Notes for Jeremiah "Jerry" Willis Rhodes:

Jeremiah "Jerry" Willis Rhodes served in Company I, 13th Tennessee Infantry Regiment, Confederate States Army during the Civil War. (See the Link - Jerry Rhodes's old Civil War regiment) He joined the army at Jackson, Tennessee, on May 30, 1861, his 19th birthday. According to an old army buddy who swore in an affidavit, he took part in the battles of Belmont (Missouri), Shiloh, Richmond (Kentucky), Perryville (Kentucky), Murphreesboro, Chickamauga, and Franklin, Tennessee. This affidavit was written because of a request from his widow to receive his Confederate Army pension. According to a grandson, Riley N. Riddle, Sr., he was wounded at Chickamauga, which may be the reason that he missed the Battle of Missionary Ridge, which his regiment fought in. He was captured by Union forces on November 30, 1864, at Franklin, Tennessee. He was eventually transported to and held as a Prisoner of War at Camp Douglas, Ill, near Chicago. Also held as POW's at Camp Douglas were Henry M. Stanley, who became famous as the man who found Dr. David Livingstone ("Dr. Livingstone, I presume?") an explorer in Africa, and Sam Houston, Jr. Jerry Rhodes was released in June of 1865. His enlistment, capture, detention, and subsequent release at Camp Douglas are documented in Confederate muster records and Federal Archives.

Jerry Willis Rhodes was a pioneer in Johnson County, Texas having moved there from Mifflin, Tennessee some time between 1880 and 1888. The log cabin that he built near Joshua, Texas is still in existence and is being preserved as the Kimbro log cabin by the Joshua Historical Society. Most of his family were members of the Primitive Baptist Church. He was mainly a farmer.

A local newspaper wrote of his death: "Bro. Rhodes took with a chill on Wednesday night and again on Friday night before the third Sunday in January, 1899, was sick Saturday, not able to attend his meeting, but was apparently better Sunday; then Sunday night a severe pain struck him in the back of the head, and he was soon unconscious, which lasted 'till death relieved him on Tuesday evening about 5 o'clock, and he was buried on Wednesday evening. . . . " He is buried in the Caddo Cemetery near Joshua, Texas as are many of his family. He was 56 when he died.

He was born 09 Aug 1867 in Rock Creek farm west of Crowley, Johnson Co., Texas, and died 24 Mar 1951 in Fort Worth, Tarrant Co., Texas.

Notes for Arrenva Josephine Rhodes:

Arrenva Josephine "Josie" (Rhodes) Riddle's first grandchild, Riley N. Riddle, Jr., did not call her "Grandma", or "Granny", or "Grandmother" or any of the other traditional names that grandchildren usually call their grandmothers. He called her "Inday".

Here's where the name came from. His father, Riley N. Riddle, Sr., called his wife, Hylma, "Babe". When Riley, Jr. was old enough to talk, he tried to call his mother "Babe" instead of "Mama". He couldn't say "Babe", but could only manage to say "Day". When it was explained to him that his grandmother was his father's mother, he tried to say "Grand Day", but could only say "Inday". His mother and father thought this was so cute that they let him keep calling her that so that as each of his siblings, including me, came along, they continued the tradition of calling their grandmothers "Inday". Our grandfathers became known to us as "Indaddy".

Notes for Jabe Albert Riddle:

Jabe Albert Riddle was the eldest child of William Nelson Riddle and Tennessee Ellen (Couch) Riddle. He lived most of his life in Tarrant County. He worked for a while as a young man at Hayes Ginnery in Crowley, Texas. He saw the first railroad come to Fort Worth, watched the Tarrant County courthouse being built, and saw cattle being herded up the Chisolm Trail. He and a cousin founded the firm of Riddle & Rhodes which owned several groceries in Fort Worth. When his partner, L. R. Rhodes, died Jabe sold his interest in the business. He was also an itinerant carpenter by trade.

Jabe's father, William Nelson Riddle, could not get used to the idea of his children marrying and moving out of his house. After Jabe had married Arrenva Josephine "Josie" Rhodes, apparently without his father's permission, he took his new bride home to show her off. His father said to him, "Just keep driving, Son, just keep driving."

He moved his family to Bangs, Texas for a few years, moved to Fort Worth, and in 1920, went to San Diego, California to find work. At first he stayed with two brothers, Roce and Zelig, who had preceded him. When he had established himself there he sent for the rest of his family. They lived there for three years. One daughter, Azella, graduated from San Diego High School. They returned to Fort Worth after he lost his job in San Diego.

Notes for LCdr. USN (Retired) Eddie J. Riddle:

Eddie or "Bub" graduated from Carter-Riverside High School in 1943, at the age of 16. When he turned 17 in September 1943, he entered the V-12 program at TCU in December 1943. The V-12 program was designed to give early training to future Navy aviators during World War 2. The V-12 program lasted for 3 semesters. He was then sent to pre-flight school at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. This pre-flight school closed after V-E Day and they sent all cadets to St. Mary's pre-flight school in California. He was there on V-J Day. He was sent to Primary flight training at Memphis, TN. He went through Intermediate Flight Training at Corpus Christi, TX. He went to Advanced flight training at Pensacola, FL, where he learned gunnery, aerobatics, formation flying, instrument flying, carrier qualifications. He graduated and received his Navy wings and commission as Ensign in April 1947.

He received Operational Training at NAS Milton, FL, near Pensacola, then was assigned to an operational squadron based in Hawaii, flying 4 engine transports worldwide - all over the Pacific - the Philippines, China; Shanghai, Peking, Nanking, Tsingtao, etc. He flew co-pilot in a VIP squadron (all admirals and Congressmen). He flew Ambassador Stuart out of Peking just before the Chinese Communists moved in early in 1949. He flew Madam Chang Kai Shek out of Shanghai when she went back to speak before Congress to plead for more money. The Berlin Airlift started and he tried to get into one of the Navy squadrons flying there. He was assigned to a big squadron in Patuxent River NAS flying to Frankfurt, Germany, in support of the Airlift. He also flew missions to France, England, Morocco, and the Azores, etc. All of his flying was in 4 engine transports (DC-4's) called R5D's in the Navy.

He was released from active duty and returned to school on the GI Bill. He attended SMU and studied pre-law beginning in September 1949. He entered SMU Law School in September 1950. He was in the first semester of his senior year when in December of 1952 he was recalled to active duty as a Lieutenant Junior Grade for the War in Korea.

He was assigned to a big Military Air Transport Service (MATS) squadron at Hickam AFB, Hawaii. They were flying Lockheed Constellations (Connies) and Bub flew as Plane Commander. They flew all over the world, including Tokyo, the Philippines, Saigon, Bangkok, Calcutta, New Delhi, Karachi, Pakistan, Dahrhan, Saudi Arabia, etc.

In 1956 he was transferred to Mcguire AFB flying to Europe, Panama, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, Thule, Greenland (above the Arctic Circle). He was promoted to Lieutenant Commander in 1962 and transferred to NAS Floyd Bennett Field, near JFK Airport on Long Island, NY, to train weekend reservists in 4 engine transports. In 1965 he was assigned to NAS Dallas, TX, to do the same thing. He had several trips with these reserve squadrons over to Saigon and Danang during the early part of the Vietnam War.

He retired February 28, 1967, at the age of 40. He went to work the next day for American Flyers Airline at Ardmore, OK. After 3 years American Flyers went bankrupt and the next day he went to work for McCollough International Airline. McCollough moved the London Bridge in pieces from London to Lake Havasu, AZ. Bub flew Connies, Lockheed Electras, DC-8's, and Boeing 727's with the civilian airlines. After McCollough he flew for Air Freighters Int'l, Span East Airlines, Fleming Int'l Air (they did contract hauling for UPS and Flying Tigers Airline). His last ten or so years of flying was with Emery Airfreight flying 727's. Almost all of his civilian flying was as plane captain. He retired in accordance with FAA regulations at the age of 60 in September, 1986.

He retired with a total of 30,000 flying hours and they were as he put it "HOURS AND HOURS OF SHEER BOREDOM INTERSPERSED WITH BRIEF MOMENTS OF STARK TERROR".

She was born 24 Aug 1926 in Fort Worth, Tarrant Co., Texas.

Notes for Dr. Riley Newton Riddle, Jr.:

Riley, Jr. was a teenager when World War 2 began. He joined the Army after graduating from Carter-Riverside High School.

After boot camp at Fort Wolters, Texas, he was initially assigned to the Army's Army Science Training Program (ASTP) to study electrical engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT). His army service number was: 18218388. Early in 1944, due to severe manpower needs and to aid in the buildup in preparation for the invasion of Europe, the ASTP program was drastically cut back. Riley and thousands of other soldiers were reassigned to various combat units. Riley was assigned to Headquarters Company of the 193rd Glider Infantry Regiment (GIR) of the 17th Airborne Division (AD). He was a radio operator. He underwent combat training at Camp Forrest, near Tullahoma, Tennessee. His unit was shipped to England in August of 1944, for more training.

While his Division was still training, the Germans launched a huge counteroffensive through the Ardennes Forest in Belgium. This counteroffensive became known as "The Battle of the Bulge". The 17th AD was hastily deployed into Belgium and in a little more than two weeks was seeing combat for the first time.

Riley saw his first combat about January 4, 1945, about 10 miles southwest of Bastogne, Belgium. This was the southern shoulder of the "Battle of the Bulge", which began December 16, 1944 and lasted through the month of January, 1945. Because at some point he was pressed into service as an infantry rifleman he earned the Combat Rifleman's Badge. He was later awarded the Bronze Star for actions during the battle.

The following is from the "Combat Chronicle" of the 17th Airborne:

"The 17th Airborne Division was stationed in the United Kingdom from 25 August to 23 December 1944. From 23 to 25 December, elements of the Division were flown to the Reims area in France in spectacular night flights. These elements closed in at Mourmelon. After taking over the defense of the Meuse River sector from Givet to Verdun, 25 December, the 17th moved to Neufchateau, Belgium, then marched through the snow to Morhet, relieving the 28th Infantry Division, 3 January 1945. The Division entered the Ardennes campaign, 4 to 9 January, at the Battle of Dead Man's Ridge. It captured several small Belgian towns and entered Flamierge, 7 January, but enemy counterattacks necessitated a withdrawal. However, constant pressure and aggressive patrolling caused the enemy to retreat to the Our River. On 18 January, the Division relieved the 11th Armored Division at Houffalize, pushed enemy remnants from the Bulge, and seized Wattermal and Espeler, 26 January. Coming under the III Corps, the 17th turned toward Luxembourg, taking Eschweiler and Clervaux and clearing the enemy from the west bank of the Our River. Aggressive patrols crossed the river to probe the Siegfried Line defenses and established a limited bridgehead near Dasburg before being relieved by the 6th Armored Division, 10 February. A period of reequipment and preparation began. Taking off from marshalling areas in France, the 17th dropped into Westphalia in the vicinity of Wesel, 24 March. Operation Varsity was the first airborne invasion over the Rhine into Germany itself. On the 25th, the Division had secured bridges over the Issel River and had entrenched itself firmly along the Issel Canal. Moving eastward, it captured Haltern, 29 March, and Munster, 2 April. The 17th entered the battle of the Ruhr Pocket, relieving the 79th Infantry Division. It crossed the Rhine-Herne Canal, 6 April, and set up a secure bridgehead for the attack on Essen. The "Pittsburgh of the Ruhr" fell, 10 April, and the industrial cities of Mulheim and Duisburg were cleared in the continuing attack. Military government duties began, 12 April, and active contact with the enemy ceased, 18 April. The Division came under the XXII Corps 24 April. " End of the Combat Chronicle.

The following six paragraphs are World War II anecdotes that Riley, Jr, told to me around June or July of 1951.

His unit was walking down a road when a German fighter plane strafed the road. Everyone was ordered to "hit the dirt" on either side of the road. Everyone did except for him. He froze in the middle of the road. The fighter fired its machine guns. The bullets chewed up the road on either side of him, but missed him. When the plane was gone his buddies gathered around him slapping him on the back and congratulating him on his bravery. It was only then that it dawned on him what had just happened. He said that his knees began to turn to jelly and he almost fainted.

He told me once that at the height of the battle his unit was run out of a small village (Flamierge?) by a big German counterattack. They had to abandon their vehicles and run for their lives. He said he could hear the German soldiers at the other end of the village laughing at them and shouting in English, "Come back, come back."

Another story he told me was that at first he was armed with an M-1 Carbine, a small, light rifle which fired a .30 caliber cartridge not much larger than a pistol bullet. He threw it into some bushes and picked up an M-1 Garand Rifle which was larger, heavier and fired the much more powerful .30 '06 cartridge. He carried it for the rest of the war.

In another story he told me that at one point he knew that he was about to die as he lay in a ditch during a German mortar attack. He said that the shells were hitting not three feet from where he lay. He said that he just knew that the next one was going to hit him. But he survived without a scratch.

During an artillery attack they were in trucks. Everyone jumped out of the trucks and ran for the ditches. When he was asked why they didn't crawl under the trucks for protection, he smiled and said that if the trucks had been hit the trucks' gas tanks would explode spewing burning gasoline everywhere.

His unit was on patrol when a sniper in a tree took a shot at them. Riley told me he raised his M1 and fired about 4 rounds towards the tree. They later heard a crashing sound like a body falling out of the tree. He told me that was the only time that he really thought he might have killed an enemy.

His regiment suffered such heavy casualties during the Battle of the Bulge that the 193rd GIR was disbanded and the survivors were assigned to other units. On March 1, 1945, Riley, Jr, was reassigned to the 517th Airborne Signal Company, repairing radios. A month or so later he was transferred to the 82nd Airborne Division (AD). He was with the 82nd during their occupation of Berlin. His only injury in the European Theater was during the occupation, he was walking barefooted and stepped on a rusty tin can. It cut his foot open. He also contracted yellow jaundice (hepatitis). They returned to the US aboard the the ocean liner Queen Mary late in 1945.

He marched with the 82nd AD in the Victory Parade on January 12, 1946, in New York. He was discharged from the Army and returned home a few weeks later. He was discharged from the Army with the rank of T-5 (technician 5th class), which is equivalent to the rank of corporal.

After the war he graduated from TCU with a Pre Med degree and received his MD degree from the UT Medical School at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, Texas. He served his internship at John Peter Smith Hospital in Fort Worth, Texas. He opened his medical practice in Alice, Jim Wells Co., Texas, in the early 50's and was there for about 10 years. For several years before his death he was Public Health Officer for Jim Wells County. He patented a carrier for weighing babies, patent number 2931640. During the Korean War the Army offered him a commission with the rank of Captain if he would join the Army Reserve Medical Corps as a doctor. He would be assigned to the Brook Army Medical Center at Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio, Texas. He said he had seen enough blood and gore during WW2 for two lifetimes, so no thanks.

He was killed in an automobile accident returning to Alice from seeing a patient in San Diego, Texas, in May of 1963. He is buried at Mt. Olivet Cemetery in Fort Worth, Tarrant Co., Texas.

Walker graduated Magna Cum Laude from SMU with a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree in 1984. As a freelance editor, he received an Emmy nomination for music composition and was an International Monitor Award finalist in editing for his work on "The Year in Sports." Walker has served as producer, editor and animator for corporate marketing and training videos, commercials and tape-for-sale projects for clients including: American Airlines, Fastsigns International, Alcatel, Merrell Lynch, Ernst & Young, Triangle Pacific, Lucent Technologies, Nortel, SBC Communications, Kinko's, Mary Kay Cosmetics, Clear Channel Communications, Central Market/HEB and many more. He produced marketing videos for Topsy-Tail and Hairdini that sold millions of units each. He also produced "What's The Word?" a vocabulary building program that won the Parent's Choice Award.

Walker has a relaxed professional attitude and can quickly assess a client's needs and expectations. Commercial editorial clients appreciate Walker's streamlined approach and his collaborative nature. He takes the time to fully understand a project before it shoots, and his experience as a producer helps him see the big picture during the editorial process.

Walker's editing incorporates a sense of rhythm and creative improvisation that he first learned as a jazz musician in New Orleans. His varied editing experience, creative motion-graphic skills and strong musical background make Walker well suited for today's rapid fire, graphics intense editing styles.
