted son, John Ellis of Ottawa Brook. The funeral service was held at the home Sunday afternoon and was conducted by her pastor, Rev A D MacKinnon, who gave an inspiring and impressive address in the Gaelic language. Mr McKinnon spoke comforting words to the bereaved family and friends. After the singing of the ever touching and impressive old Gaelic tunes selected by the Gaelic choir the large cortege wended its way to the cemetery at Little Narrows where interment was made in the family lot, as the last ray of the setting sun was sinking in the west. The pall bearers were: T J Ross, M F McLeod, Frank Ross, and D A McIver. To the bereaved husband and family the whole community extends its sincere and heartfelt sympathy.

She married EBENEZER OSCAR LEADBETTER 21 Oct 1903 in Whycocomagh, Cape Breton, son of DAVID LEADBETTER and MARY MACKINNON. He was born 20 Jun 1877 in Port Hood, Cape Breton, and died 12 Apr 1955 in Truro, Nova Scotia.

Notes for EBENEZER OSCAR LEADBETTER:

Lived Port Hood, then Truro. Marriage info below. Note that his marriage to Sadie Ross was performed by Rev. Alexander Ross, and it was witnessed by a Daniel Ross.

Ebenezer Oscar Leadbetter (1877-1955) was born in Port Hood where he grew to be financially shrewd and successful. His parents, David Leadbetter and Mary MacKinnon of Northeast Margaree, left for the U.S. when he was only 14, but Ebenezer stayed. He taught school in 1898 at Glencoe Station, and, when the big mine began operations about 1901, he foresaw a future as a merchant. He first purchased land and built a store and barn on the lower side of the road at Little River, Port Hood, opposite Sam Smith's farm. Both buildings are now gone; erosion by the sea has even altered the coast so that some of the land on which they stood has crumbled and disappeared.

Leadbetter's store sold everything from clothing to groceries and feed. In the early days, he lived with his wife above the shop, where their first two children, Margaret and Gladys, were born. Gladys said that the house was built in 1909 or 1910, just before the mine closed. Sandy William MacDonald, one of the last men living who worked in the big mine (from 1908 to 1911) said that the house was built in 1910.

At that time, Port Hood was electrified by the mining company's generator, which served some homes and supplied street lighting. When the sea flooded the mine, the company left and the electricity ceased. People had to revert to oil lamps. Mrs. Dan Collie MacDonald remembers the original electrical fittings, some usable, when her family rented the Leadbetter buildings in July 1938. Water was supplied by an artesian well behind the house, piped to a large tank in the basement. Pressure to supply water to the first and second floors was maintained by a hand pump. Years later, Dan Collie MacDonald replaced that system with a well and an electric pump. There was speculation that Mr. Leadbetter built the big house to become a hotel. However, his daughter Gladys was unaware of such plans. As Mrs. Leadbetter (Sarah Ross of Whycomomagh) had six children, perhaps Ebenezer never envisioned the house as more than a large family home.

E.O. Leadbetter left the community and moved to Truro after the big mine flooded in 1923. His daughter said that he considered retirement then, aged 46, indicating that his ten years as a store owner in Port Hood had been profitable. But in Truro he became involved in the Orange Crush Company, taking control and renaming it Crystal Springs. He also ran a coal business there.

The hotel in Port Hood was called the Hillcrest Hall Country Inn according to Mary Smith, Whycomomagh.

Note to file: There is information about this Hotel in Port Hood on the web, as it is now a restaurant and the history of the building is on the web site.

She was born 1922 in Sydney, Cape Breton, and died 30 Jun 2007 in Sydney, Cape Breton.

Notes for ANNIE MAE FERGUSON:

Annie May Ross, Sydney Annie May Ross, born 15, 1922, in Sydney, N.S., died peacefully on June 30, 2007 at Harbourstone Enhanced Care. She was the daughter of the late Duncan Rory Ferguson and Margaret (MacLeod) Ferguson, Annie grew up in a large family of six girls and four boys. In her youth, she lived in the Terrace Street area, and at Front Lake, Dutch Brook. After her marriage in Sydney June 9, 1947, to Garnet Allison Ross from Little Narrows, she moved to Westmount, where she resided all her adult life and contributed greatly to the growth of the early Westmount community. Annie and Al were charter members of Westmount United Church and Annie expressed her fellowship by actively participating in the UCW, Sunday school and church choir. In later years, she enjoyed being a member of the Cape Breton Gaelic Choir. In addition to her love of music, she liked oil painting and in her own words, meeting people. She mainly enjoyed her family and spent a lifetime remaining in daily touch with those around her. She is lovingly missed by her son, Gary, and his wife, Evelyn (Fraser); granddaughters, Ann-Margaret (Ryan MacPherson), Heather (Eric Breland) and Kathleen, all in Westmount; by her son, Donald and his wife, Caroline (Boudreau), Lower Sackville; grandchildren Donna (Jordy Hoover), Prince George, B.C. and Allison (Aaron Harvey) and Kendall, Ottawa, Ont.; great-grandchildren, Blair in Westmount, Kaitlyn, Ottawa, and Brandy, Mitchell and Connor in Prince George. Also surviving are sisters, Alice (MacLeod), Edna (Taker), Betty (Kowalczyk) and Marjorie (Donald Kerr); brother Alex (Theresa Ferguson) and many nieces and nephews with whom she was extremely close. Besides her parents, Annie was predeceased by her devoted husband, Alison in 1978; sister, Christine; brothers Donald and James MacLeod and foster brother, Eric (Paddington). The family is very grateful to the staff of MacDougall Court at Harbourstone, personal care givers and dear friends, for the loving care provided to Annie during her lengthy illness. Special thanks to the immediate family, particularly Donna Lee MacLeod. Annie was a devoted grandmother, wonderful mother, sister and a valued friend. Unpretentious, her independent spirit, inner strength and lively wit will be sorely missed. Annie loved life and enjoyed many laughs (and an occasional poem). Her pride of family, friends and strong faith, helped to sustain her over the years. Visitation will take place at Sydney Memorial Chapel, Tuesday, July 3, 2007 fro 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. A funeral service will be celebrated at Westmount United Church, July 4, 2007 at 11 p.m. with Rev. Thomas Whent and Rev. Margie MacLeod officiating. Interment in Forest Haven Memorial Gardens, Sydney. Family flowers only, please. Memorial donations may be made to the Westmount United Church Choir, Cape Breton Gaelic Choir, Canadian Alzheimer Society or charity of your choice.
