Jones Motto: Cœlitus mihi vires

Origin Displayed: Welsh

Origin Available, Welsh, English

While the bearers of Jones came from ancient Welsh-Celtic origins, the name itself has its roots in Christianity. The surname comes from the personal name John, which is derived from the Latin Johannes, meaning "Yahweh is gracious." The name has always been common in Britain, rivaling William in popularity by the beginning of the 14th century. The feminine form, Joan or Johanna in Latin was also popular, and the surname Jones may be derived from either the male or female name.

Spelling variations include: Jones, Jonas, Jone and others.

First found in Denbighshire, where the Jones family was seated from very ancient times, some say well before the Norman Conquest and the arrival of Duke William at Hastings in 1066 A.D.

Some of the first settlers of this name or some sort of its variants were: Alice Jones who arrived in Boston in 1635; Charles Jones and Humphrey Jones, who both settled in Virginia in 1636, as did Ann Jones in 1648; Owen Jones, who immigrated to Maryland in 1665.

Motto Translated: Without God, without anything

John H. Jones is buried in row 9. His headstone reads:

Beloved husband of Sarah E. Jones
The Golden Gates were open
And a gentle voice said, "Come,"
And with farewells unspoken
He calmly entered home.
Sleep dear one and take your rest;
God took you home, he thought it best.

Notes for CORNELIUS FREDERICK JONES:

He was born October 8, 1938 in Baltimore, Maryland to Kenneth F. and Martha M. (nee Lorden) Jones.

Neil lived in Baltimore until his marriage to Regina Streb.

He was a guided missile mechanic in the Air Force and was stationed at Andrews Air Force Base. His first two sons were born there. After he was discharged, he went to work for Martin Marietta. He then, became a computer programmer with the Social Security Administration.

Neil and his wife lived in Glen Burnie, Maryland where they had two more boys. He retired from SSA in 1994. They then bought a new home in Florida that they just loved!

In February of 1997, Neil was diagnosed with cancer in his bile duct. He under went surgery, chemo therapy and radiation. He appeared to be recovering nicely when in the summer of 1998 he began feeling ill again. In the fall of 1998, it was confirmed that the cancer had returned.

After a long illness, Neil passed away on February 16, 1999 at his home in Port Charlotte, Florida. In August of 1999, his ashes were scattered across the Chesapeake Bay at his favorite crabbing spot.

He touched many lives and he will be missed terribly.

Notes for REGINA MARIE STREB:

Regina Marie Streb was born in Baltimore, Maryland on December 18, 1937 to Aloysius and Marie Streb. She married Cornelius Frederick Jones on April 26, 1958. She and her husband have four sons together. She was a homemaker and devoted her time to her family. After her last son graduated from high school, she returned to work doing various jobs. Her final job was as a legal secretary for Peroutka and Peroutka. It turns out that during my research Jean and the Peroutkas are actually related distantly. They share the same ggggrandfather, Mathias Streb.

In 1994, she and her husband retired to Florida. Although her time in Florida was short, she enjoyed her retirement in style. She loved golfing, shopping, and taking strolls on the beautiful beaches. She and Neil came to Maryland every summer to visit with family and friends.

After the death of Neil and much thought, Jean decided to move back to Maryland to be closer to family and friends.

She is a very active and energetic lady and is currently living in Stevensville, Maryland with her new love, Charles Vanskiver. She still enjoys shopping, golfing and spending time with family and friends.

BLUE JAY WAY

Born: July 18, 1982

Hometown: Arnold, Maryland

Ht: 6-3. Wt: 195

Bats: R Throws: R

School: Florida International University

Career Transactions: Selected by the Toronto Blue Jays in the second round of the 2003 First Year Player Draft, 50th overall.

Josh Banks was projected to be a first-rounder in the spring as he was coming off a solid summer in the cape cod league.

2002 Cotuit Kettleers 4-1 2.05ERA 44IP 35H 14BB 48SO

He started his junior college season by setting a SunBelt conference record with 30 consecutive scoreless innings pitched. However, his stock dropped after this with inconsistent performances and he missed some starts due to blister problems. Even with his inconsistent season his overall numbers for Florida International were still very strong:

2003 FIU Panthers 8-3 3.50ERA 105.1IP 95H 41ER 25BB 114SO 12HR .232B/AVG

Banks displayed solid dominance, command and control as his peripherals were very strong with a 9.76 K/9IP, 4.56 K/BB and 2.14 BB/9IP. One area of concern could be the 12 homers given up in 105.1IP but this amounts to a reasonable 1.03HR/9IP ratio. His 105.1 IP and 114 strikeouts led the conference.

The scouting report on him is that he has a smooth delivery and controls both sides of the plate. Banks throws three pitches for strikes. Scouts are impressed with his fastball that explodes out of his hand with life and is usually in the 92-94mph range. Banks also owns a major league splitter with good sink, and a solid slider. He also possesses an adequate change.

Banks did not disappoint after being drafted by the Blue Jays in the 2nd round, 50th overall. He helped lead the Auburn DoubleDays of the NY-Penn League (short season) to an impressive 56-18 record. Banks continued to throw hard, throw strikes and demonstrated command of all of his pitches. Banks allowed only 10 free passes in 66.7IP. Overall his numbers were excellent.

Banks dominated, striking out more than a batter per inning (10.88K/9IP). His other peripherals were just as strong with a 1.34BB/9IP ratio, 8.1K/BB and a much improved 0.13HR/9IP.

Baseball America was also impressed with Banks, ranking him the best pitching prospect in the NY-Penn League and 5th best prospect overall. He beat out highly touted pitching draft picks such as Clint Everts (5th pick overall in 2002 to Montreal) and Paul Maholm (8th pick overall in 2003 to Pittsburgh).

It looks like the Jays got a steal selecting Banks in the 2nd round. It wouldn't be surprising to see Banks follow the same path as David Bush and rise quickly through the levels. The Jays may be somewhat aggressive with Banks, having him start the 2004 season in High Class A with the Dunedin Blue Jays and with a few good months move up to Double A with the Manchester team.

My only concern with Banks is the usual for any pitcher - injuries. Blister problems seem to recur and Banks had a somewhat disappointing sophomore college season pitching only 34 innings as he suffered a strained ligament in his pitching elbow which shut him down for almost two months. I think Banks is in the perfect organization to monitor his pitch count and innings pitched and probably has a better chance to succeed with this organization than many others.

2005 Jays take it to the Banks

TORONTO (CP) - The Toronto Blue Jays have filled out their 40-man roster by adding right-handed pitcher Josh Banks and infielder Ryan Roberts.

The 23-year-old Banks posted an 8-12 record with double-A New Hampshire Fisher Cats in the Eastern League this year. He ranked fifth in the league in strikeouts (145) and innings pitched (162.1). Banks also played in the Eastern League's all-star game.

Banks was selected by the Blue Jays in the second round of the 2003 first-year player draft.

 BALTIMORE — When Toronto Blue Jays right-hander Josh Banks struck out Baltimore Orioles leadoff hitter Brian Roberts on three pitches, the folks in Section 31 celebrated like it was the last out of the World Series. A few long-suffering Orioles fans furrowed their brows and craned their necks to catch a glimpse of the turncoats in their midst.

After each Orioles out in the first inning, the merriment resumed among those packed into a narrow section just above the concourse level behind home plate.

The contingent, several hundred strong, came to cheer the Baltimore-born Banks in his first major-league start. And with one out in the sixth inning, they stood and clapped and hollered as he walked off field with a 5-4 lead. Minutes later, they sat in silence as Banks's chance for a storybook victory vanished when the Orioles rallied for an 8-5 victory

Banks had left a runner aboard for reliever Brian Tallet, who could not hold the lead. Tallet gave up a two-run homer to rookie Luis Hernandez, who had played at three professional levels this year without hitting one out of the park.

Banks was charged with five runs and got a no-decision.

A September callup from triple-A Syracuse, Banks started in place of Shaun Marcum, who underwent knee surgery on Wednesday. After two rocky innings, Banks retired nine in a row, allowing the Jays to get back in the game and take the lead in the sixth.

They scored three runs in the fifth inning and two in the sixth, with both rallies following leadoff hits by Aaron Hill, who extended his hitting streak to 13 games. Orioles left-fielder Jay Payton, an early home-run hero, turned villain in the fifth when he dropped a line drive that helped extend the inning.

Banks allowed nine hits, walked none and struck out one.

The early cheers from the Banks congregation subsided in the second inning, just about the time Payton hit a two-run shot into the mostly vacant left-field seats. In the next inning, they sat in silence as the Orioles scored two more runs and the local fans, who have had precious little to cheer about this season, seized the opportunity for a few huzzahs of their own.

The Jays mustered only one hit after their rally in the sixth. The previous night, when they won 8-5, Baltimore's beleaguered bullpen blanked them over the last eight innings.

Banks was a regular at Orioles games as a youngster. Mike Mussina was his idol. When he first began to pitch, he mimicked Mussina's "deep-dip" delivery from the stretch. He stopped because his coach told him "it wasted too much energy," he said.

He used plenty of energy in the second inning, when Payton's homer was one of four hits he allowed, and again in the third, when he served up three singles.

The Jays made Banks a second-round draft pick in 2003. His 12-10 record and 4.63 ERA earned him MVP honours at Syracuse and a September callup. He worked two innings in relief before getting the start against the team he cheered for as a child.

SAN FRANCISCO -- It was only after the Padres sent their third pitcher to the disabled list in the last 11 days when manager Bud Black, tongue in cheek, suggested before Saturday's game that rookie pitcher Josh Banks throw nine scoreless innings.

The funny thing was that Black nearly got what he wished for, as the 25-year-old Banks took a shutout into the ninth inning of only his second Major League start before settling for a complete-game victory as the Padres topped the Giants, 5-1, at AT&T Park.

The timing couldn't have been better for Banks and the Padres (23-34), who sent starter Shawn Estes to the disabled list earlier Saturday with a fractured left thumb. Estes joins Jake Peavy (elbow) and Chris Young (nose) on the disabled list, voids that have created opportunities for Banks and others.

It's safe to say that Banks (2-0) has more than seized that opportunity. Six days after he tossed six scoreless innings in the Padres' 18-inning victory over Cincinnati, Banks took a four-hit shutout into the ninth inning before allowing a single to Jose Castillo and a two-out RBI single to Aaron Rowand.

"Textbook," Padres right fielder Brian Giles said of Banks' outing. "At one point, I looked up in the sixth inning and he had something like 62 pitches."

Banks, who had five strikeouts and didn't walk a single batter, threw 60 pitches through six innings, 70 through seven and 83 pitches through eight frames. He finished with 101 pitches, 69 of them strikes.

The run that he did allow in the ninth inning was unearned, as an error on Giles allowed the Giants to get a rare baserunner in scoring position. That runner came around to score on Rowand's line drive up the middle.

"He picked up where he left off," Black said of Banks. "He did a great job on a day where we truly needed length out of the starter."

A day after the Padres squeezed seven innings from their bullpen in a 13-inning victory over the Giants on Friday, San Diego needed Banks to go as deep into the game as possible, though a complete game probably was too much to ask from a pitcher who was claimed off waivers from Toronto just over a month ago.

Banks had some success at Triple-A Portland after being claimed, posting a 4.67 ERA in three starts for the Beavers. He's been even better with the Padres, allowing just one run in his first 17 innings.

The Padres backed Banks with four runs in the first inning, giving him confidence and a nice cushion to pitch with. The Padres didn't score again until Adrian Gonzalez drove in his third run of the game with a single in the seventh inning. By then, Banks was on a roll, using a variety of fastballs (cutter, split), a curveball and changeup to confuse the Giants (23-33).

"It was nice," Banks said of being afforded an early lead. "It allowed me to go out and throw strikes and do what I do. Early on, they were feeling me out and I was feeling them out. I was able to get everything over for strikes and get ahead."

That was enough to help the Padres to their first three-game winning streak of the season heading into Sunday's series finale against nasty right-hander Tim Lincecum. And more importantly, Banks' outing gave their bullpen, particularly Cla Meredith, Heath Bell and closer Trevor Hoffman, a day off after they had appeared in four of the last six games.

"It's awesome, not only for him but for our bullpen," Giles said.

Black likened Banks' performance to the one veteran Greg Maddux gave April 18 against Arizona, when Maddux allowed nine runs in seven innings the day after the Padres lost a 22-inning marathon to Colorado. Those innings, even though they weren't the best for the future Hall of Famer, gave the bullpen a much-needed rest.

"We needed this," Black said, "and he [Banks] gave it to us."

He then went on to become a Field Service Engineer. Finally, he found his expertise in computer programming. He has worked for Hughes Technical Services now Raytheon Technical Services Corporation for the past 19 years. Ken commutes to Washington D.C. every day. He married Vicki Lynn Myers on October 14, 1983. They have three gorgeous boys. Ken has been very active in his children's lives. He was den leader for his middle son, Ryan. He was also an assistant coach for Ryan's soccer team and for his youngest son, Brendan. In 1998, Ken was voted as the coach of the year much to his surprise and delight. He enjoyed being scoutmaster for troop 770 but after three years he decided to pass on the torch.

Because Ken is very handy, (he can do most anything), he is the family fixer-upper. He has built decks, rebuilt car engines, and can generally build anything with wood. He added a wonderful two-story addition to the house. It turned out beautiful!

Always wanting to be busy, Ken received his college degree from the University of Phoenix. He walked across the stage at the Meyerhoff Symphony Hall in Baltimore, MD on 13 May 2006 after 4 long, hard and very rewarding years. He earned his BS degree in Information Technology and I couldn't be more proud....

He resides in Pasadena, MD with his beautiful wife of 25 years and their three sons...

Notes for VICKI LYNN MYERS:

I was born January 6, 1963 in Baltimore, Maryland at St. Agnes Hospital. For the first 11 years of my life, I lived in Baltimore. In 1974, we moved to Pasadena, Maryland. I graduated from Chesapeake Senior High in June 1981. I then became a student at the Medix school. I completed the course in February, 1982 and became certified as a Medical Assistant that summer. My life really changed when I met Ken Jones in October 1982. We were married the following October, 1983. I continued to work for Dr. Thomas Walsh until my first son was born in December, 1986. I then became a stay at home mom and I don't regret a minute of it. I went on to have two more sons. They have been my greatest accomplishments and my biggest joys.

After my last son was in school fulltime, I decided to start researching our families. It almost is like a fulltime job! But I absolutely love it! I have gathered so much info and met wonderful people. This has been an adventure that I hope to continue for a very long time...

Marriage Notes for KENNETH JONES and VICKI MYERS:

Ken and I met after his sister-in-law Charlene Jones introduced us in October of 1982. Charlene and I worked together at St Agnes Hospital. We went on our first date in November of that year. By the end of December, we were engaged. We sure didn't waste any time.

In January of 1983, we were making plans to be married in October. On October 14, 1983, I became Mrs. Kenneth Jones. Our wedding was lovely. My cousin Lori Denise Price was my Maid of Honor and Deborah Newton was my bridesmaid. Ken's brother Dennis was his Bestman and the ushers were Jeffrey Jones and Guy Myers. We couldn't have ask for a more perfect night. We were married by father Glenn Byrne at 7:30 on a friday night at St. Philip Neri Catholic Church in Linthicum, MD.

Our reception took place at the Empire Towers in Glen Burnie. Everyone we spoke to said that the food was great and the band was terrific. We agreed! On the following Sunday, we were on our way to our dream honeymoon, Hawaii! We landed on the island of Oahu. There was a gentle breeze blowing and a light mist falling. We went to our hotel and just fell asleep. We were exhausted from the 12 hour flight. The next morning we rented a car and explored the island. It was a wonderful drive. The beaches of Honolulu were spectacular.

We were there for three days and it was off to the tiny island of Kauai. This island proved to be our favorite. Even though this was the wet island, the views from high atop the mountains were breathtaking. This island hid many treasures. It had waterfalls, mountains, canyons, and the fern grotto. After three days, we were off to the last island on our trip.

Maui was just as beautiful as the other two islands we visited. We however, just stayed on the beach most of the time. The water was the most gorgeous blue I had ever seen. The beaches looked like sugar and the sunsets were lovely. I had never seen the blues, pinks, and purples of a sunset quite like the ones in Hawaii. I could have stayed in paradise forever but it was time to go home. I will never forget our dream honeymoon. I hope we can return someday and relive the magic!

Children of KENNETH JONES and VICKI MYERS are:

- i. SEAN PATRICK⁸ JONES, b. 30 Dec 1986, Annapolis, Anne Arundel Co., MD; m. DENISE LEE BAKER, 19 Nov 2004, Anne Arundel Co., MD; b. 19 Aug 1988, Baltimore City, MD.

Notes for SEAN PATRICK JONES:

Sean was born in Annapolis, MD at Anne Arundel General Hospital, on December 30, 1986. His daddy wanted the little tax deduction and he got it. I, however, was not amused. He arrived on a Tuesday at 6:20 p.m. by forceps. We called him Gumby for awhile. His poor little head had a big lump on it. He weighed 8lbs-12ozs. I could have sworn he was at least 25 lbs. He had dark hair and blue eyes. Later, his hair turned blond and then to a dark wavy brown. He has gorgeous hair. His eyes later turned hazel like mine. Although he resembles me, he has his dad's bent pinkies.

He was baptized on March 15, 1987. Sean's Godparents are Steven and Donna Jones.

Sean was not a happy baby but he did sleep through the night at six weeks old. This was a real plus for the new parents.

At six months, Sean began to become a happier baby. This was a joy for his weary parents. Sean continued to grow big and happy. He was always getting into something. He was a very curious child.

At the age of 4 3/4, he entered Kindergarten. He did very well. Along the way, he became a cubscout and then a boy scout.

In August of 1997, Sean entered middle school. Middle school proved to be a difficult transition. Sean also expressed a desire to play soccer. His first year was a learning experience. He decided after two seasons that he wasn't cut out for sports.

In August of 2000, Sean became a Freshman in High school. Where did the time go? He seems to have adjusted fairly well but his grades sure don't show it. Sean is such a smart kid. He really needs to get focused.

At sixteen, he started working on becoming an Eagle Scout and was itching to start driving. He became an Eagle Scout in December of 2004. We were so proud.

Sean, graduated from Northeast Senior High on June 8, 2004. His last year of high school was a good one. He was able to get on the honor roll and get serious about his studies. He got his driver's license and his first job was at Ritz camera in the mall. After two years selling cameras, he decided to take a job photographing people in a studio. He is enrolled at the Anne Arundel Community College and has passed two semesters. His dream job is to be a photographer.

As parents, Ken and I are so proud of Sean. He is a genuine gentleman and caring young man. I know he will make his dreams come true.

Sean and Denise became engaged on 19 Nov 2007. They are planning an Aug 2010.

ii. RYAN KENNETH JONES, b. 04 Sep 1988, Annapolis, Anne Arundel Co., MD.

Notes for RYAN KENNETH JONES:

Ryan Kenneth Jones was born In Annapolis, MD at Anne Arundel General Hospital at 12:10 A.M. Sunday, September 4, 1988 after 1 1/2 hours of labor. This was quite a contrast to when Sean was born. Ryan's birth was very quick. Ryan, however, was not breathing. The doctor had to clear his airway. He was fine in a matter of moments. Ryan weighed in at a whopping 10lbs-4ozs. My family couldn't believe I was able to stand after giving birth to such a big boy. I felt fantastic though. I even gave birth to him without pain medicine! Ryan was baptized on November 5, 1988. His Godfather is his Uncle Guy Myers. Guy's first wife, Elizabeth Plummer, is Ryan's Godmother.

Ryan was a happy baby. He could entertain himself and he was always smiling. He, however, did not sleep through the night until he was 6 months old. This was beginning to wear out his already tired parents. He was still a joy to us though.

As Ryan grew, I noticed that his left arm was not growing properly. This was a terrible moment for me. I had never really noticed it before and I felt awful. We, of course, took him to a Pediatric Orthopedist and were told that Ry had a rare disease called Ollier's. I was shocked and saddened. I didn't know what was to lie ahead for Ryan. Cartilage is growing in his arm where bone should be, making his bone brittle. His left arm is bent and smaller than his right arm. Ryan is a wonderful boy and a real trooper. You would never know he has a disability. Unfortunately, Ryan's disease is rare and very little is known about it. I know he will make the best of the situation and get on with his life. Ryan was supposed to have his first operation at the age of 13. However, he broke his arm at school and Dr. Bright thought that this would be the perfect time to place a fixator on his forearm. He underwent an 1 1/2 operation and did very well. The fixator remained on his arm for two months. Ryan turned the screw 4 times a day to help his arm "grow". After the fixator came off, Ryan's arm had grown 1 inch. The doctor was pleased. Ken and I were amazed. Ryan's arm looked wonderful. To us, Dr. Bright performed a miracle.

When Ryan turned 15, he had another surgery to lengthen his upper arm bone. He again had to wear a fixator this time for 5 months. He did fantastic. His arm grew about 4 inches and looks amazing. I am so impressed with the technology.

Today, Ryan is tall and thin and looks like his dad with blue eyes and dark blonde hair. He is fair like me and has freckles sprinkled across his face. He is a good student and a fantastic soccer player. He graduated from high school in 2006 and is attending the community college. His first job was working at BJ's wholesale club as a cashier during the Christmas season of 2004. In the summer of 2005, Ryan started work at Ritz camera developing film.

He also made it to the rank of Star in boyscouts before pursuing other interests.

I know he will grow up to be successful at whatever he chooses to do. He is my hero...

- iii. BRENDAN GRANT JONES, b. 22 Aug 1991, Annapolis, Anne Arundel Co., MD.

Notes for BRENDAN GRANT JONES:

Brendan Grant Jones was born in Annapolis, MD at Anne Arundel General Hospital, Thursday, August 22, 1991 at 8:16 A.M after 4 1/2 hours of labor. He weighed a big 9lbs-12ozs. My labor and delivery were textbook. I felt very good after his birth. As with Ryan, I gave birth naturally. What a women! Brendan was also a happy baby, phew! But he also was sick a lot. When he was about four months old, he got the first of many ear infections. We didn't realize how sick he was going to be. It seemed like my poor baby was always in pain. At five years old, we finally decided to get tubes put into his ears. That was a blessing. Unfortunately, when the tubes fell out, the ear infections returned. And to add a new twist to the mix, he started to get strep throats as well. In August of 1999, he under went a tonsilectomy and did fantastic! I hope this keeps him free of infections.

Like his big brother, Sean, he inherited his dad's bent pinkies. He also has green eyes and blond hair. Brendan was baptized in November of 1991. His Godparents are Lori Gould (my cousin) and Jeffrey Jones.

Brendan is the little comedian of the family. However, he is not always funny. He wants to be like his big brother's so bad. This, however, often gets him into trouble. He is in his second year of boyscouts. He is working on merit badges and advancing in rank. He is also a wonderful soccer player and very fast. If only he would get serious about his skills, he has great potential. His curiosity often gets him into trouble.

Brendan played trumpet for awhile. He did remarkably well. We enjoyed going to his concerts.

In 2002, he entered middle school. He finally settled in as a sixth grader and has made the honor roll. He continued with his good grades and made honor roll several times as a seventh grader.

In 2005, Brendan started High school. Hopefully, he will do a good job.

Brendan has a great and curious mind. He has the potential to do great and wonderful things when he grows up.

In the meantime, you can always find him doing something he shouldn't. But whatever lies ahead, I know Brendan will work very hard at it. Hopefully, he will use his powers for good.....
