Notes for JOHN JOSEPH NIKOLAUS:

John was also known as Huntz. He and Jacob would often discuss German folk tales, myths and superstitions. Huntz had a wonderful story about a drive he made alone from his home in Wisconsin to property he owned near Albuquerque. He says he went into a coffee shop for a break and when he returned to his car he found a pair of little men (elves/pixies/brownies) sitting in the front seat, waiting for him to give them a lift. He drove them for some distance, but the two fell into a constant bickering and were arguing so loudly, that Huntz stopped at another coffee shop and told them to be gone when he returned to the car. They were.
