

Descendants of VIGILIO PERSEGHIN

Generation No. 1

1. MR VIGILIO¹ PERSEGHIN was born 1851 in REVIGO PROV, AUSTRIA, and died 03 Dec 1932 in Dundalk, Maryland. He married MRS MARIA IMBANIA BOMBANATO 1875 in TRECHENTA, REVIGO PROV, ITALY. She was born 13 Oct 1855 in TRECHENTA, REVIGO PROV, Italy, and died 24 Dec 1940 in DUNDALK, MD.

Notes for MR VIGILIO PERSEGHIN:

Born and educated in a village on the Austrian-Italian border. Had cousins who were shepherds in the Alps. Stone Mason by trade. Met and married Imbania Bombanato in Trechenta, while constructing a chapel on the estate of the local count. Remained in Trechenta and raised his family there.

Had his three eldest sons educated and apprenticed in Stuttgart, Germany.

A man of modest wealth.

Moved to America about five years after his older sons. Had enough money to pay his own passage, purchase property and live off his money. Lived in Burgaw, N.C. Later moved to Dundalk, Md. with his wife and two younger sons, Lawrence and Giovanni. Bought three town lots on Baltimore Ave, one of which was given to Napoleon (after the farm fiasco with his brother) and another to Giovanni (which became his shoemaker's shop). A deeply religious man, who insured that all his grandchildren practiced their Catholic faith. My own mother has memories of her grandfather gathering up the children on Sunday afternoon to take them to Vespers!

Generation No. 2

2. GAETANO² PERSEGHIN (*VIGILIO*¹) was born 07 Aug 1879 in Trecenta, Revigo, Italy¹, and died Dec 1964 in Dundalk, Baltimore, MD¹. He married ROSA BRANDALEZE 1902 in San Bellin, Rovigo Province, Italy, daughter of PIETRO BRANDALEZE and MATILDA QUAACHIO. She was born Abt. 1883 in San Bellino, Revigo, Italy, and died in Dundalk, Baltimore, MD.

Notes for GAETANO PERSEGHIN:

Gaetano and Dominic were the first to migrate to America, settling in Burgaw, N.C. (See notes on Napoleon Persegin)After several years, Napoleon and Adele migrated, followed several years later by Virgilio, Imbania, Lawrence and Giovanni.

The three older sons were skilled craftsman, having been apprenticed to Austrian and German masters in Stuttgart, Germany. Their big break came when the saw broke at the lumber mill in Burgaw, N.C. and Gaetano was able to fix it. After that, they were often able to supplement their income with skilled labor. After a few years, the brothers worked with an Italian construction crew that was building roads throughout the South. While this work gradually led to the rest of the family settling in Dundalk, Md. it took Gaetano to Sumpter, South Carolina, where he bought land and settled. There he worked and raised his family.

Gaetano's wife was Rosa, Adele Perseghin's sister. In later years, Gaetano and Rosa moved to Dundalk to be near their family. My own memories of Uncle Gaetano was a vigorous little man, riding his bicycle all over Dundalk. My only memories of Aunt Rosa was as "sick nona", a bedridden old woman who looked enough like my own grandmother to be her twin.

Notes for CARLO DOMENICO PERSEGHIN:

Gaetano and Dominic were the first to migrate to America, settling near Burgaw, N.C.

Both men were skilled craftsmen, having been apprenticed to Austrian and German masons in Stuttgart, Germany. Their big break in North Carolina came when the saw broke at the lumber mill in Burgaw, N.C. and Gaetano was able to fix it.

After several years, Napoleon and Adele also migrated to Burgaw, followed several years later by Virgilio, Imbania, Lawrence and Giovanni.

The three older brothers worked at times with a construction company run by Frank and Luigi Deluca that had been contracted to build roads throughout the South. While working with the crew near Baltimore, Dominic decided to settle in Dundalk, MD. A bricklayer by trade, he built houses with the Delucas and soon convinced his father to come north as well.

Dominic was an aggressive risk taker whose business schemes often went awry. His money problems were compounded by a lifelong gambling addiction. After several failed projects, including a joint farming venture with his brother Napoleon, Dominic was so debt ridden that he began to go by his middle name Carlo.

Like his father and brothers, he raised his family and lived out his life in Dundalk, MD.

4. MR NAPOLEON² PERSEGHIN (*VIGILIO*¹) was born 19 Jun 1887 in TRECENTA, REVIGO PROV, ITALY⁶, and died 18 Sep 1985 in DUNDALK, MD⁶. He married MRS ADELE MARIA BRANDALEZE 07 Jan 1907 in SAN BELLINO, REVIGO PROV ITALY, daughter of PIETRO BRANDALEZE and MATILDA QUAACHIO. She was born 21 Jun 1886 in SAN BELLINO, REVIGO PROV, ITALY, and died 13 May 1971 in DUNDALK, MD.

Notes for MR NAPOLEON PERSEGHIN:

The Perseghins came to Wilmington, North Carolina as the result of an economic experiment by Hugh MacRae, a Southern businessman who sought to alleviate the labor problems of North Carolina by creating a series of peasant farming colonies in Southeastern North Carolina. MacRae's efforts in what he termed "human engineers" were based on Edmund Morris's book "Ten Acres Enough" which argued that, using modern farming methods, a farmer could support his family on ten acres of land. Between 1905 and 1912, MacRae's Carolina Trucking and Development Company established six such colonies on large tracts of timberland along the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad. Agents were hired on commission to recruit colonist from Europe on the premise that they would be more familiar with small, intensive farming. Promotional literature described in glowing language the mild climate, abundant water supply, fertile soil, excellent roads, and available markets. In addition, the Company offered to build each colonist "a comfortable, three room cottage" for $240.00 to be paid off in installments.

The first colony established was St. Helena, near the present town of Burgaw, due north of Wilmington, NC. Like all six colonies, St. Helena lay on a branch of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad to facilitate the shipment of the truck farm products. The town was surveyed with streets running perpendicular and parallel to the train tracks, reaching out to the grid of ten acre farms. Lots were set aside for church, school, park and, of course, the company store.

Gaetano and Dominic Perseghin were the first to migrate to St. Helena in 1905. The land which they found was vastly different from the brochures. Most was still timberland that needed to be cleared. Both men were skilled craftsmen, having been apprenticed to Austrian and German masters in Stuttgart, Germany. Their break came when the saw broke at the lumber mill in Burgaw, N.C. and Gaetano was able to fix it. Their descriptions of America were glowing enough that after several years, Napoleon and Adele migrated, followed several years later by Vigilio, Imbania, Lawrence and Giovanni. My grandmother remembered how devastated she was, after the ocean voyage and train ride from NYC to Wilmington, to behold the tiny woodland shack in the middle of nowhere that was to be their dreamhouse. Everyone worked dawn to dusk cutting trees and removing stumps. While the railroad bought the wood for track ties, the colonists were totally dependent on the company store for everything.

Gaetano and Dominic were hired by a Italian construction crew that was building roads through the South. It was working on a road near Kitty Hawk that the brothers witnessed the first Wright brothers flight. While Gaetano later settled in Sumpter, S.C., Dominic chose to settle around Dunalk, Md, where he left the road crew and took up his trade as a shoe maker and store keeper. Napoleon was the only son to actually convert his land in St. Helena into a working farm. He became a very active member of the local Catholic church which he helped to build. Besides his farm, he also started a small store (barely more than a shed) that supplied basic items like matches and tobacco.

The WW I draft registration lists Napoleon Perseghin as living in Burgaw, Pencader County, NC. A sign of the times in the South, his race is listed as "brown".

After Vigilio and the two younger sons joined Dominic in Baltimore, Napoleon was encouraged to emigrate as well. The family moved north in 1917, but, at the insistence of Adele, quickly returned to Burgaw.

In 1918, in the midst of the Flu epidemic, Veronica was born. The family was so sick that their house was quarantined. Ill himself, Napoleon was caring for the rest of the family as well. Since Adele was unable to nurse her child, Napoleon got milk from a neighbor who was also nursing a child. A bottle would be passed over the fence at the end of a long pole. Somehow everyone survived.

Napoleon remained in Burgaw for another seven years. At last he was convinced to sell his farm to underwrite a joint venture with Dominic. The two brothers bought a larger farm in Back River, Md. which both families were to live and work. Arriving in Dundalk in the fall of 1926, Napoleon and Adele were devastated to learn that Dominic had gambled much of their money away, leaving the family with a mortgage on the property and little resources to survive the winter.

In the end the farm was lost. An angry Vigilio intervened, giving Napoleon one of his three town lots in St. Helena, Md. on which to build a house for his family. There on Baltimore St, he would raise his family and live the remainder of his long life. A skilled carpenter, Napoleon gave up farming and returned to his trade. For a while, he worked in construction as a carpenter. During the Depression he, his son Bruno and daughter Louise worked in a shoe factory. During the war, he got a job at Bethlehem Steel as a millwright

Despite the setback with his brother, Napoleon was a shrewd businessman, using whatever resources he had to get ahead. Whenever he was able to save some money, he bought a lot and built a house, which he rented to first his many adult children and later to others. During the Depression, he squeezed his own large family into two bedrooms and took in boarders. He grew figs and vegetables to can as well as grapes to make his own wine. In backyard sheds, he raised chickens and pigeons for food.

Like his own father, Napoleon was a deeply religious Catholic who was active in the church his entire life. Originally attending Our Lady of Pompeii Catholic Church, a missionary Italian parish in East Baltimore, he later helped to start St. Rita's Catholic Church in Dundalk.

While still in his fifties, Napoleon developed serious intestinal problems (ulcers, the loss of ten feet of large intestines and a large tumor) and had to go on disability. Although he is registered in the WW II draft records, he is listed as 4F.

In 1950, Napoleon and Adele made the first of several trips back to their home towns of San Bellino and Trecenta in Italy. Although Adele's parents were both deceased, she still had a younger sister and numerous nephews, neices and cousins, many of whom were working the same flax fields of the Po Valley as their ancestors. Living in Trecenta, the Perseghin cousins were more prosperous. After their parents death, Anna, Lena, Virginia and Frank continued to maintain contact their Italian cousins, visiting them every few years.

Despite serious health problems throughout his life, however, Napoleon remained active well into his nineties. After Adele died, he threw away all his medicines, went back to eating whatever he felt like, and prepared to follow her. He ended up living another ten years. With the exception of the last six months of his life, which were spent in a nursing home, Napoleon lived at home, cared for daily by his many children, all of whom lived nearby.

Notes for MRS ADELE MARIA BRANDALEZE:

The Brandaleze came from San Ballino near Venice where they were peasants on the Count's estate. The Perseghins and Bombanatos considered them to be lower class.

Adele and her sister Rosa married Gaetano and Napoleon and immediately emigrated to America. Neither saw their parents again. With two World Wars intervening, Adele did not return to her home village until the 1950's. By that time, they had become the "rich Americans" to their cousins who were still struggling as farmers. Since the fifties, there has been regular contact with San Ballino.

Nona ("grandmother") was a tiny rotund woman who only learned as much English as she needed to get by.

Living at home, raising nine children, she was deeply attached to her children, all of whom settled nearby. Her daughters especially maintained daily contact with their mother until her death in 1971. Besides daily mass, her one recreation was bingo, which she played several times a week.

21. MISS VERONICA IMBANIA JULIA³ PERSEGHIN (NAPOLEON², VIGILIO¹) was born 05 May 1918 in BURGAW, N.C., and died 28 Jun 2007 in Abingdon, MD. She married MR JOSEPH ROBERTS PERKINS 23 Jun 1946 in ST RITA CHURCH, DUNDALK, MD, son of WILLIAM PERKINS and ELIZABETH ROBERTS. He was born 29 Dec 1918 in DUNDALK, MD¹⁸, and died 05 Apr 1993 in DUNDALK, MD¹⁸.

Notes for MISS VERONICA IMBANIA JULIA PERSEGHIN:

Mom was born in the midst of the Great Influenza epidemic following World War I. Everyone in the family, which was living on their farm in Burgaw, NC, nearly died.

She began school in St. Helena, attending the Catholic School together by Fr. Kinesser's elderly sister. While mom was still in the first grade, the kids played an April Fool joke on the teacher by having everyone play hooky. In anger, the teacher closed the school and quit. As a result, mom was not credited with completing first grade and had to start over next year at the Burgaw public school. In the middle of this second year in first grade, Napoleon moved his family to Baltimore and mom again got an incomplete and was not promoted. Finally she attended first grade again at the Dundalk Elementary School located on Baltimore Ave (the current IOOF Hall in Dundalk).

Not surprisingly, being so much older than the other children, mom quit school after the 7th grade and went to work to help support her family. She first worked at the hat factory in Baltimore City where her older sisters Louise and PK worked. With the outbreak of World War II, she began getting jobs in defense industry factories, first making munition boxes and later working on naval fighter planes.

Although mom had known dad and they had dated, they were not engaged when he decided to enlist in the CBs and was shipped out to the South Pacific in 1943. He courted her by letter, asking her to wait for him, to be his girl and not to marry anyone else. Mom wrote to him, but they were not formerly engaged until after he returned in 1946.

Mom and Dad married in the spring of 1946, honeymooned at Niagara Falls and then went to live with his parents on Otapsco Ave. Dad returned to his job at Bethlehem Steel. Billy was born in August, 1947, and when mom became pregnant with Robby seven months later, it was clear that they needed to get their own place.

Mom and dad rented a house at 215 Cleveland Ave from her father. There Rob, Adele and Betty were born in quick succession. Dad worked a lot of overtime trying to save enough money to put a downpayment on a house.

In 1955, the family moved to 6813 Dunhill Rd, which dad bought for $12,000 using his GI loan. It was a big 2 story house with a yard and a garage. It was within walking distance of church and school and on a bus line to Bethlehem Steel. The family would live there until mom sold the house in 2002. There the twin would be born in 1959, and Dad's mom would come to live after the death of her daughter Clara in 1966. From that house Bill would go off to become a priest and all his brothers and sisters would leave to marry. In that house, dad would lose his fight to cancer.

Although mom took occasional catering jobs with her sister Anne when the children were young and money was tight, her life-time profession was a home maker. She literally made that house a home and sanctuary for her husband and her children. She rose early each morning with dad to make him breakfast and give him the courage and the love to face another day at a job which he hated and which was ruining his health. As children, we woke up many mornings to the aroma of freshly baked bread or pastry. She prepared our lunches, checked our homework, listened to our fears and sent us off to school each day. When we came home, she was there, always interested and ready to listen to our day. When dad came home, his iced tea was waiting for him and a meal was on the stove. By 4:30 her family was gathered at the table and we always ate supper together. Around the supper table, lifetime lessons were taught and bonds were forged.

Notes for MR JOSEPH ROBERTS PERKINS:

Dad was born in a rented house on Baltimore Ave (County Side) in Dundalk, MD. Besides his parents and older sister Clare, Susan Perkins, his paternal grandmother, also lived with them. During WW I, his father worked as a riveter in the Shipyard and made good money. His parents nearly split up when his father spent the family's entire savings of $2,000 (intended for a home) on a Model A Ford.

After the War, the family rented a farm in Perry Hall, owned by a cousin.

When dad was four or five, they rented another farm near Bear Creek, adjacent to Cosky's farm. There Dad lived with his family, his grandmother and the family of his Aunt Ruth Fisher. His father at this time drove a horse-drawn baker wagon for a living and played professional baseball on weekends. Dad remembered falling beneath the wheels of the wagon one day and being run over. Fortunately, because of the muddy road, he escaped serious injury. A more serious tragedy was the death by accident of Ruth's husband Carvel, who worked in the shipyard. Aunt Ruth went on to marry Punch Walmer and she and her son Melvin moved on. It is not clear whether the loss of Carvel's income caused the extended household to give up the farm. The happiness of these preschool years on the farm stuck with Dad throughout his life. Although he never acted on it, he never stopped talking about owning a small farm.

When Dad was ready to begin school, the family moved back to Baltimore Ave (City Side) in a row house rented from the Spencers. They lived there until they saved enough money to build the small bungalow on Patapsco Ave, where they moved in 1929, shortly after Grandmom Perkins' death. Pop's brother Everett and sister Hattie also owned homes on the same street. Dad lived on Patapsco Ave until he enlisted in the Sea Bees after Pearl Harbor. When Mom and Dad got married in 1946, they lived on Patapsco Ave with his parents until I was around 7 months old.

When Mom became pregnant with Robby, they moved to 215 Cleveland Ave. which they rented from Mom's Father. There we lived until 1955 when they had saved enough money to purchase our house at 6813 Dunhill Rd. where they lived the rest of their lives.

Obituary from the Dundalk Eagle:

Marie A. Perseghin

A memorial service will be held Saturday, July 10, for lifelong Dundalk resident Marie Anna Perseghin (nee Lacy), 73, who died after a long illness July 3 at her home in Bear Creek.

The service begins 3:30 p.m. at Duda-Ruck Funeral Home, 7922 Wise Ave. The family will accept visitors between 2 and 4 p.m.

A Bear Creek resident for more than 50 years, Mrs. Perseghin helped organize The Hut Teen Center at Bear Creek Elementary School. To accommodate its growing membership, the center later moved to Patapsco High School. Many times during its 10-year history, enthusiastic center-goers and volunteers built and rode a float in the Dundalk Heritage Parade.

Mrs. Perseghin also served as a foster parent to at least 54 children, including one who stayed with her family for 15 years.

An excellent cook, she kept her enthusiasm for preparing large family meals long after her children had homes and families of their own. Crocheting and making crafts were other favorite pastimes.

She and her husband were longtime members of Our Lady of Hope Church.

In addition to her husband of almost 54 years, Joseph Perseghin Sr., she is survived by sons Mark and Joseph Perseghin Jr., daughters Debra Perseghin and Jean Williams, stepdaughter Darlene Small, brother Paul Lacy and numerous grandchildren.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made in her memory to the American Cancer Society, P.O. Box 43025, Baltimore, MD 21236-0025, or the Family Crisis Center of Baltimore County, P.O. Box 3909, Dundalk, MD 21222.
