

The Descendants of Gaven Robson

by

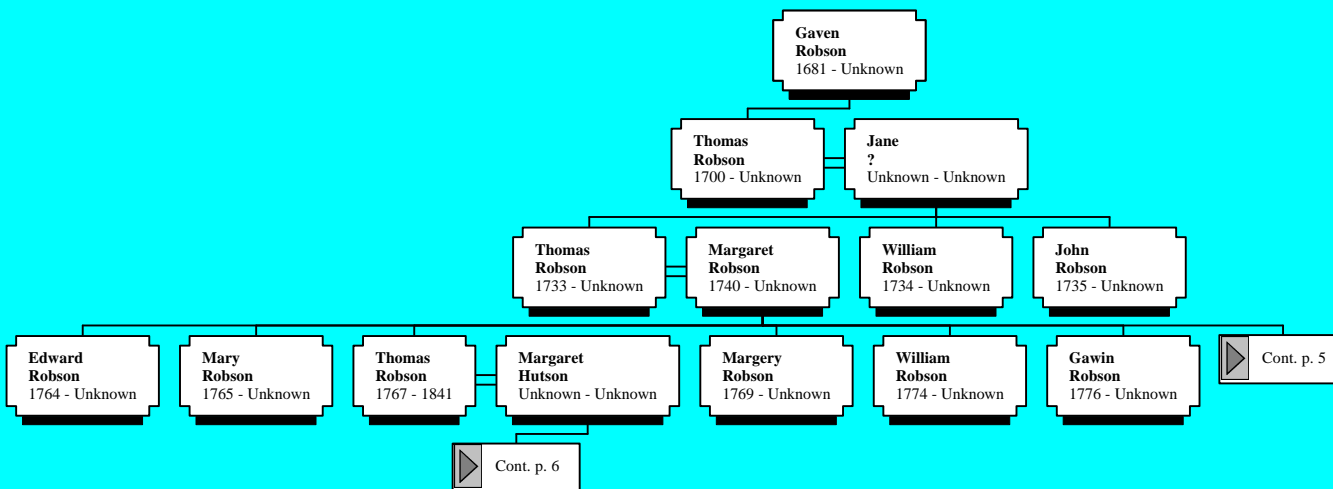

George M. Robson

This book is dedicated to my father Tom Robson
without his guidance
I would not have had the beginning or forethought to complete this book as I have.

Notes for Joseph Robson:

Son of Thomas, who was a Freeholder in Northumberland. Born on the Scottish border and baptized on May 29th 1780, near Northumberland in the Cheviot Hills, England. He grew up there and married Trimel, Anne of which they had 6 children. They came to Canada in 1831 on a wooden wind-jammer in the early days of its settlement, and located in London, Ontario, where he followed the occupation of a teacher. Later moving to Mersea Township Joseph became one of the first teachers in that part of the country. Joseph built one of the first water-propelled Grist Mills on a bush stream, which today is confined to a six inch tiling crock on the lake front about a half mile East of today's Leamington dock. He became an extensive land owner and farmer and spent the rest of his life on his 300 acre farm in Mersea. He died at the age of eighty, and is buried in the family lot (unknown) on the farm. He was a Presbyterian in religious faith, and in politics a Conservative. His wife, belonged to the Church of England, and lived to a age of seventy-five. The three sons took up farms along the lake front between Erie St. in Leamington and Sturgeon Creek.

Joseph's Last Will and Testament

I Joseph Robson the elder of the Township of Mersea, County of Essex, Western district and Province of Canada. Being of sound mind and memory (for which I thank God) do this twenty sixth day of April in the year of our Lord one thousand and forty eight make this my last will and testament as follows. That is to say I give and bequeath to my son Edward Robson all that parcel or track of Land and Premises lying and being in the Township of Mersea being composed of the south West part of (broken Front) Number eight in said Township of Mersea, to him the said Edward Robson his heirs and assigns forever.

I give and bequeath to my grandson Joseph Robson son of my son James Robson all that parcel or tract of Land and Premises lying and being in the Township of Mersea being the south west part of Lot Number eight in the first Concession of the Township of Mersea, to him the said Joseph Robson his heirs and assigns Forever.

I give and bequeath to my grandson Christopher Robson oldest son of my late son Thomas Robson the sum of one Shilling. I give and bequeath to my daughter Mary Allen _____ wife of a man I believe of this name of Allen in England. Margery Hairsine wife of Thomas Hairsine and Isabella Wilkinson wife of Francis A. Wilkinson each the total sum of one Shilling lawful money of this Province.

And I hereby nominate, constitute and appoint Leonard Wigle and Francis A Wilkinson both of the Township of Mersea, County, District and Province, executors to this my last will and testament hereby revoking all other and former wills by me at any time henceforth made.

In witness whereof I have hereunto let my hand and seal the day and year above written.

21. James⁵ Robson (Joseph⁴, Thomas³, Thomas², Gaven¹) was born 14/Sep/1810 in Falstone, Northumberland, England, and died 05/Mar/1890 in Leamington, Ontario, Canada. He married Anne Foster 02/Sep/1834 in Mersea Township, Leamington Ontario, Canada, daughter of Ralph Foster and Ann Wilthew. She was born 07/Jun/1818 in Prince Edward Island, Canada, and died 13/Mar/1892 in Leamington, Ontario, Canada.

Notes for James Robson:

Born in the September 14, 1810, Christened on February 5, 1812 at the Presbyterian, Falstone church in Northumberland, England where he grew up and there received a good education. When he was twenty-one, he came to Canada with the rest of the family and first settled in Brantford, Ontario where he was employed in the house of a clergyman. After a time he came to Mersea township, where his father had later located, and began farming on a track of 100 acres, 70 acres in Concession No. 1 and 30 acres in Concession A. He made many improvement to this farm which he cultivated successfully. He remained there the rest of his life dying at the age of seventy-nine, and being buried in Leamington's Lake View cemetery. He was a staunch Conservative and served as a private in the Rebellion of 1837-39. He was a well read man, and active in all public matters in the township and county, serving as school trustee, and for three terms as a member of the township council. He married Foster, Anne of Prince Edward Island, daughter of the late Ralph Foster, Sr. Anne died in Leamington, and is buried in Lake View Cemetery. She and James were members of the Church of England.

Died - March 5 1890

Married - Foster, Ann the only daughter

Born - June 7, 1818 on Prince Edward Island

Ann's parents were Ralph, born December 27th 1795, and Ann (Wilthew) born May 16th 1796 from Hexham County of Northumberland, England. They were married on April 25, 1817 and shortly after their marriage they embarked for the New World, coming to Nova Scotia and settling in Prince Edward Island, then later moving to New Brunswick. After about ten years they made their way to Ontario, locating in Mersea township, Essex County. The home farm of 164 Acres in Mersea township was located on the South part of Talbot street, in Lot 239 a part of the Col. Talbot grant. As early as 1852 escaping natural gas was found on this farm and Mr. Foster had a strong conviction that this indicated the presence of an oil field, which proved to be true, for on the same farm in 1896 the first oil was discovered in what has since developed, in 1904, into the present extensive Leamington oil field. It would be seventy-five years before oil was being produced again from Leamington's oil field.

Died - March 13th, 1892 at the age of 73

Notes for Thomas A. Robson:

While still engaged in land clearing and home making, Tom laid down his axe & saw and took to shoulder a musket at the outbreak of the Rebellion of 1837-1839. Leaving behind on a bush farm three small children and one not yet born, to become a soldier in the British army, (Caption Fox's command belonging to Colonel John Prince's 3rd Regiment of the Essex Militia) Thomas died from a violent cold he caught while performing severe duties the winter before and never recovered from. He is buried in an unmarked grave, while stationed at Sandwich just outside of Windsor, Ontario. After Thomas's death, their Grandfather "Joseph Robson" took the children and his wife Jane to the farm on the lakeshore to raise them there. He owned the land from 1st Concession to the lake, from Erie St. east to Sturgeon Creek.

Jane Robson died May 2 1869, at the age of 69yrs 9mths 20 days in Leamington and is buried in Lakeview Memorial Cemetery.

- 90 vii. Jack Robson, born Unknown; died 07/Nov/1899 in Drowned on the East side of Lake Erie, Ontario, Canada.

Notes for Jack Robson:

One of the storeys told by Earl Robson (#1549) was on the rescue of men from a breakaway ice flow. It is as follows:

Without warning, and with the stealthiness of an apparition, the ice on Pigeon Bay ("the bay from Point Pelee to Kingsville, Ontario") had parted about a quarter of a mile from shore and was moving out, carrying with it a gang of ice cutters, a teamster and his team, all of Leamington. Lakemen read the skies for a reaction of the waters. A northeaster wind pours water of the east lake through the narrow cut between the converging shoals of Pelee Island and Point Pelee, upheaving a solid field of ice as if it were a coating of slush. Once split open to the wind and current, it moves out as if on a greased incline. My father had warned the townspeople repeatedly.

As soon as the plight of the ice cutters was observed, a gang of shoremen hastily skidded the lighter (scow) across the border of inside ice and launched it into the widening channel separating the two bodies. There were four men that went into the scow with one staying on shore to feed out the life line.

Hopes for affecting a speedy deliverance ran high when to observers on shore, the lighter was seen to touch the outer ice rim, now a full quarter of a mile distant. Two of the crew was seen to leap from the lighter to assist, if possible, in loading the horses. Then on shore wild excitement spread. Word flashed from the fishery twine houses that all sound available rope had been exhausted. This left the rescue lighter riding, suspended at the far end of a straining line, while the main body of ice with its helpless victims, separated farther apart making it too wide for its castaways to span. Thus two more men had been added to the original four.

Realizing the hopelessness of the situation, the men on shore had no alternative but to haul back the lighter. Buffeted by steadily roughening water and splashed by a freezing spray, the bulky ferry inched its way shoreward, while the figures on the outer flow shrank smaller. When the scow crew tumbled on shore, each moved in a sheath of ice. They were given hot coffees by Mrs. De Laurier who lived in a small house near the shore where husband was a fisherman.

Out across the bay the span of open water was fast widening into miles of spitting whitecaps. Upon the chalk drawn ice rim the figures of men and horses blurred smaller, as over the grim expanse an enveloping gloom bulged lower and darker. I looked over at the old lakeman's (Earl's father Thomas #154) features and trembled. A pallor had set in around tightly drawn, pressed lips. He knew that no time was to be lost, and that only one chance of rescue remained - a chance that involved death. I myself understood... The old man ordered all spectators to stay off the ice bordering the shore lest it too, should suddenly part and move out.

It was at this time that a shout went up from the huddled group of men and women. I knew what had happened and felt myself convulsed by a surge of emotions. A sleigh team, under lashing whip, dashed in upon the shore. It had returned from a wood sawing bee in the country with my man-sized brothers (Herm & Aub Robson) and cousin Jack.

We owned a flat bottom pound boat (fishing boat used for pound net fishing) then 24 feet long. We called her "The Daisy" and a daisy she was - single cat rig, tight set to the sea, fat and quick on the tiller as a gull on the wing. The toast of our shores was our Daisy - she and the two men who sailed her, Jack and Herm.

It took precious time to unstow the Daisy's winter stored canvas and fit out the stripped craft. Sleigh teams stood ready to skid her out over the ice to open water. The afternoon lengthened. Out across the miles of white flecked water the figures on the distant ice rim blurred into sizes no larger than clothespins. Lower and denser the grey black cloudbank settled over the fading group. On the edge of the inside rim the Daisy balanced, her nose in the black hissing water. To Jack and Herm Robson were added to lakemen Frank Ives and George Johnson. Of whom no better feet set foot aboard a boat. Her great sail reefed and set, the Daisy slipped into the winter water, With a free sheet she swept out and away, like something frightened.

Close to the old lakeman's side I anxiously watched his face like a wheels man watches a compass, as out over the choppy expanse the Daisy flew, her trim chalky sail blurring smaller and smaller in the thickening distance. At intervals the shore ice cracked and groaned, and my father's face tightened. I understood winter ice well enough to know the dread on his mind. Should the bordering field go, it would seal the Daisy in a death trap out of which no escape would open. Flurries of snow deepened the dusk of a lowering January day, then suddenly, as if swallowed up by doom itself, the sail faded into the bank of gloom that enveloped it.

A bruised reddish spot on the horizon marked where the sun was setting. Groups of townsmen broke up and straggled off homeward. Flakes of snow skidded aslant the wind. I looked up to see that I stood alone, shivering of cold and fear. I only vaguely realized that along with other lakeshoremen my father had climbed into a waiting sleigh and that it had driven west along the shore. I knew that to return, the Daisy must make a long, close-hauled stretch against a deadhead wind, which would land her miles away to the west. Darkness, ominous and abysmal, dropped lower. I waited and waited, my eyes set to the west. Then it broke forth and lit the sky. It was the beacon (old lighthouse) that was to direct the Daisy back to the shore and a clear landing.

It was near midnight when a sleighful of men stopped at our lakeshore home, and family voices told us that the little Daisy had laid her course safely back to shore, landing five miles west from where she had set out. She had taken off all the men. The horses were left to a fate that could not be averted.

Out across the Bay, that mid-winter night, the piling crunching ice rumbled and crashed; on a shore a blizzard piled snow into banks. The break of another day found Pigeon Bay, from beach to horizon, an expanse of blue-black water with not a trace of ice in sight.

Such was the rescue of the ice cutters, back in yesterdays, when the hum of a motor engine had not so much as aroused the wildest imagination of the boatmen.

Today, times have changed, we have boats with engines, planes, helicopters, but the ice still separates and men still get caught out there ice fishing (not the cutting of ice anymore). Our home farm has been used in the past and will likely be used again in the future for a landing area where to drop these people who will venture out on the ice, safely on shore.

SKETCHES OF EARLY SETTLERS

GEORGE FOSTER ROBSON is a prominent citizen and successful farmer of Mersea town-ship, living at Sturgeon creek. He is a native of the township, where his father and grandfather before him were well known and honored citizens.

Grandfather Joseph Robson was born on the Scottish border, near Northumberland, England, and there grew up and married Anne Trimel. They had a family of six children, as follows:

Thomas, who was a soldier in the British army, and was killed in the Rebellion of 1837-38, while stationed at Sandwich; James, who became the father of George Foster; Mary, who married Joseph Mickie; Margaret, who married Thomas Hairsine, of Talbot street; Edward, who was drowned in Robson creek, Mersea township; and Isabella, who married Francis Wilkinson, of Mersea township. The father and mother came to Canada in the early days of its settlement, and located in London, Ontario, where Mr. Robson followed the occupation of teacher. Later they moved to Mersea township, and Mr. Robson became one of the first teachers in that part of the country. He also became an extensive land owner and farmer, and spent the rest of his life on his 300 acre farm in Mersea. He died at the age of eighty, and is buried in the family lot on the farm. He was a Presbyterian in religious faith, and in politics a Conservative. His wife, who belonged to the Church of England, died at the age of seventy-five.

James Robson, son of Joseph and father of George Foster, was born in Northumberland, England, where he grew up and received a good education. When he was twenty-one he came to Canada with the rest of the family, and settled first in Brantford, where he found employment in the home of a clergyman. After a time he came to Mersea township, where his father had located, and began farming on a tract of 100 acres, 70 acres in Concession No. 1, and 30 acres in Concession A. He made many improvements on this farm, which he cultivated successfully, and where he passed the remainder of his life, dying at the age of eighty, and being buried in Lake View cemetery. He was a staunch Conservative, and served as a private in the Rebellion of 1837-38. He was a well-read man and active in all public matters in the township and county, serving as school trustee, and for three terms as a member of the township council. He married Anne Foster, of Prince Edward Island, daughter of the late Ralph Foster, Sr. Mrs. Robson died in Leamington, and is buried in Lake View cemetery. She and her husband were members of the Church of England.

Notes for Margarite Robson:

Published in the Leamington Post on March 20th 1918

Two deaths in one house last night one partaking of a tragic nature, shocked the community this morning on learning the particulars. Mr. Thomas Robson, unmarried, and 78 years of aged, an old and respected citizen who resided with his sister, Mrs W. D. Henson, on Askew Street, fell suddenly ill, his illness developed into pneumonia and his condition became extremely critical. Wednesday night he was seized with a severe hemorrhage, during which considerable blood gushed from his mouth and he expired at 9 o'clock.

The sight of the blood shocked Mrs. Henson who was nursing her brother, and she left the room in a horror-stricken and reeling condition, Friends found her lying on the floor unconscious. Restoratives were administered and physicians summoned, and it was at first thought that her condition was not serious. In this were mistaken but never fully regained consciousness, she lingered until 12:30 this morning when she peacefully passed away. Her death is attributed to a paralytic stroke.

Mrs. Henson's husband predeceased her about 30 years ago, and she is the youngest of three surviving sisters. Mrs. Peter Hookewith, of Wallaceburg and Mrs. W. C. Coulson and Mrs. C. L. Coultis of Leamington. Two brothers also survive, Mr. Joseph Robson, of the 1st concession of Mersea, and Mr. George Robson, of the Lakeshore.

The funeral will be a double one and service will be held at the late home of both on Friday afternoon at 3:30, interment following in Lakeview cemetery. The late Thos. Robson was a member of the Oddfellows, and that order will have charge of his burial.

The surviving members of the family have the sincere sympathy of a wide circle of friends in their severe bereavement.

Child of Margarite Robson and William Henson is:

109 i. Myrtle⁷ Henson, born 10/Jun/1881; died 04/Oct/1881.

50. Joseph Robson⁶ Hairsine (Margery⁵ Robson, Joseph⁴, Thomas³, Thomas², Gaven¹)⁴ was born 30/Dec/1842 in Leamington, Ontario, Canada, and died 24/Nov/1940 in Dewdney, British Columbia. He married Mary Cromarty⁴ 19/Mar/1881 in Langley, British Columbia. She was born 06/Mar/1858 in Langley, British Columbia, and died 30/Dec/1889 in Ruskin, British Columbia.

Notes for Joseph Robson Hairsine:

Joseph moved to British Columbia in 1862 at the age of 20 years. He first travelled to Detroit by stage, from there by train to New York. Once in New York he boarded a boat to Panama and a railroad to the Pacific Ocean, and then another boat to Victoria, B.C., a trip which lasted 6 weeks. He entered into the prospecting profession and did not return to the Leamington area for a period of 15 years. And when he did this was only for a 2 to 3 month visit from which he returned to the West by the California Railway and Western Railway, which both railways had joined in 1868. Joseph was married in the West, and the descendants are in Mission City and Victoria, B.C..

[robson descendants.FTW]

Joe as a boy of 20 years, left for his first trip to British Columbia which took him about 6 weeks. He took a stage coach to Detroit, a little place at that time of about 1500 inhabitants. From Detroit, he took a train to New York. Being in the early stages of civil war that city was in an excited state. From New York he took a ship to the Panama where he had to take a train to the Pacific where he had to depend on a boat to take him to Victoria. At that time, Vancouver was not much more than a site named after the explorer of that name. Barkerville was later his destination and later Atlin.

He took up placer mining in the Yukon and then moved to Ruskin and operated a berry and stock farm. Homesteaded on Stave River in seventies. Left Stave River when BCER Ruskin dam was built in 1929.

53. Rebecca⁶ Hairsine (Margery⁵ Robson, Joseph⁴, Thomas³, Thomas², Gaven¹) was born 03/Sep/1848 in Mersea Township, Ontario, Canada, and died 19/Feb/1898. She married Lewis Wigle Nov/1867 in Mersea Township, Ontario, son of Solomon Wigle and Eliza Thornton. He was born 10/Mar/1845 in Kingsville, Ontario, and died 1932.

Notes for Rebecca Hairsine:

Married Wigle, Louis (1845 - 1932) in November of 1867, who became the mayor of Leamington in 1904 and later a member of Parliament. Their home was turned into the first High School of Leamington, across the road from the present day High School.

Notes for Lewis Wigle:

are now surviving: Lewis; Gordon, of California; Alfred, postmaster at Windsor; Ernest S. an attorney of Windsor; and Angus, who is on the home farm and general agent for the Williams Piano Company of Toronto. Lewis Wigle remained at home until he was seventeen years of age, at which time he went to Leamington, and was employed as clerk in a mercantile establishment for some eighteen months. He then returned home, and as his father had a contract for carrying the mail from Blenheim to Amherstburg, and from Kingsville to Windsor, he drove a four-horse stage from Kingsville to Windsor; he had driven the mail coach when he was only fifteen years of age, and drove the first mail coach over this route. As this was just at the time the Civil war in the States broke out his commissions were many and varied. Accumulating sufficient money, Mr. Wigle returned to Leamington and attended public school for a time, and then embarked in a mercantile business, and continued to be identified with the establishment until his retirement, in 1891. During the years of his residence at Leamington he acquired some valuable realty near the city, on which he carried on farming for a number of years, and in addition to attending to his other interests he has bought tobacco extensively for the Empire Tobacco Company, being one of the best known tobacco buyers of this section. Mr. Wigle was instrumental in having constructed the Leamington & St. Clair railroad, and was president of the company until that road was absorbed by the Michigan Central. He built and is the owner of the handsome Wigle block, one of the best business blocks in the town of Leamington.

In politics Mr. Wigle is a staunch Conservative, and when only twenty-two years of age he began to make his influence felt in politics, beginning to serve at that time as reeve of the township. This office he held until he was twenty-nine, when he was elected to the Ontario Legislature, and had the honor of being the youngest member of that body. Between 1875 and 1882 he served two terms in the house, and in 1882 was further honored by being elected to the Dominion Legislature. He was the only Conservative elected to either house from the South Riding of the County of Essex. Since the confederation he has served three consecutive terms, and he was nominated three times more, and only defeated by thirty-four, fifty-five and eighty-three votes, at the respective elections, in a riding of 25,000 inhabitants. He is the present-nominee, for the eighth time, from the South Riding of the County of Essex. In 1902 Mr. Wigle was elected mayor of Leamington, and in 1903 and 1904 was re-elected by acclamation.

In Nov., 1867, Mr. Wigle was married to Miss Rebecca, daughter of Thomas Hairsine, of Mersea township and five children were born to this union: Everett, of Leamington, married Maggie McLean; Edith is the wife of S. L. McKay, mayor of Kingsville, and has one daughter, Marjorie; Russell, of Leamington, married Gertrude Awkworth, and has one son, Lewis W.; Mabel and Ella are at home. Mrs.

Wigle died in February, 1898, and Mr. Wigle later married Mrs. Bertha (Smith) Wray, widow of Dr. Wray, and daughter of Thaddeus Smith, of Pelee Island, although Mrs. Wigle was born in Kentucky. She was sent to her native State to be educated, and was graduated from the Lexington (Kentucky) Female Institute. Mrs. Wigle is an active worker in the Church of England, and Mr. Wigle attends its services and contributes liberally toward its support. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wigle are among the leading people of Leamington, and Mr. Wigle is recognized as one of its most distinguished citizens.

54. Alfred⁶ Hairsine (Margery⁵ Robson, Joseph⁴, Thomas³, Thomas², Gaven¹)⁶ was born 19/Nov/1852 in Mersea Township, Leamington Ontario, Canada, and died 17/Jan/1934⁶. He married Jennie Coulter⁶ 09/Nov/1887, daughter of William Coulter and Martha Thompson. She was born in Ireland⁶, and died 01/Dec/1940.

Notes for Alfred Hairsine:

Alfred became a well known citizen in to county and was clerk of Mersea Township for a number of years. In 1883 Alfred built the brick house (now covered in white siding) that today still stands on the farm. On November 9, 1887 Alfred married Coulter, Jennie born June 18, 1864 in Ireland, coming to Canada in 1865 with her parents.

Thomas attended the local schools and remained with his parents assisting his father, as the eldest son, very materially on the farm until 1875, when he started out for himself on a tract of 100 acres on Lot 230, located east of the homestead. This land was given him by his father, and was still in its wild state. Thomas took charge of it and pushed his work with vigour, soon creating here a fine farm on which he erected substantial buildings and made many admirable improvements.

On June 2, 1875, in Mersea township, Thomas married Kimball, Cordelia, born in Mersea township on June 17, 1852, daughter of Nelson and Mewlissa (Stockwell) Kimball.

Notes for Captain Nelson Darius Malott:

Captain Darius Nelson who after many different ships and a number of Great Lake trips to a number of ports, became captain of a ship name "Mojave," (pronounced Mojay) which sailed between Chicago and Buffalo. The Mojave measured at the waters edge 136' 8", at it breath 26' and the storage area,s inside measurement 11' 6". This vessel was lost on Lake Michigan during a heavy storm on September 6, 1864, neither captain nor crew have ever being found. He was a man noted for his hardihood and bravery in time of danger, and desperate, indeed, must have been the case when his skill and seamanship could not save either lives or property. There are quite a few articles written on this man, about his life one I would recommend reading is "The Saga of Nelse Malott" by C. E. Stein, husband of Marion (Hairsine) direct descendant of Margery Robson.

More trivia than info:Cat. Malott first shipped out Sept. 8 1851, his 18th birthday, on the schooner ELLEN PARK this came after a fight with a deck hand of which he broke the man's leg and ribs. His next sailing was on the schooner "Conductor," partly owned and commanded by Capt. Joseph Fox, who was engaged in the grain trade sailing to Montreal.On Sept. 8, 1860, his 27th birthday, while in command of the AUGUSTA, he rammed and sank the LADY ELGIN in a gale on Lake Michigan. My source says the MOJAVE was lost on 8 Sept. 1864- Malotts 31st birthday 1860 "Wreck of the Lady Elgin.- One of the greatest marine horrors on record was the loss of the steamboat Lady Elgin, on Lake Michigan, September 8, 1860.

She was struck by the schooner Augusta, and sank in twenty minutes, in 300 feet of water. She had on board 300 excursionists, 50 ordinary passengers, and a crew of 35 officers and men, a total of 385. Of these only 98 were saved. Among the lost was Herbert Ingram, of the "Illustrated London News".

The schooner Augusta, Capt. D. M. Mallot, reached Chicago early Saturday morning, Sept. 8, and reported that on the night previous, about midnight, she had collided with a large steamer. The Augusta had a full cargo of lumber, which had shifted in the collision. She had struck head on, suffered the loss of her headgear, and was leaking badly. The captain knew nothing of the extent of disaster to the other vessel.

The steamer Lady Elgin had left Milwaukee early Friday morning September 7, for Chicago with 300 excursionists, largely members of the Independent Union Guards, and their friends. She left Chicago in the evening between 10 and 11 o'clock on her regular trip to Lake Superior, taking about 50 passengers to Mackinaw and other northern points in addition to the 300 excursionists.

The evening set in with a wind moderately high. A heavy thunder storm came up about midnight, and the wind grew to a perfect gale. The sea ran high and so continued throughout the night and Saturday.

At the time of the collision the Lady Elgin was steaming against the wind.

The Augusta was sailing south by east under all sail except the gaff topsail.

The steamer had all her lights set, the schooner had none. A half hour before the collision the second mate of the Augusta, on watch, saw the steamers lights, and for twenty minutes no orders were given. Evidence taken before the coroner's inquest showed that the captain of the Augusta, who had come forward, seemed bent on passing to the starboard of the Lady Elgin instead of the larboard side, according to the rule. Shortly before the collision he ordered his helm head up, but she came straight on the steamer's larboard side, knocking a hole in her side.

It was about 2:30 o'clock on Saturday morning when the collision occurred.

The Lady Elgin was about 10 miles from shore, off Winetka, 16 miles north of Chicago.

The schooner struck the steamer at midships gangway on the larboard side, tearing off the wheel, cutting through the guards and tearing into the cabin and hull. The two separated instantly, and the Augusta drifted by in the darkness. At the moment of the collision there was dancing in the forward cabin, but most of the passengers had retired for the night. In an instant all was still. Captain Wilson ordered a lifeboat to be lowered on the starboard side, to be rowed around and discover the extent of the injury.

It dropped astern and did not regain the steamer. The latter was headed west to reach the shore if possible. But the vessel began to fill rapidly and to list. Freight was rolled to starboard and passengers were provided with life preservers. The Elgin began to settle and reel, and many passengers threw themselves overboard. Just when the vessel took the final plunge, a sea struck her upper works and they parted from the hull and floated off in several pieces. The night was intensely dark, lighted at intervals by flashes of vivid lightening, and the wreckage was scattered about profusely.

Two boats had been lowered, and in these 18 persons reached the shore.

Fourteen were saved on a large raft, and many others on parts of the wreckage.

It was established that 393 (another statement says 385) souls were aboard the vessel, and of these 98 were saved."

A survivor named Bellman, after describing how he and others with the captain got upon a raft, says: "On this extempore raft not less than 300 persons were collected, the majority of whom clung to their places until nearly daylight. The raft was mostly under water from the weight of the living burden, and very few who clung to it were above the waist in the turbulent sea. The Captain was constantly on his feet encouraging the crowd, and seems to have been the only man who stirred from his recumbent position, which was necessary to keep a secure hold on the precarious raft. He carried a child which he found in the arms of an exhausted and submerged woman, to an elevated portion of the raft, and left it in charge of a woman, when it was soon lost. He constantly exhorted the crowd to keep silent, and not only to make no noise, but to refrain from moving in order that the frail framework might last a little longer." Bellman further states that during the time which elapsed while the raft kept together there was scarcely a sound from man, woman or child. They clung to their places in silent terror, and neither groans nor prayers were audible; no voice save that of the captain raised aloud in encouragement and good cheer, being heard amidst the roar of the wind and the ceaseless splash of the combing waves. Finally the constant action of the water broke up the raft, and large parties floated off on detached pieces, and gradually the multitude melted away by couples and solitary individuals until but a tithe of the whole number remained. The swell tumbled the light raft about like feather-weights, and a weary struggle the hopeless survivors had during the long drift of ten miles intervening to the shore. Bellman was 10 hours on his raft, and said he was capsized and thrown into the sea, with his two companions, every third minute. When they reached the shore they were dashed about hopelessly in the surf, and, more fortunate than their companions, were lifted upon the beach by the breakers and rescued. The heroic captain was among the lost.

The Lady Elgin was rated a first class steamer, and had been a favorite with the traveling public. She was built at Buffalo in 1851 by Bidwell and Banta at a cost of $96,000. For several years she ran between Buffalo and Chicago, then between Chicago and Collingwood, but for many seasons had constituted the line between Chicago and other Lake Michigan ports and Lake Superior.

The Augusta was owned by Capt. G. W. Bissell, of Detroit, who not long after had her name changed to Col. Cook. She was the second vessel of that name, the first Col. Cook having been wrecked in the St. Lawrence.

Detroit Advertiser, Nov 19, 1863

"LAUNCH OF A NEW VESSEL FOR THE DETROIT AND LIVERPOOL TRADE.

On Wednesday afternoon, a vessel just completed for the Detroit and Liverpool trade, by Stewart McDonald, at his shipyard, in this city, was launched. It had been arranged to have the launch take place on Saturday last, but owing to the inclement weather, the event did not occur. Wednesday afternoon, however, all being in readiness, the vessel glided off the ways into her natural element, 'like a thing of life,' amid the cheers of the multitude. The delicate duty of christening the ship was entrusted to a niece of Mr. McDonald, who named her the Mojave, after a tribe of Indians of that name. The Mojave is a staunch barque of about 400 tons, Custom House measurement, her extreme length from stem to stern being 142 feet. The length of her keel is 138 feet; her breadth of beam is 26 feet 2 1/2 inches, and her depth of hold is 12 feet. Her bulwarks, which are of more than ordinary height, are furnished with a monkey rail, which heightens them considerably. She is finished throughout with all the improvements that mechanical skill could contrive to make her both strong and seaworthy. Her cabin accommodations are of an elaborate description, and, when fully equipped, the Mojave will be one of the most complete craft of the kind afloat. Her model is exquisitely beautiful, and the general appearance throughout gives assurance that she will be a fast sailer. She will be commanded by Capt. D. N. Malott, late of the bark Ravenna, an experienced navigator and a thorough 'jack tar.' We wish her enterprising owner success in navigating out inland seas."

Detroit Free Press, Nov 20, 1863

"LAUNCH. - Stewart McDonald launched on Wednesday G. W. Bissell's new bark which has been named Mojave. She is a splendid vessel of fine model and excellent fit-out. She will be commanded by Captain D. N. Malott, an experienced navigator."

2) The story that she sank on Capt. Malott's birthday (Sep 8) has caused problems in finding information about the wreck - for me and for others as well. In fact, I've never seen any detail about her demise. I resolved to go through the Detroit papers for the fall of 1864 page-by-page until I found it. Since she was out of Detroit, her sinking should have been covered in those papers. The story of her sinking on his birthday is a good one, but it is, in fact, fabricated. Here is the clipping I finally found regarding the loss:

Detroit Free Press, Nov. 11, 1864

ANOTHER MARINE DISASTER - LOSS OF THE BARK MOJAVE AND ALL ON BOARD.

A rumor announcing the loss of the bark Mojave, with all hands, reached this city yesterday afternoon, and we fear that the facts as they have reached us prove too true. The Mojave, when last seen, was in company with the Canadian bark Monarch, on Friday last, in Lake Michigan, about midway between Sheboygan and Point au Sable [Big Sable Point, Mich]. Captain Filan, of the Monarch, states that when he last saw the ill-fated craft she was rolling heavily and making bad weather of it, being less than four miles distant. It is presumed that while endeavoring to wear ship [bring her about with the wind coming from astern], and getting in the trough of the sea, she swamped and went down, as she disappeared instantaneously, as it were, and was not seen afterward, although she was sighted for from the masthead. The Mojave was a new vessel, having come into commission the present season, and was owned by G. W. Bissell, of this city, where she was built. She was commanded by Captain D. N. Malott, whose family reside at Gosfield, C.W.

The gale was from the southwest and I believe the bark was headed north out of Chicago, so she was probably trying to make a turn of about 25 degrees to run for Manistee or Frankfort. That would allow her to take in sail and ease the pressure on her masts, while still keeping steerageway. The next day after the article more reports of this terrific gale came in and the marine column was concerned with another set of disasters. No more appears about the Mojave

Earl, was the one on this side of the family that took to the reading of books, was socialistic and very much a temperance. His older brothers took up calling him Phys (Fizz). I can remember going to Earl's house with my mother to delivery eggs or chickens, when I was but a child. His house long gone now, use to be on Erie Street south between the 1st concession and Robson Road (the original Robson track of homestead land). He was, what I thought at that time just an old man, and my mother would say he is your relative and he writes for the paper. Little did I know at that time that 45 years later I would be reading his articles trying to get to know my family's history.

He was a writer for the Leamington Post & News "By the Lake Puffs" plus a number of other Canadian publications. Earl never married.

Articles by Earl Robson:

The last wooden steamer to be piled up on our shores was the S. S. Nessen, loaded with scrap iron. All day it had blown a gale. By night the lake rolled and heaved a white spouting pit. Out of the pitchy darkness of the storm broke the four weird blasts. All through the night the distress signals rose and fell. A black grey dawn exposed the steamer lying broadside to the piling seas. With daybreak Captain Jimmy Grubb arrived overland with lifeboat and crew. The late Gord Robson was selected by Captain Jimmie to ride the bow of the lifeboat. Only Gord had the arm knack of hurling a line against wind and flying spray, to the deck of the wreck. Twice the lifeboat was picked up by the breakers and thrown back upon the beach. With the addition of the late Pat Girardin to the crew of rowers, the boat was put through the surf and a line swung aboard the wreck. After the precarious work of loading portly old captain and a much fatter woman cook, Captain Jimmie braced tight against a long stern oar, steered safely back to shore. The following morning all sign of the Steamer Nessen had disappeared. Her wreckage strewn the beach. The Nessen was one of the last small wooden steamers to ply the lakes.

The other week I wrote about Gord Robson's much-talked-of swim to get help for two companions. The late Gord will be remembered by old residents as a leader in all adventurous activities, on water or dry land. He was the oldest of four sons and one daughter of George, whose lake shore home at Sturgeon Creek for many years stood as a land-mark, country-wide known for its cheer and hospitality. The parents and children of this once fine old Canadian family are all dead. Mrs. "Cam." Smithson (Mildred) is a daughter of Gord by his first wife. His second wife Mrs. Ella Robson and daughter Mrs. John Reynolds, live in our neighborhood.

The original head of the family of Robson being among the first to settle east along Pigeon Bay, a short sketch of their activities is in itself a review of the history of our lake front. Much that was traditional blurred out with my father's generation. To me alone the dimming picture presents itself.

So:

During first Great War, when we required to register, I came up before an elderly old-country Scotchman. In taking my I prompted him on the spelling. He smiled and said he came from Cheviot Hills (border of Scotland and England) and was quite familiar with the name. When I told him my ancestors came from Northumberland, in the Cheviot Hills, he became immediately interested. In the ensuing conversation he told me in answer to my query that the Robsons in the Cheviot Hills were to this day pretty much millers. He was further interested when I told him that one of the first water-propelled grist mills had been built by the original Robsons on a gushing stream, now confined to a six-inch tiling crock on the lake front farm presently owned by Clarence Robinson (no relation), about a half mile east of dock.

I could not tell my enquiring excountryman the exact date of Robson transition from the Cheviot Hills to forest-lined shore of Great Lakes, but was able to explain that it was my father's grandfather; that with wife, three sons and three daughters he had endured a voyage across the ocean in a wooden wind-jammer, afterward to trail his family chiefly by water-way to the present site of Leamington. I parted company with the old soldier, promising each other to meet again but never did.

"The three sons, James, Edward and Thomas, took up farms along the lake front between Erie St. and Sturgeon Creek. The three daughters later married into the families of Hairsine, Wilkinson and Nichol; The later the parents of Captain Thomas Nichol, owner of the lake bank lime kiln, the small schooner Rob Roy and short crib dock which stood where the present dock stands. When still engaged in land-clearing and home-making, the young-est of the three sons, Thomas, father of our father laid down his ax, saw, and grub-hook to shoulder a musket, at the outbreak of the rebellion of 1837, leaving behind on the bush farm a wife, three small children and our father, not yet born. The pioneer soldier never came back. He died at Sandwich and was buried in an unmarked grave. The little family from that day on became the charge of brothers Jim and, Ned, who were by this time making their crude grist mill the centre of the settlement's activity. James had married Ann, only daughter of "Squire" Ralph Foster grandfather of our mother, Edward had married into a first family of Atkin, grandmother of Mrs. John Tew.

The family of our father's widowed mother numbered four, two sons, Christopher and Thomas, and two daughters, Mary and Isabelle. Uncle Kit, the old, boatman with the enchanted voice and weighty silver medal pinned, to his vest, will be remembered by all men then boys. Aunt Mary (1st Con) married the celebrity Captain Nelson Malott, and Belle, Wellesby Morse, grandfather of town clerk Elmer Selkirk. And here may I recount one swift change in the course of Lake Shore events and its shaping of the careers of men. A devoted Baptist, intensified by the tragedy to deeper cloud her dismal setting, the widow Robson brought up her family on lessons from the small Book linking the faraway Cheviot Hills with a log house in a clearing, back to which a husband and father was not to return. A few are left to recall how in deeply religious lives of the two sisters the mother's spirit had sunk.

Our grandmother's ambition was to educate Tom, her youngest, for the ministry. In those early day's boot-makers, tailors and educators peddled their services from home to home, largely for their keep. The hospitable home of Uncle Ned, the miller, had become the wayfarer's citadel. In this manner Tom, the boy, became the pupil of an old-country itinerant scholar. As a result of his schooling the young man was quick to see the opportunities held out by the fast developing timber business for a hand trained in figures.

Tom married the oldest daughter of John Foster. He soon became interested to the extent of his means in the buying, conditioning and shipment of timber. The demand in the States seemed limitless. Buffalo then growing into a city; was being built of Ontario hardwood. To compete with older timber merchants, Tom built the Robson Dock near Sturgeon Creek. Later to facilitate trade he built a vessel and name her the "Ned Robson", after his benevolent uncle. The vast surrounding timberlands supported the confidence in the industry's solidarity.

At this time the wooden steamboats were steadily taking the place of canvas. These new steam craft fired their boilers with wood, for which the demand steadily increased. During the winter sleighing the lake banks were piled with tier after tier of cordwood for the open season trade. Railroad tie-yards staves, bolts and lumber faced the lake bank. Along about this time the "Ned Robson" was lost in the East Lake with her valuable cargo of squared timber. Like a gathering cloudbank adversities gathered over the busy shore. Without notice, one summer day a tug heading into the Scott Dock (about five rods east of the present dock) belching a column of black smoke into the clear sky. To the little port it hung a column of black crepe. It signalled the end of cordwood as a boiler fuel. The invention of the coal-grate revolution lakefaring over night.

65. Christopher⁶ Robson (Thomas A.⁵, Joseph⁴, Thomas³, Thomas², Gaven¹)⁷ was born 22/Jul/1836 in Mersea Township, Leamington Ontario, Canada, and died 14/Jan/1933 in Leamington, Ontario, Canada. He married Isabella Brown⁷, daughter of Benjamin Brown and Mary Williams. She was born 1848 in U.S.A, and died 1905 in Leamington, Ontario, Canada.

Notes for Christopher Robson:

A renounced Boatman born in a log cabin on the shore of Lake Erie, owned and operated a boat livery at the site of the present Leamington dock. Kit as he was known, solution to long life span was simple. He said he just never thought of the possibility of dying. One of the Great Lake's most romantic characters was Christopher Robson. He had sailed the chain of lakes under canvas from link to link, when, as the saying goes, iron men sailed in wooden ships. He was the brother-in law to the internationally known Caption Nelson Malott, and narrowly escaped the fate of the Mojave's crew by having been put ashore while suffering from a heavy cold. His sailing mate and boon companion, Henry Wilkinson, lost his life in that tragedy. In advanced years "Kit" living alone in his shore cabin, bubbled over with song, interspersed with rousing yarns of early sailing days. The quality of his singing voice became legendary. The deep mellow tone had the range of rumbling thunder, softened by the distance separating a clear sky from a rising cloud-head on the horizon. A professor of a Detroit singing school once said it be the softest, deepest and most musical bass voice in America. This voice had made the sailor popular from Buffalo to Duluth, Henry Wilkinson, his sailing mate, sang a good tenor lead, and he also played a string instrument. Together the two Leamington lakemen sang from street windows in Detroit, Buffalo and Chicago, filling the streets below with listeners.

Kit once said that a gift of nature could either raise you to a pinnacle of fame, or crumble the sound footing under your feet. To illustrate his little philosophy on life, he had once made a trip from the head of Lake Michigan to Chicago at its foot, all day a fleet of schooners had weathered a heavy sea. As night settled in, the vessels, one after another, rounded up under the lee of an island. The gale suddenly dropped, the sky cleared and the air became crystal. In the sheltering cove the lights of the anchored vessels gleamed over the dusky water, and the voices from the decks carried with bell-like clearness. Suddenly from a distant light a song broke the evening air. It was a sailor's shanty, sung by a powerful and untrained voice. It opened the night's program. At its finish another song came out of the peaceful gloom from another quarter, and with its conclusion an introduction "We are the brigantine 'Helen' bound for Chicago." Song after song, stirring epics of the sailor, floated in liquid tones through the night. Then it came the turn of the barque 'Mojave', with its two famed Leamington voices.

The fine lead voice of Henry Wilkinson and the mellow bass voice of Kit, accompanied by the guitar, floated over the little enchanted bay. All else was locked in silence. When the song finished with the ethereal harmony of "Old Black Joe", a burst of shouts for "More, more, more," came in a fusillade. Kit said he and Henry sang themselves hoarse.

When they arrived in Chicago, the Mojave became the spirited vessel to be sought out. Crews of vessels swarmed the docks to search out the two singers. They wanted to show their honest feelings and, of course, in those days there was only one way. The lusty sailors carried the two singers up to the waterfront...

She was born 06/Jan/1887 in Kent County, Ontario, Canada, and died 23/Jul/1965 in Leamington, Ontario, Canada.

Notes for Gordon Robson:

He was a sailor on the steamer "Lincoln," and distinguished himself by his bravery during a storm in 1901, as told by Earl Robson of the Lake Shore News. Back in the days of sail boats Gord swam a good mile through darkness and a heavy sea to save three companions he had left lashed to the masts (they could not swim) of a fish-boat, which, loaded with anchor stone, had plunged to the bottom of the lake, off Lighthouse Point, Pelee Island. Gord knew the spars, reaching scarcely a foot above water, could not hold long, and certainly not at all supporting an extra man. There in the open lake, hanging by on hand to a precarious support, he stripped himself of heavy outfit and set off for shore. He made the swim to shore, wounded and exhausted, crawled out of a surf made woolly by the waves that broke over the rocky shore. For a mile or more, over an uninhabited shore he made his way, naked and with an injured knee, to procure help. Later he returned with islanders to the relief of his comrades. For this act he was awarded a medal. This is one of many incidents of outstanding accomplishments in the life of this lakeman=s voluntary sacrifice for others. Gordon on taking over the threshing part of the family business threshed grain for the majority of the area farms within the Leamington area using a steam engine as a power plant. The water used in the steam engine had to be pumped by hand from the lake each day during the threshing season.

GENEALOGY SUMMARY

ROACH LINEAGE

MERSEA TWP, ESSEX COUNTY.

DEFINITION OF "GENEALOGY" - Confuse the Dead, Irritate the Living? (anon).

LEWIS WEBSTER ROACH (1877 - 1953), Born April 19, 1877, died September 3, 1953, Mersea Twp, Essex County, Ont., Farmer, businessman/dealership for Willy's (Jeep) & Bentley, Erie Street N., Leamington, Ont., Son of William Roach, born December 4, 1844 - 1924, beloved father and mother Emeline (maiden name unk?), born August 4, 1846 - 1927. Married Ruby Robson, December 9, 1896 who lived from (1879 - 1921) Ruby died December 8, 1921, sired three children: Glen Roach (1908 - 1975), Margrie (Registered, legal name) also known as (Marjorie) Roach (1916 - 1996), and Fred Roach (1919 - 1944). Lewis Webster Roach than married Pricilla Graham April 17, 1924 (a widow with children of her own) divorce followed after a few years and Lewis Webster Roach than moved his immediate family to the country side (Mersea Twp) where he resided and some time later, approx. 1930/31 he hired a live in house keeper, Ivy Ware (1913 - 1996). In 1932, he sired a daughter (illegitimate) with Ivy Ware and named her Marjorie Ware on the registered birth certificate.

GLEN ROACH (1908 - 1975) born Leamington, Ont., eldest son of Lewis Webster Roach & Ruby (Robson), burial in Simcoe, Ont., married Zena Gwendolyn (Kipping) (born 1915 to present) of Leamington, March 7, 1935. Sired two children: Douglas Roach (1940 - present) Leamington, Ont., and Mary Lynn Roach (1945 - present) Leamington, Ont.

MARGRIE KIT (ROACH) ALSO KNOWN AS MARJORIE KIT (ROACH) (1916 - 1996) Born Leamington, Ont., April 26, 1916, died August 28, 1996, (registered, legal name on birth certificate "Margrie" Roach), also known as Marjorie, daughter of Lewis Webster Roach and Ruby (Robson), formerly married to Nelson Leroy Cook (1913 - 1979) Oct 5, 1933, Leamington, Ont., divorced 1941, first son Duane Nelson Cook born, August 12, 1934, Leamington, Ont. Nelson Leroy Cook in 1942 married divorcee Nora _____? (1908 - 1989) who had three sons from her first marriage.

A second son, registered as Kenneth Richard Lewis Cook, born October 30, 1941, Leamington, Ont., (illegitimate son of paternal father Kenneth B. Brown) Leamington, Ontario. Marjorie Cook (Roach) than married John Kit, July 13, 1946 (step-father) to Kenneth and than later adoption completed 1959 and name changed to Kenneth Richard Lewis Kit.

*Note both Duane Nelson Cook and Kenneth Richard Lewis Kit are therefore half brothers by law, having the same mother but different fathers?

FRED ROACH (1919 - 1944) Born January 19, 1919, Leamington, Ont., youngest son of Lewis Webster Roach and Ruby (Robson), was killed in action during WW2 over Belgium, May 13, 1944, while on a bombing mission with the Royal Canadian Air Force (RCAF), 426 squadron bomber command, never married.

MARJORIE WARE (1932 TO PRESENT) Born 1932, Mersea Twp, Essex county, illegitimate daughter of Lewis Webster Roach and Ivy Ware (house keeper) born on 5th concession at home.

DUANE NELSON COOK (1934 to PRESENT) - First son of Nelson Leroy Cook and Marjorie (MARGRIE Roach), born August 12, 1934, Leamington, Ontario, married Patricia Gillett from Leamington, (born 1935), April 29, 1955, Leamington, Ont., sired four children: Drew (1957) Leamington, Trenny (1964) Leamington, Trisha (1965) Leamington, and Darren (1968) Kitchener, Ontario.

*Half brother to Kenneth Richard Lewis Kit. (Same paternal mother (Marjorie Roach (Margrie), different fathers - Nelson Leroy Cook is paternal father to Duane Nelson Cook)..

KENNETH RICHARD LEWIS KIT (1941 to PRESENT) -

Second son born to Marjorie (MARGRIE Roach), date of birth: October 30, 1941 Leamington, Ontario, married the former Marcella Mae Vallis, Coombs Cove, Nfld., 1966, sired two children: Jacqueline Heather Kit (1967), Halifax, N.S. and Shane Jason Kit, (1971) Greenwood, N.S., divorced in 1979, remarried July 6, 1979 to Loretta Irene Bergen from Leamington, Ontario, no children. Ken's first name was after his paternal father Kenneth B. Brown, Leamington and also his grandfather Lewis Roach, no idea where the Richard came from or why? Ken's surname at birth (1941) was registered as Cook, and in the eyes of the law in those days, my mother was still married to Nelson Leroy Cook, (Nelson Leroy Cook later married Nora ___??_ 1942) and therefore, he was listed as Ken's father on the Birth Certificate, thus I carried the legal name of Kenneth Richard Lewis Cook from 1941 to 1959 (18) years but was commonly called Kenneth Kit from 1946, when my mother married John Kit, July 13, 1946, and in 1959 Ken was adopted by John Kit and a new, registered name change was ordered by the Ontario courts to Kenneth Richard Lewis Kit which I am still called today?

p.s. - I did personally know, met and spoke with Nelson Leroy Cook (1913 - 1975) a few times while living in Leamington and during my military career, however I never met or spoke with my paternal father Kenneth B. Brown from Leamington (1920 to 1981), nor did he ever make contact with me. I was however aware of who he was and what he looked like.

pp. - *Half brother to Duane Nelson Cook. (Same paternal mother (Marjorie Roach (Margrie) different fathers - Kenneth B. Brown is paternal father to Kenneth Richard Lewis Cook, Ken was adopted by step-father, John Kit in 1959 and subsequent name changed to Kenneth Richard Lewis Kit.

P.S. - (March 26, 2001) Debbie, I hope you will find this information useful in your quest for genealogy research into the Roach lineage, I know it's a great deal of work involved here, so good luck?

To the best of my knowledge, the above information is true and factual, I remember my mother (Marjorie Roach) telling me for years the family history and legacy (Roach/Robson/Gillander/Pickle/Wilkinson/Ware/Settlington/Reynold/Brown/Cook/Carter/Kit etc and the list goes on, I'm sure there were more kin involved over the years, but I cannot possibly remember all the details, (good & bad stories, of course, every family has them?). I had no idea that my mother's registered, legal name was "MARGRIE", also commonly known as Marjorie which her father Lewis Webster Roach named her at birth and I remember as a little boy living with my grand father (Lewis Webster Roach) on the 5th concession, on the corner of Bruner's side road, an old red brick place with a big red colored barn and yes an old "out house" in the back yard, for a period of time while my mother worked and supported me in Windsor at John Wyse factory on Ottawa street which produced drugs for commercial drug stores. It was a small potato farm, I was approx. 4 or 5 years old, I remember a woman called Ivy Ware (1913 - 1996) living there at the time and of course some girl called Marjorie (Ware), born 1932 and was 12 years old and bossed me around, also lived there, I was too young to know who was who or what was going on at that time?. My grandfather could no longer handle things on the farm, his personal health was failing rapidly and so the farm was sold and he moved into town (Leamington) at 52 fox street, the house still stands today. Time moved on and in 1953 Lewis Webster Roach passed away at Leamington District Memorial Hospital, he is buried in a family plot (Roach) located in Lakeview cemetery, Erie Street S., Leamington along side his first wife Ruby (Robson) 1879 - 1921, and both his parents William Roach (1844 - 1924) & mother Emeline (1846 - 1927). The Roach family plot is located on the north side (facing east), approx. ½ way up the first lane, a large, granite tombstone with the name "Roach" inscribed (etched) at it's mid section, there are 8 plots altogether of which 6 are now occupied, 2 are still vacant. For your records, there is also listed on the tombstone an "Edith C. Roach" (1874 - 1899) wife of George Getty???? - my mother told me that this person was very poor and her family didn't have the money to bury her, so my grandfather Lewis Webster Roach paid for her funeral and buried her in the Roach family plot at Lakeview cemetery, Leamington, Ont.

It was always my mother's personal wish when her time came (1916 - 1996) that she be laid to rest beside her mother Ruby (1879 - 1921) at the family grave site in Lakeview cemetery, Leamington. My mother was only 5 years old when her mother passed away at Hotel Dieu Hospital in Windsor, Ont. leaving a husband and three young children orphaned. (Glen, Marjorie & Fred Roach). The years that followed where extremely challenging, Lewis Webster Roach (Widower) trying to raise three youngsters, earn a living, the great depression of 1929 - 1939 had hit and caused considerable hardship for most people throughout the world, than followed immediately by world war 11, 1939 - 1945 of which his youngest son was killed in action, may 13, 1944.

According to my mother's testimonial, the loss of Lew Roach's younger son Fred at the age of 25 in Belgium, was more than he could handle and he was never the same person again following the announcement that his younger son Fred was missing in action and assumed dead, his mind began to wander and his personal health deteriorated rapidly until his death in 1953, Leamington, Ont., he was 76.

I hope you enjoyed my little story from the archives of the Roach family as I remember things, if I can be of anymore assistance, pls. let me know?.....regards.....Ken Kit
