

Descendants of Isaac H Skinner

Generation No. 1

1. ISAAC H.¹ SKINNER was born 1800 in Georgia, and died Abt. 1887. He married MARY ANN HARLEY 30 Nov 1824 in Newton County Georgia, daughter of WILLIAM HARLEY and ELIZABETH PRYOR. She was born 1806, and died 1870.

Notes for ISAAC H. SKINNER:

Per Nelson Skinner, son of Andrew Jackson Skinner, (family interview from 1998 at age 92) he was always told that the Skinner family came from an area in South Carolina that is now known as Paris Island area, which is in Beaufort County, SC. Research is continuing on the South Carolina Skinner families. It is not known exactly when the Skinner family left South Carolina and went to Georgia. Isaac H. Skinner is first located in a census as head of household in 1830 in Henry County, GA.

In 1840 and 1850 he is in Coweta County, GA and in 1860 in Carroll County, Georgia; he died before 1870; gravemarkers/tombstones have not been located for Isaac H. Skinner or Mary A. Harley, who are presumed (by family legend) to be buried either in Carroll County, GA or Cleburne County, Alabama near other Skinner ancestors.

Notes: Carroll County, Georgia Voter Registration 1867 - 1868 shows Francis M. Skinner, Samuel P. Skinner, Wiley W. Skinner in Bowdon Election District; there is not a listing for Isaac H. Skinner, which suggests he was deceased by then, or no longer in Carroll County.

THANKS TO CANDACE GRAVELLE FOR ABOVE INFORMATION.

Much research has and is still going on to find the parents of Isaac H. Skinner. In an article in "The Cleburne County Heritage Book" it is stated that he is the son of John Skinner and Susannah Coaker and the grandson of Captain Isaac Skinner and Jane Jackson. I have not found any proof of this. I have found a John Skinner living in Columbia County GA in 1820 who could possibly be Isaac's father, but there are several other John Skinners living in Georgia. Don't know who these John Skinner's parents are or whether they are connected to our Isaac or not. This John Skinner in Columbia County is promising as he lived in the same area as Isaac. Isaac appears on the following census:

This world shall thy memory keep.
But deeper on my heart is graven
The thought that we shall meet in Heaven.

Notes for WILLIAM JASPER SKINNER:

William Jasper Skinner enlisted in Co. H. 41st Georgia Infantry CSA in March 1862. According to his wife, Mary's widow pension he died from disease contracted while in service (probably measles as his brother John did). He died at the hospital in Lauderdale Springs, Mississippi (see description and history of the Lauderdale Springs Hospital below) and is buried at Lauderdale Springs Civil War Cemetery where 1020 Confederate soldiers and about 80-100 Union soldiers are also buried. Enclosed is a letter from a soldier who was also a patient at the Lauderdale Springs Hospital where William Jasper Skinner died. This tells what most of the patients probably went through. See also letter written by William Jasper Skinner to his wife Mary and to a friend, Ira Jackson. William Jasper's brother, John mentioned in this letter also died at Lauderdale Springs according to his wife, Caroline's Widow's Pension application. John was not listed in the deaths from any of the hospitals there.

LETTER FROM A CONFEDERATE SOLDIER

CAPT. JARED E. STALLINGS
COPANY A. 41ST GEORGIA INFANTRY

Lauderdale Springs, Miss May 15th 1862

Dear Lizzie:

Since writing you last I have been sick as you doubtless from Jimmie ere this reches you, but through the mercies of a kind providence I am now in a state of convalescence. I hope soon to be well post of duty. I am resolved, however, to try to take care of myself, though it is quite difficult for one to do so in camps.

The military regulations are very rigid and often appear very foolish to me. A soldier is not allowed to take care of himself at his own expense, but is thrust into filthy hospitals where the surgeons give him but little attention, and he is starved to death for the want of wholesome and nourishing food. I am here where there are 1500 sick soldiers — from 6 to 10 are buried daily. Three of my company are buried here — poor fellows, it makes me weep to think of their fate. The remains of E.E. Addy, Canon Sims and Pleasant G. Harris are in a few hundred yards of me.

I have visited their graves this morning, and can weep with those that weep, and mourn with those that mourn. Mr Addy died on the 5th inst. I have not learned when the others died. I knew nothing of the death of any of them until I arrived here yesterday. They were sent from Bethel Tenn. here about the last of April, and the Yankees destroyed the bridges, etc. on the R.R. from Corinth to Bethel, and thus cut us off from all communication with the balance of the world. It was reported when I arrived here that three companies of the 41st Regt. Ga. Vols had been taken prisoners among them mine. The portion of my company here, about 20 in number seemed greatly rejoiced at my arrival, having heard that those of us who had been left at Bethel, were prisoners (as before stated) We narrowly escaped, but all are safe now I trust so far as the Yankees are concerned.

May 15th 1862

I must say something to you of our sick here. Mr. Sanders, John Adams, Dawson Byram, Harrison Addy, Cap Addy, Wm. G. Woodard & Simeon Sims have suffered much for the last month. I hope they will all get well and think they are all mending at this time. The 41st Ga. Regt. has at least 50 men buried here. The most of their deaths occasioned by relapse of the measles. Many of them were very sick with the measles at Bethel Springs, Tenn. when

Gen. Maxey saw proper to have them sent to Columbus and Lauderdale Springs. Miss. The weather was bad when they were ordered to leave Bethel raining and rather cold many of them with high fevers at the time. It is not astonishing to me that so many have died, but rather surprizing that all did not die, being crowded into damp box cars suitable only for hauling horses and cows in not in the least adapted to the comfort of the sick soldier. Here these poor sick soldiers had to remain in these horrible filthy cars for nearly three days.

My heart sickens at the thought and my pen fails to give you an adequate idea of the suffering of our sick soldiers. Tatum Fullilove, George A. Bell and Moses G. Herrin were sent to the hospital at Columbus, Miss. I have been informed that that the hospital at that place is well conducted, and sick soldiers well cared for. I am uneasy in regard to Tatum & Mr. Bell, but hope they are doing well.

Perhaps you would like to know what I am doing here, and how I am situated.

When I left Bethel Springs, I was quite feeble and am not very stout yet, but think I am doing remarkably well comparing my case with others. I am boarding at a private house with a Mr. Barrett, in the edge of town, on a high hill where I have fresh air and good water — the best I have drank since we left Georgia. The gentleman and his lady are very kind to me, and I feel as if my health will soon be restored, and I be myself again.

Sickness is much more to be feared in this war than the Yankees. Hundred are dieing daily. What sad intelligence is conveyed to so many homes? Father, brother and son continually passing from time to eternity. War is a horrible thing, but we are into it, and must pass through the fiery ordeal. Southern Independence must win at whatever cost of blood and treasure. Let towns and cities perish, let the rural beautiful homes of Southern planters be consumed by fire, let thousands of soldiers die upon their beds of straw and thousands more upon the storming battle field, yet, the cause of the South will and must be sustained. I live in hope, though we have met with some sad

Below is a description and history of Lauderdale Springs Mississippi:

LAUDERDALE SPRINGS STORY

The spring waters that gave birth to Lauderdale County by convincing James Lauderdale to settle nearby in 1800 continue to hold a special place in the history of East—Central Mississippi. The springs with magic healing powers” had attracted Indians for ‘countless moons” before Lauderdale discovered the magnetic beauty of the area located 18 miles northeast of present—day Meridian, Col. Lauderdale first traveled into the then Mississippi territory with Sam Dale, Allen Smith and Ambrose Ramsey along an ancient Indian war path and hunting trail known as the Three Notch Trail.

While stopping from the laborious journey from the east~ the four men camped near the springs. According to local legend, the men encountered an Indian Chief named Little Bear. The group was entranced after their first drink of the cool spring water, Chief Little Bear further intrigued the pioneers by telling them Indians of many tribes had been coming to the springs to drink its water as a cure for skin diseases and other ailments.

The ‘wonder waters’, Chief Little Bear told the men, attracted Indians from as far away as the Smoky Mountains and the far West. Medicine men would prescribe a visit to the springs for their wounded warriors,

Their Indian host told the pioneers that each of the different springs located near present—day Lauderdale produced a water for certain ailments. The White Sulphur Spring supposedly cured stomach trouble while another nearby spring, the Spout Spring, produced excellent drinking water said to cure kidney ailments and other health problems. Yet another spring shown to the pioneers was the ‘Black Medicine Water Spring’ which produced waters known to cure skin ailments.

West of the black spring~ were a set of four springs known as the Coleriate Springs, Each produced a different colored water with different healing powers, Chief Little Bear told the white men.

The dream that gave birth to Lauderdale County began to take shape in Col. Lauderdale’s mind as he toured the area with his gracious Indian host. Tradition holds that Lauderdale traded Little Bear “...a fine rifle, some ammunition, a pony, an axe, a hatchet, a knife, a skillet, beads and about $25 in gold’ for the property. The deal was closed with the understanding that Little Bear and any of his tribe could have free use of the springs.

The four pioneers returned to North Carolina to retrieve their families and possessions, carrying tales of the ‘magic waters’ with them. On the return trip, Allen Smith and his family stopped and settled on the Three Notch trail at Smith’s Pass, east of present-day Toomsboro. Sam Dale traveled further east to settle what is now known as Old Daleville while Lauderdale settled on the sandy ridges near the springs he had purchased from Chief Little Bear.

After settling in the area, Lauderdale and Dale established one of the first stage routes into Mississippi from the Carolinas over the Three Notch Trail. Jim Dawson, executive director of the Lauderdale County Department of Archives and History, says the men were responsible for bringing in many of the area’s first white settlers. Lauderdale and Dale later earned distinction in the War of 1812, with Lauderdale, Lauderdale County and Lauderdale Springs named for the colonel as a result.

While serving as the magnet that would help populate the Mississippi Territory might have been a commendable task, the role of Lauderdale Springs in the history of the state was not about to end.

The Indians’ discovery of the curative power of the spring waters was more than myth, and later developers would cash in on the ‘magic waters’ by building an antebellum pleasure center nearby.

Col. Lauderdale developed the sandy knolls surrounding the springs into an antebellum health resort that attracted “many distinguished people from many far places.” The unique fact that a spring producing “table—quality” water was located near a mineral spring with supposed healing powers made the area ~ natural for a health resort.

Developers built a two—story hotel on the property prior to the Civil War. The resort proved to be so popular that ~ spur line was built leading from the main railroad into “Springs Depot” located on the resort property. The hotel, which gained a widespread reputation as a honeymoon haven featured cottages, a large dance pavilion and bath houses near the springs.

Records show the hotel and cottages were booked throughout the summer. Many guests were so delighted with the amenities which included “magic waters” that they stayed year round. Newlyweds and other guests seeking to escape the South’s hot summers enjoyed the advantages of the resort alongside ill guests seeking cures in the springs’ mineral waters. The spa attracted guests who came believing, as the Indians of the past had, that the waters could cure ailments ranging from kidney trouble to arthritis.

Early promoters saw great potential in the drawing power of the springs. One such promoter envisioned a resort on the 308-acre site surrounding the springs featuring “many splendid games and recreational pursuits, such as golf, tennis, croquet, dog racing and bowling (indoor alleys and outdoor greens.’

As always, the water was the main drawing card promoters hoped to cash in on. In boasting of the curative powers of the “twelve different kinds of mineral waters here,” one writer claimed that “properly handled, the splendid sale of these spring waters can be built up. Eventually, the mineral water was bottled and sold throughout Mississippi and in other states.

And, the visions of early promoters of recreational haven came true. Entertainment facilities ranged from swimming areas to a horse-racing track. Landscaped grounds featured trails leading to covered pavilions located near the springs.

However, some of the promoters more unique proposals probably never did materialize. For instance, one pamphlet said, “This is a wonderful place to raise bull frogs for the table, and for market, There is plenty of room in the hills for fox—raising for their fur.” Although the business of raising bull—frogs may never have gotten off the ground, political speakers did keep the crowds jumping with oratory offered at the resort pavillion and picnic grounds before and after the Civil War.

According to one account, politicians such as Theodore O. Bilbo attracted thousands when they campaigned in Lauderdale Springs. Many of the residents in the area recall political picnics and barbecues held on the grounds.

As its reputation as a pleasure site grew during the slow and leisurely ante-bellum years, Lauderdale Springs’ future seemed boundless. But, the Civil War changed the pleasure center’s role and expanded Lauderdale Springs qualification as one of the most historic sites in the county,” Mr. Dawson pointed out.

During the War Between the States, the resort hotel was enlisted in the cause of the Confederacy first as a hospital and later as an orphanage for the youngest victims of the conflict. Because of the area’s proximity to the rail line, the resort was converted into a hospital serving victims of Civil War battles fought across the state.

The 300-foot long hotel became a hospital usually crowded with sick and wounded soldiers. Located next to the hospital was the dreaded “death house” where soldiers beyond medical help lived out their last moments. Up a hill from the hospital and “death house”, a cemetery was established for the hundreds of victims who died in Lauderdale Springs. The cemetery eventually became the final battleground for more than 1080 Rebel soldiers and more than 100 Union soldiers, Today, the graves are marked “Unknown Confederate Soldier” or “Unknown Union Soldier.” Recently, the Lauderdale County Department of Archives came into possession of a list of soldiers who died in the Lauderdale Springs Hospital,

The Winnie Davis Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy Chapter owns the Lauderdale Springs Cemetery and erected markers in 1932. The group is currently maintaining and improving the historic cemetery.

The abundant supply of mineral waters may have been a factor in converting the resort into a hospital, Mr. Dawson added. The same waters attracted General William T. Sherman to Lauderdale Springs on his destructive march through Meridian in February, 1864. According to records, Sherman’s men were rewarded for their destruction of nearby rail lines with a cool respite at the “magic waters” of Lauderdale Springs.

After the Civil War ended wounded soldiers were no longer brought into the area, However, other victims of the war -- destitute orphans of the Confederacy did find a home by the ever flowing springs.

According to an article written by Mary J. Welch in a publication of the Mississippi Historical Society, an orphanage that ‘differed in many ways from every other home of the kind in Mississippi either before or since the war, was established at Lauderdale Springs in the former resort hospital building. Miss Welsh, a one-time employee of the orphanage, wrote in her history that the home was initiated by the Mississippi State Baptist Association in 1865. A Rev. T.C. Teasdale was appointed to raise funds for the children left destitute and fatherless by the war. Soon, The Confederate Orphans’ Home of Mississippi” opened and children came and continued to come in such large numbers and, in a majority of cases, in such a forlorn plight as to prove beyond question the crying need for such an institution.

Following is a letter written to Mary Arthur Skinner and possibly a friend by William Jasper Skinner not long before he died in the Civil War. It was found in the family bible of Lake Skinner. Thanks to Amanda Kidd, granddaughter of Lake Skinner for the letter. Comments by Amanda Kidd:

" -- It's all on one piece of paper... but it seems to have been written by both of them-- to two different people... Perhaps they wrote the letters over a period of several days and sent it in that manner so that it could reach several people "at home" simultaneously." SEE NOTE

"Please forgive the blank spaces where wording has been omitted... It's all still fairly legible, but it's in such fragile condition that the words are difficult to see in a few places...

I'm typing it just the way that it's written-- Divided by page by page... Several words are mis-spelled, but I've left them alone so that you can get a better idea of the letter in general. Many of the words seem to have been written according to the way they're pronounced here in the South... and especially the way that they were spoken when the letter was written...

Also, most of our ancestors during that time were people with hearts of gold, but very little formal education... which accounts for the mis-spelled words..."

NOTE: I think that the letters were all written by William Jasper Skinner to Mary, his wife and Ira Jackson, father of Samuel L. Jackson, possibly to be delivered to Ira or either given to the Skinner family by the Jackson family after William Jasper's death. I have noticed in other letters written during and for several years after the Civil War the writer when signing the letters includes the person's name that it is addressed to.

RESOLUTIONS IN MEMORY OF W.M. SKINNER

From Bowdon Lodge No. 206 F. & A.M.

We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions on the death of our beloved friend and now deceased brother, W.M. Skinner, offer the following:

Whereas, the grim reaper with his scythe has visited and for some time lingered around the home of our beloved brother, W.M. Skinner, and began striking at the brittle thread of life, and finally the thread was severed, while the angel of death had moored his lifeboat at the edge of the still waters and creeping up the bank beckoned and Brother Skinner followed, and the angel placed him in the boat and with muffled oars, strong and steady arms, rowed him gently, safely to the other side; and whereas in the death of Brother Skinner, this Lodge and the church at Macedonia and his family have sustained a great loss; be it therefore:

Resolved 1st: that we extend our deep love and sympathy to the family of our deceased brother.

2nd: that we commend the life and character of this dear brother to the young men of this community, that they be inspired to lead noble and better lives.

3rd: That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Lodge and that a copy be furnished the bereaved family and that same be published in our county papers. This the 26th day of Dec. 1922.

Generation No. 2

2. Rev. John W. Couch, born July 08, 1815 in North Carolina; died 1881 in Cleburne County Alabama. He was the son of 4. Rev. John W. Couch, Sr.. He married 3. Nancy Manly September 24, 1843 in Coweta County Georgia.

3. Nancy Manly, born March 21, 1818 in Georgia; died December 24, 1889 in Cleburne County Alabama.

Notes for Rev. John W. Couch:

The second pastor of Macedonia Baptist Church was Rev. John Couch who moved into the community from Coweta County, Georgia, in 1849. It is thought to be a truth that he made and gave to the church the small table that is now in the building, and which was long used by the many different clerks as a writing desk for recording the moves of the church in conference, and as a Communion Table when the church observes the Lord's Supper. It is also the only piece of furniture that is yet used whose origin points back to the beginning of the church.

Above from a booklet published about Macedonia Baptist Church. The date of 1849 does not correspond with the 1850 Coweta County Census below.

Nancy Manly Couch is buried at Macedonia Baptist Church in Cleburne County, Alabama. On her tombstone it states that she was the wife of Reverend John M. Couch, second pastor of Macedonia Baptist Church C. 1865.

No tombstone of John was found.

From an article in the book "Heritage of Cleburne County, Alabama", written by a descendent of John Couch and Nancy Manly (reported to be the parents of Sarah Ann Couch who married William Marcus Skinner), says that after John Couch's father's death (does not name the father) he and his mother MARY (no last name given) moved to Coweta County, GA where most of the Couch family had already migrated. The writer goes on to say that she has in her possession a small bible belonging to Rev. John Couch (the one who married Nancy Manly). It is written by Betty W. Hendrix 36 Lakeshore Drive, Temple, Georgia phone 770-562-1863.

In another article in the Cleburne Heritage book about the Cantrell and Couch families. That article says that James Couch was born in 1767 in either North or South Carolina, and married Mary Henderson (b. 1770 in NC). It says they had six children: Matthew, Berry, Priscilla, Respha, Mary Ann and John Couch. It says that John Couch was born July 8, 1815 in South Carolina and that he married Nancy Manly (obviously the same John Couch from the first unrelated article). This article does mention Sarah Ann Couch and William Skinner and their children.

The article was written by Martha Cantrell Walker 2780 Co. Rd 48, Ranburne, Alabama (no phone number of zip code given). Doesn't say what sources were used for the info.

NEWSPAPER issue of Thursday, April 5, 1928

TWO LOVEABLE SISTERS OF MACEDONIA SECTION; "Aunt Ellen" Mrs. M.E. Cantrell and "Aunt Sack" Mrs. Sarah Ann Skinner (photos of both women shown)

To Editor of The Cleburne News, by D.H. Smith

Please allow me space in your newspaper for a few lines regarding some of our pioneers who are still here with us. There are two sisters in Macedonia community, just east of the Frank Cook old mill on Lost Creek, whose father, the Rev. John Couch, moved to this county in 1850 from Coweta County, Georgia. He raised a large family, all of whom, except the two referred to here, have passed to their reward. These two reared large families.

Mrs. Cantrell, the oldest of the two is 81. Her husband was Mericus Cantrell. Her friends speak of her as "Aunt Ellen". Mrs. Sarah Ann is three years younger and is affectionately known as "Aunt Sack". Her husband was the late W.M. Skinner, "Uncle Bill", and was widely known for his great progressiveness. He has answered the call, leaving the sisters widows, and are living in "hollowing" distance of where their father settled on adjoining farms to each other, only a creek separating them.

"Aunt Sack" has a wonderful record. Having reared a large family of her own, she ministered to grandchildren, besides rendering great service in bringing up great grandchildren.

As we visit their homes that they have cared for and watched over so long, one can see the results of life's toil, showing that they have had busy lives. And as we look into their aged faces, we realize that their lives have not been one strewn with roses along the journey; and we know that the advantages of today are far different to what they experienced. At that time this section was "in the woods" and but few settlers, and those far apart.

However they made a success and a kind providence smiled on their labors.

There are other pioneers who are worthy of mention, but having known these two sisters since my childhood, I naturally turn in their direction.

"Aunt Ellen's" health is declining and is confined to her bed a great deal of the time, and it is believed that through the faithfulness of her physician, Dr. W.P. Smith, that her life has been prolonged, she having underwent 52 operations, which have to be repeated every four days.

"Aunt Ellen" has in her possession a small terrapin that her husband captured in 1871 and is almost like one of the family. The figures "1871" carved there when captured, are plainly visible. It was frequently seen about the plantation and no one dared to harm the little animal, in fact, it was kind of a privileged character around the Cantrell home, and if you will look you will notice that "Aunt Ellen" had its picture made along with her own.

This terrapin has been spoken of and written about at various times and by several newspapers, among them the Carroll County Times, The Atlanta Journal and others. And who knows but what this was the tortoise spoken of that won the race with the hare? Yes, who knows? He has a most wonderful record of any terrapin that the writer knows of.

Now back to "Aunt Ellen", the dear old soul. As I visit her in her home during afflictions she always greets me with a smile and never a word of complaint, taking all with patience. The two mentioned above are devout members of the Missionary Baptist church at Macedonia, "Aunt Ellen's" membership dating back to '67 and "Aunt Sack" 55 years, church memberships of which we all look upon with pride and thankfulness.

"Aunt Sack's" health is somewhat declining, but not so much as one might expect of a person of her advanced age of 78 years, December 25th last, and the day being pretty, the two met at the creek, between their homes where the county had just completed the first bridge at this place, their one desire being to see a bridge upon the span of the stream at this point during their time, recalling their happy childhood days at the ages of ten and seven, "Aunt Ellen" had led "Aunt Sack" across the creek at this point. So on last Christmas Day, "Aunt Ellen" again led her "little sister" safely over the creek, but this time across a bridge, the first to be built there.

We are made to rejoice that the lives of many of our pioneers are yet spared, for their stay among us is beloved valuation with whom they are associated; but their ranks are fast diminishing and to the two sisters, the subject of this sketch, we pray God's richest blessings.

Macedonia Sunday School was organized about 1915 and led to a victory by Bro. R. L. Skinner. Previous organizations had taken place but were short lived. Much lasting good has been accomplished by the church through the Sunday School. Bro. Skinner served three years and then undertook the organizing of Sunday Schools in other churches. After he became an ordained minister on February 22, 1922, he was elected Moderator of the Baptist Association and served several years.

OBITUARY OF NELSON O. MESSER

Nelson O. Messer, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.S. Messer, was born June 27, 1902; was married to Miss Minnie Myers July 7, 1921. On the evening of Feb. 8, 1922, while working in a coal mine near Birmingham, from an explosion of a can of powder, he was badly burned, resulting in his death that night about 11 o'clock. Bro. Messer attached himself to the Baptist Church in August 1912, during the pastorship of Bro. C.R. Clarter at Howle's Grove. I am glad to say that he was loyal to and loved the church. His walk in walk, his great faith in god has been and will be of great inspiration to those who knew him. I can only say to the bereaved family "weep not as tho we had no hope, for as we cannot bring him back, we can go to him through our lord." I feel that he was one that could say "I heard a voice from heaven saying

"blessed are the dead which die in the lord from henceforth they may rest from their labors and their works do follow them." R.L. Skinner
