

Descendants of Pierre Lejeune dit Briard I

Generation No. 1

1. PIERRE LEJEUNE DIT¹ BRIARD I was born 1595 in Brie France¹, and died 1700 in Port Royal, Annapolis, NS, Canada². He married UNKNOWN³ Bef. 1623 in Pt Royal, Acadie Nouvelle Acose⁴. She died Unknown.

Notes for PIERRE LEJEUNE DIT BRIARD I:

"The vast majority of the Acadian immigrants shared a common socioeconomic heritage. Fully three-fourths of the settlers in the 1671 census of Acadie were former peasants of the labourureur caste. Laboureurs constituted the highest of the five peasant classes in France of the ancien regime. Industrious, frugal, and tied together by an intricate extended family system, they shared a deep and abiding attachment to the land they framed.

Only the religious wars of late sixteenth- and early seventeenth- century France, which destroyed the meager economic gains of their families, could have uprooted them from their home provinces and driven them across the Atlantic into the Maritime Canadian wilderness. Their peasant heritage would profoundly influence the course of Acadian cultural development."

There is some discussion about the origin of the "dit Briard" affixed to the early settlers' names. It is possible that they attached the tail end to indicate their place of origin (a common practice in France). In this case it is either Brie, near Paris, or Les Biards, Avrancher, Manche in France. If so, they would probably have been cod-fishermen by trade. It is almost certainly the first, since most of these families farmed for a living.

Generation No. 2

2. PIERRE LEJEUNE DIT BRIARD² II. (PIERRE LEJEUNE DIT¹ BRIARD I) was born 1625 in Poitou Province France⁵, and died Aft. 1661 in Acadie, N.E.. He married DAUGHTER DOUCET 1650 in Port Royal, Acadia, daughter of GERMAIN DOUCET and MARIE LANDRY. She was born Bet. 1625 - 1633 in Acadie, Nouvelle Ecosse, and died Aft. 1661 in Acadie, Nouvelle Ecosse.

Notes for PIERRE LEJEUNE DIT BRIARD II:

THE LEJEUNES ARE A PIONEER FAMILY in ACADIA

According to Rameau de Saint Pere, a Feudal Colony in America, Acadia 1604-1881, Vol 2, p. 318-320, the LeJeune-Briard family was part Metis Native American, and part French. It was a very old family according to the author. The Eastern shores of Acadie have always been a favorite gathering place for the Metis families, where the first one assuredly goes back to the time of the companions of Biencourt and de LaTour, the early French explorer/settlers. Some of these families were already well into their first or second generation by the time of the 1671 census.

The LeJeune Metis family had settled at Merligouesh (Indian and Metis village located between Cap-de-Sable and La-Heve), because two men from Port Royal had married two of the LeJeune women between 1638 and 1650. In fact, in 1650, Catherine LeJeune, at 17 years of age, married Francois Savoie. Sixteen years earlier, in 1636, her oldest sister, born in 1623, had married Francois Gautherot.

Three of their sons appear to have become "coureurs de bois" with the Indians and Metis: Jean, Francois and Germain Gautherot... These marriages will later be blessed by the Recollets when they come back to Acadia. Jeane Lambert, a woman named LeJeune and perhaps a man named Guildry would have been among them. We will find many of their descendants in the Metis and Indian villages.

The LeJeunes will use the surname of Briard: sometimes the surname of their true ancestor, LeJeune; at other times they will assume his surname of Briard which would seem to indicate that their ancestor came from Brie, a region east of Paris.

The consanguinity of the LeJeunes, (called) dit Briard, is sometimes difficult to establish for the reason that many of them will continue to live in Indian and Metis villages; others will settle in Piziauud, south of the Bassin des Mines. This being said, little remains of the registers from the two parishes of this settlement: Sainte-Famille and l'Assumption. The Acadian ancestor of the LeJeune-Briards had at least three children who reached adulthood: Emdee, Pierre, and Catherine.

N.B. Pierre Lejeune dit Briard married a daughter of Germain Doucet at Port Royal c.1650 The older son, also named Pierre Lejeune dit Briard, married Marie, a daughter of Pierre Thibodeaux, in 1678. The Lejeunes moved several times in subsequent years, first to La Heve in 1686, back to Port Royal in 1698, Petite-Rivere, near La Heve, in 1704, then finally to Pigiguit in 1712. Pierre's younger brother, Martin dit Briard (Labriere), married an Indian woman, Marie-Jeanne Kagijonais, in 1684, then Marie, a granddaughter of Jean Gaudet, at Pigiguit in 1699, where his family settled.

N.B. " A briard is a person which is from Brie, Brie is an area at the east of Paris with the departments (Provinces) of 'Seine et Marne', 'Val de Marne', 'Essonne', 'Aisne', 'Aube'." This area is the same for not only the Lejeunes, but for Jacob Bourgeois and perhaps Germain Doucet. Often when the name is followed with "dit Briard" or another word which is the name of a town, a region, or an area, it is because the origin of this person." Comments from Francois Roux, Sene, France.

Notes for EDMEE LEJEUNE DIT BRIARD:

Stephen White, noted Acadian historian, does not believe that Edmee is a daughter of Pierre Lejeune I, nor is Catherine Lejeune, her sister. Others argue that this the only possible family which could have produced these women.

Father Clarence-Joseph D;Entremont, in his book, " Le Canada-Francais Documents sur l'Acadie," asserts that Pierre II who arrived in Acadia as a child married a MicMac woman. The census of 1686 listed Pierre Lejeune III as being married to Marie Thibodeau and Martin Lejeune as being married to Marie-Jeanne Kagijonias, a member of the MicMac tribe. After Marie-Jeanne's death, census lists a sister to Pierre III and Martin named Jeanne, who was married to Francois Joseph, a member of the MicMac tribe.

Notes for BLAISE LEJEUNE:

Blaise LeJeune upon arrival in Iberville from Natchitoches in 1770 the Lejeunes and honore Trahan and his wife settled there for an unknown period of time. The only records of th4eir being there come in connection with Blaise Lejeune who is recorded as having received a grant of land in the year 1772

" a tract of land situated on the west side of the river Mississippi in the county of Iberville, containing five arpents and two loise in front and forty arpents in depth...This land was surveyed by Don Louis Andry, in the year 1772, in favor of Blas Lejeune, who botained a complete grant for the same in 1774 from Governor Unzaga."

Blaise was twenty-two years of age when he acquired his land grant in 1772. Also living in the area at that time was the amily of Pierre Breaux and his wife Marguerite Goterot who were themselves Acadian refugees. Among the members of the family was a daughter, Marie Joseph, the sixth of seven children born to Pierre and Marguerite in Acadia.: Notes attributed to James M. Vidrene in his work in familytreemaker @ Genealogy.com.

Apparantly Blaise was not happy in the Iberville area, and sometime prior to 1777 the family moved to the Opelousas Post area where they are shown that year with two children: Blaise, Jr age 4 and Joseph, age 1. It is not known if Blaise, Jr. made the trip to the Opelousas Post with his brothers and sister.however Marguerite and Joseph, along with their uncle Honore Trahan are shown living in close proximity to Blaise, Sr. on that census.

Blaise acquired a tract of land on Bayou Carencro, south of present day Sunset, where the family is believed to have settled. On July 23, 1783, Blaise sold a portion of this property to his brother Joseph Lejeune. Around 1790, perhaps because he felt that the Bayou Carencro area was overcrowded or possibly because additional land to expand was not available, Blaise dedided to move farther west. This move westward was giant step for Blaise and his famiy, putting them in the very forefront of the westward migration.

The growing family, now numbering eight children, settled north of Bayou Plaquemine Brulee about a mile southeast of the present day community of Richard. On contemporary maps a stream bearing the name Blaise Lejeune Bayou or Blaise Lejeune Gulley still bears testament to this pioneer settler. The original grant which Blaise received, consisting of 640.54 acres, is now described as Section 64 in Township 7 South-Range 2 East. After Blaise's death the property was acquired by his eldest son Blaise, Jr. Another of Blaise's sons, Joseph, acquired a large tract of land consisting of 575.04 acres adjoining that of Blaise, Jr and being section 41 of the previously described Township and Range. By the early 1800's Blaise Lejeune and Marie-Joseph Breaux's descendents has migrated from the settlement to Bayou Plaquemine Brulee to what is now St. Landry, Acadia and Evangeline Parishes. Today their descendents, who number into the many thousands, are found over much of Louisiana and across the United States.

Notes for CHRISTOVAL PULCHERIE LEJEUNE:

Baptism Sponsors: Adolphe Herisson and Celima Ledoux: Priest: Fr A. Dubourg

Christoval was a farmer/ planter. He lived in the Prairie Ronde section fo St. Landry Parish, in the area very near the present day Prairie Ronde Baptist Church. While he was married he and his wife Victoria were members of the Catholic Church in nearby Chatagnier, where their first child Aimee was baptised. After Victoria died, in 1929, the family was split apart, with the children living with various relatives when Aimee could no longer care for all of them along with her family with Henry Boone. Christoval, Sr. lived with Aimee and the Boones on property they owned near where Christoval had farmed. He died while living there, and is buried in their Church's graveyard about 1/2 mile away. It is believed that Victoria is buried in another graveyard located behind the Boone property and locally referred to as the Lejeune cemetery. The Boone daughters (all in their late 60-70's in 2004) recall their grandmother being buried under the trees at the front left of the cemetery, but no headstone exists. It is further to be remembered that this period of relative poverty in the entire area resulted from the World War I, the depression, followed by World War II.
