

Descendants of John Kelley

Generation No. 1

1. JOHN¹ KELLEY was born Abt. 1708 in County Armagh, Ireland, and died Abt. 1762. He married MISS HARRIS. She was born Abt. 1717, and died Abt. 1762.

Notes for JOHN KELLEY:

BIO:John Kelley, born in County Armagh, Ireland (Ulster or Northern Ireland), came to America in 1719. He came to the Colony of Pennsylvania in 1734. In 1747 he was engaged in fur trading with the Delaware Indians on the west side of the Susquehanna River, 12 miles from the present site of Harrisburg. John Kelley was associated with John Harris who founded Harrisburg, the capital of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in 1747.

John Kelley located in Donegal Township, Westmoreland County in 1760.

He married John Harris' sister. While no direct ties have been found, it is a theory that Harris' sister was William Kelley, Sr.'s mother.

While the Horn Papers are not always reliable, a notation in these documents says, "John Kelley and his family came with a group of settlers in 1767 in the Spring. The sons, James, William and Joseph lived here in Greene County (not named that until years later) until about 1777." In another place the papers state John Kelley located in Donegal Township, Westmoreland County in 1760."

2. iv. WILLIAM KELLEY, SR, b. 1759, Southwestern Virginia; d. July 14, 1841, Rices Landing, Greene County, Pennsylvania.

Generation No. 2

2. WILLIAM² KELLEY, SR (*JOHN*¹) was born 1759 in Southwestern Virginia, and died July 14, 1841 in Rices Landing, Greene County, Pennsylvania. He married ELISABETH FORCE Abt. 1794¹. She was born March 27, 1777 in Rahway, Middlesex County, New Jersey, and died October 18, 1856 in Fayette County, Pennsylvania.

Notes for WILLIAM KELLEY, SR:

BIO: William Kelley was born in 1759, we think in southwestern Virginia back of the Blue Ridge Mountains from Williamsburg on the Tidewater section of the state. The son of John Kelley and a woman whose maiden name was Harris, but whose first name is unknown. It is known that she was the sister of John Harris who was the founder of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Records offered by Genevieve McKinney Hartsaw of Washington, Pa., show "William Kelley served as a private in the militia of Chesterfield County, Virginia." Chesterfield County in old Virginia is located south of Richmond and west of Petersburg, Virginia. In his will William Kelley, Sr. mentioned that the children of Morris would inherit his share. Morris had predeceased his father. William married Elisabeth Force and the couple had the following children: Sarah; Eliza; William, Jr.; James; Samuel Force; Squire Freeman, Sr.; Harriet; Martha; Rachel; and Morris. Some records seem to indicate that William, Sr. was married twice and had the following children by his first wife: Morris; Charlotte; Maria; Susan; Hannah and Mary. It is more likely that Charlotte, Maria, Susan, Hannah and Mary actually the daughters of Morris. Following the Revolutionary War, William turned most of his wealth over to the Colonial Government in exchange for Continental currency. Afterwards the currency became so inflated, partly because the British printed such paper money, that it became almost worthless. The U.S. Government offered to redeem the Continental currency for five cents on the dollar, but William refused. He believed that some day the Continental would be redeemed for its original amount. "We lost our heritage of wealth but we gained a nobler heritage," James Edward Kelley wrote. "Our heritage is the gratitude of every American citizen. I would not exchange my American freedom (for which Father William fought and gave his all) for the wealth of a Rockefeller." Both William, Sr. and his wife Elisabeth are buried in the Hewitt United Presbyterian Church cemetery.

BIO:One record shows the date of his birth as April 12, 1810 and another, April 21, 1810. Some records show the date of his death as 1927, however, 1897 seems to be a more realistic date.

Freeman was born in Greene County, Pennsylvania and married Mary Ailes and they had seven sons and five daughters. They were married in Greene County on December 1, 1835.

About 1843 they moved to Clinton District, Monongalia County. Another notation shows the move took place in 1840.

About the year 1855 Freeman accepted Christ and was united to the Methodist Episcopal Church at Smith's Chapel (Later called Halleck) of which church he was an active member until prohibited by the infirmities of old age. Although during his declining years he could not take an active part in his church, yet he was devoted to the study of the Scriptures.

He was a kind and indulgent father, a hospitable neighbor and freely gave to the poor.

He always led a peaceful life and on his death bed of affliction some of his last words were "I am just waiting."

Both Freeman and Mary are buried in the Halleck Cemetery.

Notes for JOSEPH C. KELLEY:

BIO:Joseph Kelley was born near Jefferson or Rice's Landing, Pa., October 1, 1836, the son of Squire Freeman and Mary Ailes Kelley. He was brought to the community later called Browns Chapel in 1840 by his parents who acquired land, mostly wooded, about a dozen miles south of Morgantown, Monongalia County, on Laurel Run. The roads crossing that land were the Morgantown-Evansville Pike on the east and the Halleck-Gladesville link of the Fairmont-Kingwood Pike on the south.

Joseph was around six feet tall, had dark eyes and when granddaughter, Dora, knew him he was already gray headed.

He fought for the Federal government of "Abe" Lincoln serving in the Union Army during the War Between the States, Company B, Fourth West Virginia Cavalry.

Joseph was a shoe repairer and worked on wagons and guns as well as doing a little farming.

He and Eliza Ann Lewis were married in October, 1858. Her father, Benjamin Lewis, owned a home in Reedsville, Preston County, a community on the Morgantown-Kingwood road.

The couple started housekeeping at Reedsville where daughter, Delia Belle, and son, Benjamin Adam, were born, before they moved to Browns Chapel.

Joseph died in the log cabin near the Limestone Spring near the east corner of the original Kelley tract. He was 74 years old at his death on December 12, 1910. He was buried at Gladesville, some three miles from his home.

Notes for BENJAMIN ADAM KELLEY:

Benjamin worked in the coal bee-hive ovens in the Fairchance Uniontown district, drawing coke from the bricked structures after it had charred. He was in the strike of 1894 when the operating mines of the Frick Coal Company were out. In this particular strike 11 persons were killed and H.C. Frick, a millionaire coal baron who helped later to form the U.S. Steel Corporation, was owner of many mines in the area.

Benjamin fell down the stairs of a son's home and the injuries he suffered caused his death in 1946. It is presumed he is buried beside his wife at Maple Grove Cemetery.

Kelley Clan Magazine, July 29, 1947, Number 22, James O. Stewart, R.D. No. 1, Box 102, Brownsville, Pennsylvania

In March 1941 your historian called at the home of Benjamin Adam Kelley in Fairchance. The aged man made the following statement: - "I was born November 13, 1861 in Reedsville, WV. I am a son of Joseph Kelley and Eliza Lewis Kelley, who were married young. Three of the children were born there, Adelia Kelley, Freeman Squire Kelley and myself. My mother died at about the age of forty-eight or fifty. My parents are buried at Gladesville, WV. I went to a subscription school before the time of free schools. The teacher, Elgy Reppert, was severe. He whipped one boy until the blood came through his shirt and made it stiff when the blood dried. The pupils learned. He never gave a lick to me. I never got a whipping at school as I always tried to do what was right. In the short time that I went to free school, it was four months a year, I learned more than at the subscription school. The free school was the Brown school, a log cabin then. There was no Brown Chapel there then and the church was held in the log school house. The teachers I went to there were John Lyons (or Lions), Mac Chipps, Mary Farrel and Mr. Cunningham. Lots of the pupils went until they were twenty-one and some after that by paying three cents per day. I started at about the age of seventeen and went for four years, had the four teachers. I went to Fairchance to stay in 1887. I fell in love with Arminta McCullough and married her. I met her in Fairchance. She was the daughter of John and Mary (Smith) McCullough. We were married November 17, 1887.

We had twelve children."

Mr. Kelley died in the Uniontown Hospital August 23, 1946. Interment was in Maple Grove Cemetery in Fairchance. See magazine number eleven for further information.

Arminta, died in the home at Fairchance the afternoon of May 30, 1940, after a long illness and complication of diseases. She was 71 years, two months and 30 days old at the time. She was a member of the Free Methodist Church and was buried in the old Maple Grove Cemetery at Fairchance.

Two children, Mrs. Sylvia Kelley Smith and William A. Kelley, preceeded her in death.

At the time of her death, besides widower Benjamin, she was survived by Joseph and Benjamin, Jr., of Fairchance; Charles, at home; John Kelley, U.S. Army in Brooklyn, New York; Henry Clay Kelley of Uniontown; Mrs. Nellie Smith of Culver, Pennsylvania; Mrs. Carmen Smith of Washington, DC, and Mrs. Joe Pavlischek of Meadowbrook, Pennsylvania, all children. He had his share of the Kelley land and lived in a hom near the western and southern coner of the original Kelley Tract. He was known for his carpentry work but had worked in a coal mine at Gypsy, near Clarksburg, Harrison County, at one time. In tle middle and late 1920s, he did all the repair work on all the one-room schools in Clinton District, Monongalia County. He rode on a horse to work but sometimes used his 1920 model T Ford.

As a young man he and the Snider Boys used to play for square dances because Geed could play the organ, guitar and violin.

For many years he worked on several different saw mills in the locality and he and Vincent Kelley, his cousin, built a few houses around Gladesville. He used to tell his son, Don, how he worked on houses and school houses in the summer months and hunted and trapped for furs during the winter.

In 1940, while staying at the David Watson Farm, Charles W. Dunc1 wrote in his journal of visiting his great-uncle Geed and Aunt Hattie: Nov. 16, a Saturday "About 6 p.m. I went to Uncle Geed's for a visit. Walking was precarious on the paths and roads. Children were sled riding on Tater Hill. Stayed at Geed's until after 10 p.m. talking. Uncle Geed has some ideas about religion; a philosophy about life and a piece of stone of some type that has patterns on it like the trees of the coal formation (Carboniferous Age) age of WV. He found it on top of the ground. One side is rounded and the other niches in it like tracks or perhaps fern patterns. His ideas on God is Love--a spiritual being and that that love includes our fellow beings being righteous--righteousness and those qualities taught by Christ, intrigues me. He concedes his ideas are not bountifully supported by his fellowmen. He says, as does one of my professors in sociology at Fairmont State College, some things in the Bible are not absolutely correct, due partly to the fact that men who wrote them were not broad enough in affairs. Affairs meaning universal knowledge.

"His philosophy of life and beliefs of the Poor man being poor because he wants to "keep up with the Joneses" are interesting. His knowledge on taxes and how the poor are taxed is backed--are proved and true in more instances than not. He seems to have some knowledge of Voltaire--great French philosopher and writer--and others which he has read in a book he owns. His philosophy is formed mostly from the Bible. what I learned tonight changes my mind about his depth."

Picture for your memory book :

"Of two elderly people, gray haired in their late 50s, seated before an open fireplace. The man discussing theology with a college student and doing very well at it. The man who the student thought was a 'grumbler' and yet a fine carpenter and builder, talking such things as philosophy. Dressed in dark trousers and safety pinned jacket of overall material, rubbing snuff; wearing a brown faded hunting cap. His wrinkles and hollowed cheeks clean shaven and tanned. His fingers wrapped in tape in a few places from wounds gotten from his labors. There he sits in an old rocking chair, chewing, spitting and interested and asking comments from the younger man who might be his grandson, he is so young.

"The woman, tall and fair complexioned. Not at all showing too many wrinkles for her years and hard labors. A pleasant face even when her eyes and mouth show she has a bad cold. She, sitting on a stool facing her husband, appreciative and attentive to his every word. Yet somehow binding a bit of doubtfulness and yet belief in his words of wisdom. Her blue eyes and graying hair still glitter, the eyes with humor, the hair with luster of life.

"And yet when sleep overtakes her weary eyes, she sits straight and interested, somewhat, trying so hard to be the perfect hostess. She was. These two folks are both worth a good deal as friends and are kind, understanding and not as broken by life and life's tragedies as they have been pictured, I do not believe."

After his wife, Hattie, died in 1957, Geed lived alone for awhile, spending much time with daughter, Dorothy and her children in her home nearby and with her widower, Bill Cunningham in whose home he died in 1968. He is buried at Halleck beside his wife, near daughter Dorothy, and son, William, and grandson, Alvin, Donald's son.

Notes for LINA EDNA SMITH:

BIO: Lina Smith

Lina Smith had brown hair and gray eyes and was slightly over five feet tall. In her life she never appeared to weigh very much because of childhood diseases.

Born Jan. 28, 1884, daughter of Elwood and Ellen Smith, her favorite food was chicken. She often recalled going to Browns Chapel School and taking part in spelling bees, and stories of the McGuffey Readers . Among those who were her teachers were Ella Simpson, William Price and Cyrus Snider.

Lina hooked rugs and quilted and enjoyed quilting parties in her earlier years. She liked to sing and like many "thin" persons dis liked snow and winter. She did not live too far from Browns Chapel School but carried her lunch. Her favorite president was Theodore Roosevelt who served 1901-1909.

Lina never missed one reunion, including the two at Mason-town, although she had heart trouble for years and could not do much work around the house. Her final illness came when she was staying with her sister, Della Harden, in Westover. When Lina got weak from loss of appetite, Dell put her in the hospital at Morgantown. Lina died in the downtown General Hospital Feb. 22, 1973 and is buried at Halleck. She never married .

Lina was an important person to those attending the reunions. She received the prize as the oldest person in attendance a number of times and the reunions had a special "stability" as long as she was there.

Notes for ANNETTE JUNE FOSTER:

In a book my Grandma gave me, there is a story of the History of the Name Hay.

The family motto of the Hay's is "Preserve the Yoke" - is credited with the following origin:

In the reign of Kenneth III, the Danes invaded Scotland and met a Scottish army near Perth. The Scots gave way and as they were fleeing from the field, pursued by the Danes, a peasant named Hay and his two sons who had been working in a field near by, stationed themselves, armed only with the yokes of their plows in a narrow pass through the fugitives were hurrying and compelled them to halt. The battle was then renewed and the Scots gained a complete victory. As a reward for their act, the three Hay's were "made Nobels".

Notes for VERNON RAY MAYFIELD:

Story written about Vernon in the The Morgantown Post in 1963 after a rare operation he underwent

Vernon Mayfield, a linotype operator at the Post, is home today recovering after a 43-day stay in University Hospital because of the bleeding disease, hemophilia.

For Mayfield, a 46 year old father of two, it was another in more than a dozen hospitalizations over the years because of injuries or bleeding that wouldn't stop.

But Mr. Mayfield must count his latest hospitalization as his closest call. In 43 days he had two major operations; one for removal of three-fourths of his stomach because of a bleeding ulcer, and another to remove a collection of blood that developed after the operation.

In supportive therapy to keep Mr. Mayfield alive physicians used: 70 pints of whole, fresh O-positive blood; 79 pints of fibrinogen solution to add to his blood the factor that is missing in hemophiliacs; and 37 pints of plasma.

Diagnosis and treatment of Mr. Mayfield's problem is an example of using many of these available services of a modern medical center; a large hospital staff, nurses trained in intensive care unit procedures, all of the specialties in the clinical laboratories -- particularly large demands on the blood bank -- and physician specialists in blood work, surgery, and medicine.

Vernon Mayfield was first admitted to Morgantown's St. Vincent Pallotti Hospital with what was suspected to be a bleeding ulcer. Usually his bleeding would stop after about one week.

But it had not stopped by the eighth day, so his physician had Mr. Mayfield transferred to W.V.U. Hospital March 16.

Hemophilia is a hereditary problem which causes severe bleeding, even from slight wounds. The blood of normal persons has certain "factors" that enable it to clot. One of them is "Factor VIII." In hemophiliacs this factor is missing, or present in such small quantities that normal clotting cannot occur.

When Mr. Mayfield arrived at University Hospital the supportive therapy using whole blood was continued. Meanwhile, Dr. M. M. Stevenson, a hematologist, began the first of dozens of daily thromboplastin generation tests to find the level of Factor VIII in Mr. Mayfield's blood. The factor was in the 70 pints of whole blood he had received by transfusion, but it became diluted by his own blood. So, a special solution called fibrinogen (rich in Factor VIII) was given for days until Mr. Mayfield's bleeding was brought under control. Dr. Stevenson explained that in supportive therapy the idea is to raise the factor to a level to stop bleeding.

Mr. Mayfield probably is one of the most tested men in the United States. During his 43 days in University Hospital he had daily measurements of blood volume. Blood electrolytes and hemoglobin were measured about three times a day. These lab tests were all necessary to know how his body was responding to the supportive therapy. Too, it was necessary to know if his body was being overloaded with fluids and whether the kidneys were holding up under the stress.

Surgery for a bleeding ulcer in a hemophiliac is not common. Only about a dozen cases are in the reported scientific literature.

Vernon Mayfield knew about his problem from childhood. A native of Morgantown, he recalls that as a child playing ball, a twisted ankle would cause a bruise that would continue to swell for a week before it stopped.

Mr. Mayfield went to work at the Morgantown Post in 1940.

Incidentally, his Fairmont born wife is a registered nurse Mr. Mayfield met during one of his first hospitalizations in Morgantown.

Obituary for Vernon

Vernon Mayfield, 48, Dies at WVU

"There's only one thing I can say, he was a helluva good fella... you wouldn't know the trouble he had ... went about his work gentlemanly like...well - liked...one of the regular guys...always had a good sense of humor."

"A real nice guy."

Soft words from the men he worked with for some 30 years. But they describe Vernon Mayfield for what he was.

The composing room crew remembers Vernon as a soft spoken, handle-bar-mustache wearing, slender man who, over the years, had suffered a great deal of physical illness but who very seldom missed much work because of it.

It was his illness, finally, that forced him to retire in 1964. It was an illness that, at one time, required him to have a transfusion of some 100 pints of blood for an "almost unheard of" operation. Still, "you wouldn't know the trouble he had," his fellow linotypists and composers say.

Vernon, 48, joined the WV Publishing Co., in the late 1930s as a proofreader, becoming in 1942 a member of the composing room crew as a linotype operator. He died Wednesday evening in University Hospital.

In his compositor's vernacular, the composing room says "30" Vernon.

He was born February 22, 1918, in Morgantown, a son of the late Ray Mayfield. His mother, Edith Kelley Mayfield, survives.

In addition, he is survived by his wife, Nola; one son, David Mayfield of Fairmont; one daughter, Gretchen, at home; on brother, Keith Mayfield of Morgantown; one sister, Mrs. W.D. (Patricia) Hansen of Ashburn, Va.; and one granddaughter.

He was a member of the Christian Missionary Alliance Church.

Friends may call at the Davidson Funeral Home after 2 p.m. Friday until noon Sunday when the body will be removed to the Christian Missionary Alliance Church on Arch and Reay streets to lie in state until 1 p.m., the time of the funeral service. The Rev. Neil McDowell will officiate. Interment will follow in Mount Calvary Cemetery.

The second account of his death

Vernon Mayfield, A Valiant Friend

In this age of marches, riots, protests and violence, the easy-going, thoughtful and cheerful stand out. This was the stature of Vernon R. Mayfield, a long-time fellow worker for the WV Newspaper Publishing Co. and a friend of long standing.

Vernon, who died Wednesday, had more than his share of trials and tribulations, not though by his making, but through it all he maintained a stalwart courage and had a cheery word, a smile, and warm fellowship for and with his co-workers.

Through all the 30-plus years he was associated here with the newspapers, he served loyally as a member of the local union of the International Typographical Union, and held his share of the officer positions which go with making a union a needed integral part of labor.

Despite his many recurring illnesses, most of them serious, he kept an active interest in working conditions, education, community, and school activities. His work in the publishing business was of a high caliber.

He will be remembered, also, as a youth who helped pay his way through high school by proofreading for the newspaper, for his devotion to his family, and for the many little things he did for other people.
