Notes for ARLENE MAVIA BARR:

Arleen had golden ringlets until she was 5. There is a story that was told to me when I was little that an old Indian offered my grandfather some horses in trade for my mother as he was quite taken with her hair.

What follows are the memories of Arleen.

One of my memories is of Midnight. She was an all black, tall, plain, plodding type of horse, who because of her gentle nature was used as a buggy horse for the family. She was kept in a corral near the house. Dad would try to rope her but she wanted to play dodge the rope. If dad was in a hurry he would come in the house and get me so that I could get the horse. I was not very tall but I would hold that rope as high and as wide as I could and Midnight would come over and put her head through, so that I could lead her over to dad. (My Aunt Louise's notes: Arleen was so little she could have walked under Midnights belly with little stooping, but apparently Midnight considered her as one who must be obeyed..) We went to school in a covered cutter that dad had made. It had a round heater in it as the winters were very cold and we had 2 1/2 miles to go to get to school. One morning we were late getting out, Midnight who was already hitched and waiting left on time. My brother Dave went running after her, yelling "whoa whoa" but she just kept going. She was on time for school, we were late. Three school traumas! 1. The teacher told me to write on the board, I had to go, and didn't know how to ask and I wet my pants. 2. We were playing hide and seek, I hid under Miss Tylers desk and did not hear the bell. When she sat down I scrunched back, she asked, "Where is Arleen?" I said in a wee voice, "Let me out." 3.

Was when some kids dared me to jump off the steps, I did and cut my hand. I still have the scar.

We had goats, and one day some how got the goats in the house and into mom and dads bedroom where we had a great time jumping on the bed. Then mom came in, she was not amused!

We had a great dog that was named Captain Kelly but we always called him Cappy. One time a nasty man wanting to know where the chickens were kept shoved Mom. Cappy had him down with his teeth an inch from the mans throat, waiting for mom's instructions. She asked the man if he was ready to leave, he was. Another time while Cappy and I were left on guard I had a scary time. Three men came up right after the family left and headed for the barn. I took my rifle and Cappy and went down. I asked them to leave! One of them stepped toward me and said, "And if we don't?" I pointed my rifle at his belly and Cappy stared growling. I said, "I'll get you and my dog will get the other..." They left! I cried and hugged Cappy very tight.. When dad heard of my scare he wouldn't let me do guard any more.
