Note related by Vernon R. Kostohryz (b.1935)

My grandparents spent their last days on about an acre of land in a tiny house about two miles from the city of West. To me as a little kid, the place seemed much larger. My grandmother always had a very large garden of beautiful flowers, vegetables and fruit trees, She always had at least one milk cow and hundreds of chickens. For most of their life as I knew them, the plumbing was out of doors. I spent many days speaking with my grandfather on the front porch as he smoked the pipe that was forbidden indoors; and many a day joining Grandma eating her always fresh bread and the ever-present kolaches. My grandfather had been rich in farms before the Great Depression hit and left him with practically nothing. I remember when he used to come to town with a mule pulled wagon. In later years, he would drive in with an old neighbor friend who had a hand cranked Ford Model T that would make the car of the television Clampit family look like a limousine indeed. When the old neighbor died, Grandpa would stand in the middle of the road and flag the first car down to take him to town. I would often have the honors of driving him back after school.

My cousin Leroy Hurta told me that my grandfather related to him his visit to New York City after leaving the sailing ship at Ellis Island. Grandpa and his brothers decided to take an adventuresome look inside the city. They were in awe of the skyscrapers and immediately took the first train back to the island in fear the buildings would fall on them.

No wonder he was more content breaking mules and farming in good ole Texas.

Information related by Vernon R. Kostohryz (b.1935):

My grandmother was a very kind and loving person. She was very quiet. She always had a large and beautiful garden of flowers, vegetables and fruit trees. She always had at least one milk cow and hundreds of chickens. She was a very short, physically hardened woman who was usually barefooted. She seemed to be always baking with fresh bread always available and plenty of kolaches for our Sunday visits. Even though her life when I knew her seemed no picnic, she seemed very happy with it. She spoke of harder times in her childhood. Notes recorded on her family might give some clue as to why. Make certain to read notes on her Nephews, Joe and Ed Beseda. Also important to read notes on her mother, Terezie Sisa(b.1845-1917)

Notes sent to me from a researcher of the Janota line:

This is what I know about the older Janotas. Tomas and Veronika were married in Moravia. They were from Katerinice and both of their sons were born there. They arrived in Texas on June 2, 1870, when John was 14 and Thomas was almost 2. They lived near Wesley, Texas, in Austin County or possibly Washington County.

On Sept 7, 1879, John married Rozalie Lesikar in Austin County. So he was already married by the time his parents divorced in 1880. And Thomas was 12 years old. Thomas always felt very responsible for taking care of his mother. Thomas married Annie Vitek in 1888. After several moves, John ended up living near Taylor, Texas, and Thomas lived near Victoria. Hence, there are the Taylor Janotas and the Victoria Janotas. (There is also another set of unrelated Janotas living near Shiner, TX. It is possible that they are distant cousins, but so far I have been unable to determine any relationship. Certainly no one in their family knows. Only research in Moravia can solve that problem.) Veronika lived with John's family near Taylor in her old age. She is buried in the Prairie Hill Cemetery. John and Rozalie are buried in the Taylor City Cemetery. Thomas and Annie are buried in the Shillerville Cemetery near Victoria.

Terezie Sisa evidently came to Texas from Zadverice, Moravia with her parents. Both of them are buried in the Wesley Brethren Church Cemetery. She also had two unmarried sisters, who are also buried there. One was named Veronika. Terezie had three illegitimate children, each by a different father. I don't know whether they were born in Moravia or Texas.

Two of the children died young. The surviving one was Terezie Sisa (named after her mother) who married Vince Beseda.

Tomas and Veronika were divorced in Washington County, TX, on March 6, 1880.

Tomas and Terezie obtained their marriage license on March 6 in the same county and were married the next day, March 7. Their daughter, Anna, had been born on Jan 16, 1879. Another child, a son named Joe, was born in 1880. In 1883, Tomas died and was buried in the Wesley Brethren Church Cemetery. Anna said that her father died when she was four, so that jives with her birthdate.

In 1885, the son Joe died at the age of 4 and is buried by his father.

There are no tombstones for either of them.

Terezie soon remarried. On April 20, 1884, (before her son Joe died), she married Thomas Geryk. They had one daughter, Julia Geryk, born April 29, 1885. Julia married Joe Cocek

Evidently Anna always knew she had two half-brothers, but didn't know where they were. She found them when she was about 40, about 1920 as far as I can figure. Your Aunt Libby told me that it was when she (Libby) was 16. She said in a letter to me, "My mother did not know her 1/2 brothers Thomas and John until in her middle age when I was 16 years old. By accident our minister discovered Janotas lived in Taylor and my mother said she was a Janota and the minister inquired and found that they were my mothers 1/2 brothers whom she had never seen." Since Libby was born in 1904, that would put the date about 1920. It is possible that Anna never actually met John. Libby says that the minister inquired and ascertained that the Taylor Janotas were related. Then Thomas in Victoria was contacted. Libby goes on to say, "By now John Janota had died, but my family and their families visited one another after that." This is probably true, because John died January 31, 1921.

In a letter, I notice that Libby gives the last name of the Beseda boys as "Kostris." Wow, what a life they must have had!

Further note from Vernon R. Kostohryz:

On about three occasions I visited the church and cemetery of Wesley, Texas that is mentioned above. I used to take my sons to basketball camps located not far from there. On one occasion, my son James came into contact with some poison ivy under the beautiful trees there. He then suffered the whole following week at camp with a horrible rash. The religious site is a very picturesque place. The agricultural life around must have been harsh and now everything seems very sad for lack of many inhabitants, but this beautiful place at the surviving church with its gatherings must have been a welcome relief from the monotony.

Special note related by Vernon R. Kostohryz (b.1935)
Aunt Regina lived a block and a half from my early childhood home and was like a second mother to me. She had no children herself. Once when I was about four, I was leaving her house to return home. It was very cold outside but I tried to imitate my older brothers by waiting until the last minute outside to quickly pull on my leather aviator style cap. Aunt Regina refused to let me leave the house before pulling on the cap and I ran home crying. She followed me home crying her own heart out for having so hurt my feelings. She made many a shirt for me. As I grew into the post elementary school years, she practically daily made a steak and french fry supper for me. Her husband, Antone Nemecek was one of the original founding brothers of Nemecek Meat Market in West, Texas.

I got some information from Vernon that helped me identify the family's home in Hodslavice. I was sent a book from a distant relative that identifies houses in Hodslavice. Vernon said that Jan Barton was a miller. Lillian had his name as Joseph. This book lists a Joseph Barton as owning a mill at house #48 in Hodslavice. He had 7 children: Rozina Barton Reidlova, Anna, Josef, Andrew, Jan, Marianne, and Hypolit. It looks like Andrew stayed and ran the mill until he died in 1896. Kathy Smith.

The ova ending just means Rozina is a female. Reidl would be a variation of Rydl and Rydel.
