Notes for William Curney RICHARDSON:

William Curney's father, Furney Webster d. 4 Dec.1859. In the 1860 Census for Sumter Co. Ala. William Curney and his brother, Alexander, were living with their uncle William Ray Richardson. Brother Andrew Ramsay and sister, Margaret were living with their uncle Applewhite b.1829.

Brother Bryant b. 1846 was killed in the Civil War on 26 Nov. 1863 in the battle of Missionary Ridge near Chattanooga and was buried there. Alvin had died before this time. Sister Uney Ray had died at the age of 1 year in 1852.

Half brother, John R. son of Margaret Bennett and Furney Webster was living with his mother and both were living with the Bennett Family

I have been told that Mary M. and Harvey L. were children of Mary Clarene Boyd Straits brother. I don't know whether this applies to Susan Poole also. Two of these children died shortly after arriving in Texas at Keechi Station, Leon County, from typhoid fever. There is a grave in Dew Cemetery with contains one or both of these children.

FAMILY STORY ABOUT DEATH OF JOHN N. STRAIT.

On 14 Mar. 1867 John N. Strait and his family were living in Fulton, Tn.

John worked as a payroll agent for a railroad under construction in the area.

John was on the way to pay the railroad workers and had his daughter Sarah Evalina who was 9 years old, with him. Robbers set upon them, killing John N. Sally hid but witnessed the robbery and killing. She was not harmed.

I have attempted to find more information on this but nothing has developed.

THIS ARTICLE APPEARED IN THE LIVINGSTON JOURNAL ON 9TH OCTOBER, 1868
BRYANT RICHARDSON, of this county, was returning from superintending some plantation work about nightfall on Thursday last (1 Oct. 1868), he was attacked br a freedman in his employ named Enoch Brown, alias Townsend, and stabbed in the side, the left lung being pierced. The circumstances as related is us by a party who obtained them of Mr. Richardson, are as follows:

As Mr. R. was passing toward his dwelling after putting up his horse, the negro approached him from behind, and struck him on the arm. Mr. Richardson turned and struck his assailant with a light stick he had in his hand, which he had been using as a measure, during the day, about some of his work. The negro again struck him, when Mr. R. tried to knock him down with the stick alluded to, but it was too light to be effective, and the negro rushed at him and struck him a third time. It was not until the last blow was inflicted, that Mr. Richardson discovered that he had been struck with a knife---the blood flowing into his boot, giving him the first intimation that he had been stabbed.

After inflicting the third and most serious wound, the negro decamped, and Mr. Richardson was properly cared for. It was found the wound in his side was a very serious one, and for several days his life was despaired of. At last accounts his condition was favorable, but still critical. (Mr. Richardson died on 10th Oct. 1868.)

And now comes in the homicide, which subsequently created so much excitement, and at one time threatened serious consequences.

As soon as a warrant could be procured, a party of citizens went in pursuit of the assassin; and, as it was known that he was in the habit of frequenting the place of the notorious Dr. Choutteau, they went there in quest of him. After searching several negro houses, in a quiet and orderly manner, without finding him, they proceeded to another, the door of which they found barred. There was one other house which had not been searched, and to avoid forcing an entrance unless necessary to do so, they examined that house first. Subsequently they forced the door that was barred, and entering, were preparing a light, when some one rushed to the chimney, and ascending it jumped down on the outside and ran.

Supposing, very naturally, from his strange conduct, that he was the man they were in search of, they ordered him to halt, stating they had a warrant for him. He continued running, they fired on him, and he fell. On going up to the body they discovered it was not that of Brown, but they had killed a freedman known as "Yankee Ben," President of the Sumterville League.

Brown alias Townsend, was arrested on Friday, however, by two freedmen---Rob. Brownrigg and Bob Thomas, and handed over to the authorities, and on Saturday he was committed to jail, where he now is. The killing of Yankee Ben, although done through a mistake which under the circumstances could not well have been avoided, and which was regretted by every one, created intense excitement among the negroes, encouraged in it as they were by one of two despicable whites who have long sought to produce a conflict between them and the whites. A freedman disclosed the fact that the League was to meet at the house of Choutteau for the purpose of avenging the killing of Ben; and in consequence, the whites in the neighborhood put themselves in the condition of defence. On Saturday some sixty armed negroes assembled at the place designated, but after remaining until, evening, dispersed. Sunday was comparatively quite; but the next day some 150 negroes assembled at the same place. During the day some dozen citizens went to Choutteau's to hold an inquest over the body of Ben, which had been left unburied for the purpose of inflaming the passions of the negroes. On announcing their purpose, Choutteau informed them they could not hold an inquest unless the jury was composed of negroes; and the negroes present, were very insulting in their demeanor. These facts being communicated, some hundred armed citizens repaired to the spot, when the negroes dispersed and Choutteau became rational. He interposed no further objection, but informed the citizens that if allowed a few days in which to arrange his business, he would leave the neighborhood---he had for some time contemplated doing so, was sorry he had lost the esteem of his neighbors, but would leave if permitted to do so. He was told such a course was unnecessary. He had occasioned much trouble and bad feeling between the blacks and whites---that he was believed to be the indirect cause of the death of Yankee Ben---but he was welcome to remain as a law-abiding citizen. He repeated his intention to leave, however.

Meantime, the Coroner, Mr. B.B. Sanders, learning of the Jury of Inquisition had been so presented. While the Coroner and Jury were performing their duties, Choutteau approached and informed them that 800 armed negroes were advancing at a little distance. On looking, they saw a party of armed negroes approaching, but they were only nineteen in number. (Choutteau had stated the day before, that Mr. Price, of this place, had sent word he would be there with 800 armed negroes.) On coming up and being questioned as to their business, they stated they had been sent by Mr. Price, to carry some "proper papers" to Choutteau. These papers consisted of two letters from Price, which were read by the Coroner, with the consent of Choutteau. These nineteen negroes were all armed, some of them having new Enfield rifles. After delivering the "proper papers" the armed messengers departed, at the suggestion of the Coroner.

At last accounts there was still some excitement existing in the Richardson and Cloutteau neighborhoods, but no outbreak is apprehended. The whites are pursuing a prudent but firm line of conduct, and the blacks have seen enough to satisfy them that discretion is the better part of valor.

(Enoch Brown was later hanged and it is not known by whom or where.)

Notes for Joshua IRBY:
Living in Halifax Co. Va. then in 1789 moved to York District SC.

In Sept. or Oct. 1780 father sent John to Saluda River SC to see his uncle, Joseph Irby. When he got there he found Captain Cunningham of the Tories, had killed Joshua and sons Joseph and Grief in Jan. 1781. This was called the Hays Station Massacer. John then joined the US forces to get away from the Tories. There is some question among Irby researchers about Grief possible being a cousin or nephew rather than a son.

WORLD FAMILY TREE V. 4 PEDIGREE 2471

William Henry, son of a wealthy Irishman, was born in County Tyrone, Northern Ireland, in 1715 and came to Augusta Co. Va, in 1733. There he married Isabella McCown, daughter of Francis and Margaret McCown. About 1750 he moved to near Charlotte, NC and about five years later he moved to near York, SC. He lived there about 65 years, dying 22 Oct. 1819 at the grand old age of 104 years. He is buried near there at Bethany Presbyterian Church. His home place was known as "Henry's Knob". He and Isabella had 7 sons and 3 daughters. William Henry and three of his sons fought in the revolutionary War. They were instrumental in winning the "Battle of Kings Mountain", which was near their home.

Taken from "The Henry Family of Mount Vernon and their Kith and Kin", by Dibrell Ingram.
