"Don't ever forget Bob Mathews and don't ever forget the 'Order'... because that's what's gonna happen again soon.... It's coming again!.... Revolution is coming!.... It's coming sooner than you think!"
-- Dennis Mahon, July, 1991, Aryan World Congress, Hayden Lake, Idaho.

THE ORDER & THE ARYAN REPUBLICAN ARMY

'The Order' will go down in history books as one of the most violent and notorious domestic terrorist groups of the 1980s. 'The Order' was founded in 1983 by Robert J. Mathews, a recruiter for the neo-Nazi National Alliance and an activist in the Aryan Nations. 'The Order' drew its members from the National Alliance, Aryan Nations, and various Klan splinter groups throughout the country. Adopting a racist ideology and paranoid world-view, 'The Order' began to commit acts of terrorism, robbery, fraud, murder, and theft in an ongoing wave of crime that its members viewed as a revolution against the 'Zionist Occupied Government.' Many of the hate-fueled terrorist acts such as bombing federal buildings and murdering minorities are described in William Pierce's novel The Turner Diaries, the same book that Timothy McVeigh allegedly used as a blueprint for the OKC Bombing. It's no surprise that the author of the book is a prominent member of the National Alliance.

The 'Order' even launched a successful counterfeiting operation at the Aryan Nations compound in Hayden Lake, Idaho, as well as master-minded a series of bank and armored car robberies that netted them around $5,000,000. The 'Order' seemingly perished in December 1984 when Robert Matthews held off 200 law enforcement officers for over 36 hours before he was killed by gunfire. On December 30, 1985, nine men and one woman - all members of the group - were convicted following a four-month Federal court case in Seattle. They were sentenced to terms of 40-100 years in prison, as well as given stiff fines. Despite the convictions and the martyrdom of Matthews, followers of 'The Order' remain in the Aryan terrorist underground today. (notably Mark Thomas, James Ellison, and Dennis Mahon)

Emerging from the ashes of 'The Order', a disturbing new terrorist sect has mobilized in the United States. The group is adopting the 'Leaderless Resistance' structure of impenetrable underground cells. [1b] Calling itself the Aryan Republican Army, the group represents the most paramilitary and radical of the American neo-Nazi movement. It is committed to the overthrow of the US government, the extermination of America's Jews, and the establishment of an "Aryan Republic" on the North American continent. "We call ourselves the Aryan Republican Army because in some of our tactics, and some of our goals, we have modeled the organization after the successful and yet undefeated Irish Republican Army," said Commander Pedro [1], in a self-made video titled "The Aryan Republican Army Presents: The Armed Struggle Underground." [4]

The FBI discovered this terrorist cell by accident earlier this year while investigating a string of 18 bank robberies in the Mid West. [1] The bank bandits made off with upwards of $500,000 before the FBI caught on to them.

With a tip from a confidential informant, the FBI was able to pinpoint one of the bank robbers, Richard Lee Guthrie Jr., member of the Aryan Republican Army. Guthrie was arrested on Jan 15, 1996. Two days after his arrest, Guthrie told FBI agents they could find co-conspirator Pete "Commander Pedro" Langan in a duplex at 585 Reinhard Ave. on the South Side. On Jan 18, 1996, agents surrounded the house and arrested Langan after a brief shootout. [2]

Guthrie struck a plea bargain with the authorities and fingered Scott Stedeford, Kevin McCarthy, and Aryan Nations leader Mark Thomas, as accomplices in the bank robberies, all of whom have since been arrested by the authorities.

McCarthy plead guilty to three robberies and agreed to testify against the others, while Stedeford was convicted of bank robbery in Iowa in November 1996 (and faces thirty years in prison). Langan was convicted in Columbus, Ohio, on February 10, 1997. Richard Lee Guthrie was found hanged in his jail cell shortly after he struck a plea bargain and fingered the other Aryan accomplices.

Mark Thomas was brought up on charges by a Grand Jury. The Grand Jury indictment says Thomas "recruited young people at his residence....to rob banks and commit other crimes on behalf of the Aryan Republican Army," [3]

Thomas has since said he believed McCarthy, a skinhead he once described as a son, was an accomplice in the Oklahoma City bombing. He said Richard Guthrie told him as much in July 1995.

"His exact words were: 'Your young Mr. Wizard took out the Murrah Building,'" Thomas said. [3]

On February 18, 1997, Thomas plead guilty to conspiracy charges of plotting seven (of twenty-two) bank robberies and using the funds to further the cause of the Aryan Republican Army.

Also arrested on Jan 30, 1997 in connection with the case was Michael Brescia of Philadelphia. Typical of the gang's robberies, authorities say, was a bank heist in Madison, Wis., on Aug. 30, 1995. Brescia carried a black-powder pipe bomb into a Bank One branch and threatened customers and employees with a 9mm pistol, and proceeded to rob the bank of $9,845.

[4] Internet postings and a civil suit by some survivors of the bombing have accused Brescia of being an accomplice in the Oklahoma City Bombing.

Aside from robbing banks, the terrorist cell stockpiled weapons and ammunition, and had every opportunity to orchestrate a terrorist bombing. The FBI captured a shoulder-fired rocket launcher, Semtex explosives, hand-grenade canisters, 11 pipe-bombs, and an arsenal of guns. "These people had a support system. They had safe-houses and very good false documents," said Mike Reynolds, senior intelligence analyst at the Southern Poverty Law Centre, which monitors Right-wing violence across the country. "They were clearly preparing for something beyond bank robberies." [1] As foretold by Dennis Mahon at the 1991 Aryan World Congress, 'The Order' was coming back, this time in the form of 'The Aryan Republican Army.'

ELOHIM CITY - BASE OF OPERATIONS

"When they (the FBI) find out what I've really been doing the past two years, they'll really be surprised."

--Pete 'Commander Pedro' Langan, 1996

Elohim City is a 400-acre compound located near Muldrow, Oklahoma, about thirty-five miles northwest of Fort Smith, Arkansas. It was founded in 1973 by Robert Millar, a Canadian who preaches that white Anglo-Saxons are God's chosen people, non-whites are descendants of pre-Adamic species lower than whites, and Jews are Satan's children. Two dozen of Millar's 34 grandchildren reside at Elohim City, making up about a quarter of the resident population. Elohim City is considered a hotbed of terrorist activity. In 1983, members of Elohim City plotted to blow up the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building, which is documented later in this article. Members of the Aryan Republican Army used the separatist compound as a base of operations in the years before the OKC bombing, where they mingled with other anti-government extremists, likely including the elusive John Doe #2 suspect.

In 1994, Michael Brescia moved to Elohim City where he shared a one-story house behind the compound's chapel with Andreas Strassmeir, a former German army lieutenant and head of security at Elohim City. By the time Brescia left Elohim City in 1995, investigators say, he, Stedford, Guthrie, and McCarthy were active in the Aryan Republican Army. [4] At least five active members of the Aryan Republican Army operated out of Elohim City in 1994 and 1995, and each of these members were in direct contact with Andreas Strassmeir, who is suspected to be John Doe #2.

McCarthy and Stedford used to stay with Andreas Strassmeir when they came through Elohim City for R&R between bank robberies. In fact, they were with him at Elohim City immediately before the bombing in April 1995, according to McCarthy's statement to the FBI [29]

STRASSMEIR -- ELOHIM CITY RESIDENT / JOHN DOE #2

As of yet, Strassmeir has not been identified as a member of the Aryan Republican Army, however, he was acquainted with Brescia, McCarthy, Stedford, and other members of the Aryan Underground. According to Robert Millar (Spiritual Leader at Elohim City), "Strassmeir and Brescia were buddies." In a phone interview with John Cash, Strassmeir said he liked Brescia because "he had a lot of self-confidence" and was "a smart guy". [20] Strassmeir also trained members of the Aryan Nations at Elohim City, and provided instruction in security measures. According to ATF Informant Carol Howe, "Strassmeir talked frequently about direct action against the U.S. government, he trained in weaponry, and he discussed assassinations, bombings and mass shootings." [20]

Just Who is Andy the German?

Andreas Carl Strassmeir is the son of Guenter Strassmeir, "the architect of German reunification" who was once a top aide to German Chancellor Helmut Kohl. Andreas Strassmeir spent seven years in the German army, serving with the Panzer Grenadiers and an elite German intelligence unit. Part of his work was to detect infiltration by Warsaw Pact agents and then feed them disinformation.

Strassmeir told the London Telegraph that "I've never worked for any U.S. government agency, and I've not been involved in any intelligence operation since my discharge from the German army in 1988." But he acknowledged he first lived in the U.S. in 1989 because "I was hoping to work for the operations section of the DEA. It never worked out." More revealingly, he noted that "the right-wing in the U.S. is incredibly easy to penetrate if you know how to talk to them. Of course it's easier for a foreigner with an accent. Nobody would ever suspect a German of working for the federal government."

Strassmeir was assisted in his unsuccessful attempts to get jobs with the DEA or INS by Vincent Petruskie, a retired Air Force Colonel and (Strassmeir says) CIA agent for whom Strassmeir arranged to buy used Boeing 747s from Lufthansa. Strassmeir received a social security number in 1989 in Virginia, and obtained a Tennessee driver's license in 1992, using a Knoxville address provided by his attorney Kirk Lyons. In 1991 some members of the Texas Light Infantry Brigade, a citizen's militia, followed Strassmeir to a federal building and observed him entering it at night using the key-pad. [20, 22]

After obtaining false documentation and a drivers license, Strassmeir was still unable to find a job (other than government informant). Because Andy could not legally obtain a job, and because of his apparent interests in 'alternative lifestyles', Andy moved to Elohim City in 1993. At that time, he had lived in the United States illegally for five years.

Zara Patterson III, a long time resident of Elohim City, summed up Strassmeir's intentions as equally ominous. "From the moment Andy got here (mid-August 1991) all he wanted us to do was illegal stuff. I had to keep telling Andy that we were defensive here... not offensive. I had to keep telling him that we didn't want any trouble with the Feds."

"I never saw anyone so eaten up with military stuff as Andy was," recalled Zara Patterson III. "I was in the Marines, but Andy was like nothing I ever saw before. He said he wanted to take over security and training here at EC, and I said fine. It was one less headache for me."

According to an FBI intelligence report, Strassmeir's spent his time at Elohim City fortifying and operating a terrorist training facility.

A May 10, 1995 FBI investigative report says:

"Strassmeir is alleged to train platoon-sized groups consisting of approximately 30 to 40 individuals approximately every three months at the Elohim City facility. These individuals are comprised of members of various militia groups throughout the United States."

Strassmeir spent much of his time at Elohim City in 1995. He associated with members of the Aryan Republican Army and James Ellison's CSL. After the OKC Bombing Strassmeir fled the compound with fellow Elohim City residents Pete and Tony Ward. Pete Ward and Tony Ward would later be named by Carol Howe and Dennis Mahon as OKC Bombing suspects.

After making his escape from E.C. with the Ward brothers, it is not clear how Strassmeir managed to leave the country. (considering he had no passport or identification papers) However, In a letter to the McCurtain Gazette from Strassmeir's attorney, Kurt Lyons, Lyons says his client's sudden departure from the U.S. was aided by members of Germany's elite counterterrorism unit, GSG-9.

Dennis Mahon, Tulsa representative of the White Aryan Resistance, has named the Ward brothers as being possible OKC Bombing accomplices. When shown an artist's sketch done by ABC News of the person that a witness in Kansas said used the name of Bob Kling, Mahon didn't hesitate, "That's Pete Ward." [11] "Ward," Mahon explained, "was known at Elohim City as 'Andy's shadow'...Ward went everywhere Strassmeir did and is dumb as dirt." Carol Howe also identified Pete and Tony Ward as OKBOMB accomplices when she was debriefed by the FBI at the Oklahoma Command Center, on April 20, 1995. [30]

In 1992, Catina Lawson, who lived in Herington, Kansas, remembers seeing Strassmeir along with Timothy McVeigh, whom she dated. Lawson recalled that Strassmeir "liked to dress in black, and he was real cold and arrogant--a real jerk." Two other witnesses, Larry and Cathy Wild, say they saw and talked with Strassmeir at a lake north of Herington the week before the OKC bombing [21] Both of these witnesses indicate that Strassmeir was in Kansas during the same time frame that McVeigh was, and that he very well may have been with McVeigh during the weeks before the bombing.

It is the belief of this writer that John Doe #2, the second unidentified subject in the April 19th 1995 bombing, is none other than Andreas Strassmeir. The evidence shows that Strassmeir spent seven years in the German army, served in the Panzer Grenadiers, and participated in covert activities such as detecting infiltration by Warsaw Pact agents and feeding them disinformation. Just what was Lt. Strassmeir doing in America from 1992-1995? Why was he at Elohim City arming and training Aryan Nations members? Did Strassmeir work as an agent provocateur and informant in the bombing, on behalf of the Federal Government, in an attempt at a sting operation gone awry? The time in which Strassmeir served as head of security at Elohim City placed him in a situation to make direct contact with Timothy McVeigh, Michael Brescia, Pete Ward, Tony Ward, Kevin McCarthy, Scott Stedford, Pete Langan, and Dennis Mahon, and other terrorists.

Was Strassmeir part of a plot, or an operation? Strassmeir had this to say about the OKBOMB case:

"It's obvious that it was a government 'op' that went wrong, isn't it? The ATF had something going with McVeigh. They were watching him, of course they were. What they should have done is make an arrest while the bomb was still being made instead of waiting till the last moment for a publicity stunt. They had everything they needed to make the bust, and they screwed it up."

"Whoever thought this thing up is an idiot, in my opinion. I am told they thought it would be better to put a bigger bomb in there. The bigger the better. It would make them more guilty....McVeigh knew he was delivering a bomb, but he had no idea what was in that truck. He just wanted to shake things up a little; you know, make a gesture."

"The bomb was never meant to explode. They were going to arrest McVeigh at the site with the bomb in hand, but he didn't come at the right time... Maybe he changed the time, you never know with people who are so unreliable."

"I have heard that the truck was expected in the middle of the night, between two and three in the morning. The truck had a transmitter, so they could track it with a radio receiving device. I don't know how they could have lost contact. I think there was misinformation that the operation had been canceled."

One wonders where Lt. Strassmeir gets his information.
From personal experience perhaps?

THE JOHN DOE #2 MYTH

The Federal Government's version of the OKC Bombing states that Timothy McVeigh and Terry Nichols built a bomb, then McVeigh drove it by himself to OKC and delivered it. Upon examination, this case is very weak. First of all, more than 10 individuals saw McViegh in Oklahoma City on April 19th and each individual saw him driving in the Ryder truck with other suspects. It has been proven that Terry Nichols, the government's only other suspect in the bombing, was at home on April 19th, 1995. So, just who were these other men with McVeigh in the Ryder truck? The logical conclusion is John Doe #2, and possibly a third, fourth or fifth individual. However, the FBI says that John Doe #2 doesn't exist. Here is their version, taken from an Associated Press article:

"After a massive search, the government said it had determined that John Doe 2 was an Army enlisted man who had no connection with the bombing. Agents said the man had been at the same truck rental facility in Kansas around the time that McVeigh rented the truck."

The assertion that John Doe #2 was merely an Army enlisted man with no connection to the bombing is a false one. The FBI says that Army Private Todd Bunting, who visited Elliot's bodyshop on April 18th, was the man seen with McVeigh. This is impossible. Two men entered Elliot's Bodyshop on Monday, April 17th, 1995. The first man, tall and slender, was thought to be McVeigh. The second man was shorter, with a stocky build, wearing a baseball cap. Three employees saw the second man, and each one separately provided their description of the man to FBI agents on April 20th, 1995, just three days after they saw him. Each witness was positive that they had seen John Doe #1 and John Doe #2. The FBI's is lying when they say that John Doe #2 is a Todd Bunting, who does not look like the artists's composite, and had visited Elliot's on Tuesday, not Monday.

Also, the FBI's investigation of John Doe #2 was in no fashion a "massive search." An FBI memo written weeks after the investigation by San Francisco-based FBI agent Thomas Ravenelle writes "The Oklahoma City Command Post has directed all offices to hold (John Doe No. 2) leads in abeyance." [33]

Abeyance means inactivity, or suspension. This memo indicates that FBI agents suspended their search for the elusive Oklahoma City bomb suspect John Doe No. 2 in the critical weeks soon after the April 1995 blast, belying assurances by federal officials at the time that the search was continuing. Was the FBI protecting Andreas Strassmeir, who is suspected to be John Doe #2? Stephen Jones, McVeigh's trial attorney summed it up best when he said:

"It was the grand jury that found there were others involved in this crime," Jones noted. "But the government stopped looking for the other main suspect and ignored what its own grand jury said because that finding and the existence of John Doe No. 2 is inconsistent with the prosecution's theory."

So, we know that the FBI did not properly investigate John Doe #2 witnesses or leads. The FBI lied about John Doe #2. We know also that the FBI ignored the Grand Jury's findings. According to an Oklahoma City Bombing Grand Jury members, "There were at least five men ID'ed by witnesses as being on the scene the morning of the bombing." [34] (Many of these eyewitnesses are detailed in Appendix C, 'OKBOMB Eyewitnesses')

Why was the FBI hiding John Doe #2? Why did the FBI propose the ridiculous Todd Bunting theory, which should be called "John Doe #2 Myth", as it is pure fabrication. The cover-up of John Doe #2 and lack of proper investigation is a testament to the integrity of the FBI, whose performance in the OKBOMB case is a travesty of justice.

OKC: THE FIRST PLOT (1983-1985)

"It has the potential, down the road, of being the most dangerous group (Elohim City) in the country."

--Kerry Noble (former member of Covenant, Sword, Arm of the Lord)

Residents of Elohim City being connected with plots that were intended to blow up the Murrah building did not begin with the Aryan Republican Army. On April 19th, 1985, exactly ten years before the bombing of the Murrah building the FBI and ATF raided members of James Ellison's Covenant, Sword, and Arm of the Lord group. Ellison is now married to Reverend Robert Millar's granddaughter and lives at Elohim City.

The 1985 raid on Elohim City became a siege that lasted four days before members of the group surrendered to authorities. After the raid, while preparing a sedition case against Ellison, U.S. Assistant attorney Steven N. Snyder, in Fort Smith, Arkansas learned that a plot to blow up the building had existed as early as 1983. [13] Ellison admitted in court that he had been involved in a plot to bomb the Murrah Building. Another member of conspirator in the 1983 bombing plan was Kerry Noble, now an anti-neo nazi activist. Nobles said "In 1983 we cased the [Murrah] building, and made plans to blow up that building." [23]

Richard Wayne Snell, another member of the Covenant, was a co-conspirator with Ellison and Nobles. Snell has since been convicted and put to death for the murder of a black police officer and a businessman he believed to be jewish. [14] Richard Wayne Snell was executed on April 19th, 1995. The Denver Post reported Arkansas prison official Alan Ables as saying that before Snell's execution on the day of the bombing he had "repeatedly predicted that there would be a bombing or explosion on the day of his death." Snell also reportedly "chuckled and laughed as he watched television coverage of the Oklahoma City disaster."

DENNIS THE MENACE

"Timothy McVeigh is my hero.
Wish we had a thousand more like him. He took action."

--Dennis Mahon

Another person who was living at Elohim City at the time of the bombing was Dennis Mahon. Mahon is a 47-year old white male currently living in Tulsa, Oklahoma. In the past, Mahon was the imperial dragon of the Oklahoma Ku Klux Klan [8] and held a similiar position in the Missouri Ku Klux Klan [35] but is currently the #3 man in the White Aryan Resistance which he helped organize. Mahon writes articles and speeches for racist organizations and publications across the United States. Mahon also operates a telephone news line he has dubbed "Dial-A-Racist", where he spreads information and propaganda with racist overtones.

Mahon has been subpoenaed to appear before the Oklahoma City Bombing Grand Jury several times and in each case he did not answer any questions, instead asserting his fifth amendment right to refuse to answer questions that would incriminate him. In a deposition taken by John Cash, as detailed previously, Mahon made incriminating comments about Pete Ward, Tony Ward, Michael Brescia, Andreas Strassmeir, and himself. In the deposition, Mahon said that Pete Ward was constantly with Andreas Strassmeir, and that Pete Ward heavily resembles the John Doe #1 police sketch. Mahon has also told Ambrose Evans-Pritchard that he had met Timothy McVeigh several times. [31] Mahon was also a known associate of Andreas Strassmeir and members of the community at Elohim City, placing him in a position to make contact with members of the Aryan Republican Army, and other Oklahoma City Bombing suspects. Andreas Strassmeir described Dennis Mahon as "a good friend."

Ironically, Mahon is currently distancing himself from the very people detailed in this article. In a December 19, 1998 Dial-A-Racist recording, Mahon characterized Mark Thomas and James Ellison as "race traitors" and suggested that they be tried for treason.

It's no wonder Mahon is distancing himself from these people as they are the very suspects in the 1983 OKC Bombing plot and 1995 OKC Bombing plot, the latter of which Mahon is also a suspect.

In an April 21, 1995 debriefing at the Oklahoma City FBI Command Center, it is stated that Dennis Mahon had discussed "targeting federal installations for destruction through bombings, such as the IRS Building, the Tulsa Federal Building, and the Oklahoma City Federal Building."

ATF informant Carol Howe said that Mahon and Strassmeir had "taken three trips to Oklahoma City in November 1994, December 1994, and February 1995." She had accompanied the group once, in December 1994. [32] Howe's assertions about Mahon and Strassmeir are corroborated by ATF Special Agent Angela Finley, under oath, on April 24, 1997. [36]

So, the ATF has admitted to the substance of Carol Howe's claims. The ATF knew that Andreas Strassmeir had discussed blowing up federal buildings in Oklahoma. It knew that a party from Elohim City (including Dennis Mahon, who has met Timothy McVeigh) had visited Oklahoma City four weeks before the Oklahoma City bombing. And, just as in 1983, the target of the Elohim City terrorists was the Alfred P. Murrah federal building.

It has also been alleged that Mahon knew Timothy McVeigh.

It's no secret that Mahon sees McVeigh as a hero, in his own twisted way. What is more incriminating is the fact that JD Cash has Dennis Mahon on tape discussing the bombing, saying things like "Michael Brescia and Mark Thomas are up to their asses in the bombing." When Cash told Mahon that Andreas Strassmeir was an intelligence agent, Mahon responded by cursing "Oh sweet Jesus, I'm fucked!" This tape, alleged to have been made by journalist John Cash, is a valuable piece of evidence. If it's contents are true then it means that Mahon knows something. The only question now is "How much did he know, and when did he know it?"

THE KEHOE CONNECTION

On July 17, 1997, a $20 million bond was set by an Ohio Judge for Chevie Kehoe, former resident of Elohim City. [27]

Kehoe was detained for questioning in the slayings of Tilly, Ark., gun dealer David Mueller his wife Nancy, and her daughter, Sarah Elizabeth Powell,

8. The three disappeared in January 1996. Their decomposed bodies were dredged from the Illinois Bayou near Russellville,
Ark. [15]

Kehoe is believed to have used a .223-caliber rifle, stolen from Mueller, when he fired 26 shots during the second shootout with two Wilmington police officers at the Clinton Electrical and Plumbing Supply. The reader may recognized this shootout as it has been featured on primetime tv's 'Cops', 'World's Scariest Police Shootouts', and 'PrimeTime Live.'
