INTRODUCTION -- JOHN HARRISON JACKSON, SR.

I suppose I inherited a desire to make scrap books from my mother, because we had them by the dozens. If you want to know anything that was printed in local papers from Lawrenceburg, Guilford, Bright, Indiana or Harrison, Ohio -- I might have it. Nell (Jackson) Ruth, had old scrap books her mother and grandmother Jackson had left her, much older than anything I had. I have 5 large scrap books of the 1800's.

My greatest incentive to make a Jackson History or Genealogy came after Dad and Mother were both gone and I found so many notes and records they had put down for our benefit and I wanted them to go on to others, who might be interested in knowing the Jackson History. Also, many of the writings Mother did and my other helps came from the local papers, from which I cut articles and obituaries through the years and built up the families the best I could. Other helps were from Dearborn County history books of 1885 - 1905 and 1915; county atlases. genealogy books of the Hargitts, Haddocks, Hayes, Smith, Ewbank and Nowlin. Also local Jackson families, Bess Hurley, Bertha and Clara (Jackson), Nell (Jackson) Ruth, and others. If there are mistakes, I am sorry. I went to the Courthouse and went through a lot of big books; I learned some things but couldn't find many names and dates I wanted to be sure of. I am making these papers so you can take out and add to as you please. I just hope there will be something here you will want.

(Also, leaving space or lines so you can fill in your family names and dates, that I do not know). Also paste in your obituaries.

Hoping these papers will have something you like.

THE NAME AND FAMILY OF JACKSON

Much of the name of Jackson centers around Yorkshire, England, yet there is a tradition, this branch of the family was of Scotch-Irish ancestors.

Those Americans who bear old and honored names, who trace their historical surnames back to sturdy immigrants may be rightfully proud of their heritage. While its origin may seem humble, surprising, or matter of fact, its significance today lies not in a literal interpretation of its original meaning, but in the many things that have happened to it since it first came into use and symbol, not of one man but of a family and all that family stood for.

The name Jackson is said to have been derived from the baptismal name "John" through its nickname "Jack". There is probably no surname more numerably given to man than Jackson, as we have traveled over 43 states, through many cities, we don't suppose there were many days we did not read the name "Jackson" as the name of a street, business place or memorial.

Written by Mother, Nora Elizabeth Bonham Jackson (1881-1963)

Dad, Floyd Stanley Jackson (1818-1958), wrote to the Media Research Bureau of Washington, D.C. around 1930 or before, asking for information on the Jackson family. Here is what he got: According to Grandpa, John Harrison Jackson (1854-1929) and his father, Reuben Christophy Jackson (1810-1887), said they were of the same Jackson Family as "Stonewall Jackson". If this is so, here is their record:

In 1748 one John Jackson came from Ireland to West Virginia; whence he later removed to Maryland. By his wife, Elizabeth Cummins, he was the father of 1. George 2. Edward 3. John 4. Samuel 5. Henry 6. Elizabeth 7. Mary 8. Sophia. It was from this line that General Thomas J. (Stonewall) Jackson was descended.

2. Edward Jackson was the grandfather of Thomas (Stonewall) Jackson. The father, John Jackson was b. 1719 d. September 25, 1804. Thomas (Stonewall) Jackson also had a sister by the name of Elizabeth.

THE JACKSON FAMILY

The JACKSON Family. The first of this JACKSON family to come to America was John JACKSON, who was from the north of Ireland. Upon his arrival in America in 1748, he secured employment on the plantation of Lord BALTIMORE, in Calvert County, Maryland, where he met and married Elizabeth CUMMINS, a native of London, England, and a woman of intelligence and great force of character. After a time, John JACKSON moved to Hardy County, thence to Randolph, now Upshur County [West Virginia], where the town of Buckhannon now stands. Eight children were born to them. Five sons, George, Edward, Henry, Samuel and John, and three daughters. Edward JACKSON married Mary, daughter (sic) of David HADDAN, who resided in the vicinity of Elkwater; Edward Mary HADDAN JACKSON, George, David and Johnathan.

George JACKSON moved to Clarksburg [Harrison Co., West Virginia] and his parents made their home with him until their death. The father died in 1801, in the eighty-fifth year of his age. The mother died in 1825 at the very unusual age of 105 years.

Johnathan, son of Edward and Mary (HADDEN) (sic) JACKSON, was an attorney of Clarksburg and married Julia NEAL, of Parkersburg. Two sons and two daughters blessed this union, Warren and Thomas Johnathan and Elizabeth and Laura Ann.

Warren and Elizabeth died in early life. Laura Ann became the wife of Johnathan ARNOLD, of Beverly.

Edward and John JACKSON were members of the first County Court of Randolph County [West Virginia], and with their associate justices of the peace organized the county in 1787. Edward JACKSON was the first surveyor of Randolph County; was assessor in 1791, and sheriff in 1792. He was captain of the militia in 1787. Henry JACKSON was surveyor in 1793. John JACKSON was lieutenant of the militia in 1787. Edward JACKSON moved to the West Fork about five miles below the present town of Weston [Lewis Co.] in about 1800. He died in 1827.

BATTLE HYMN OF THE JACKSONS

(Tune: Battle Hymn of the Republic)

There's something strong and mighty in a good old family name;
The name of Jackson shineth high upon the scroll of fame;
For nearly all the Jacksons, have pursued a lofty aim.
The clan goes marching on!

CHORUS: Glory to the name of Jackson!
Glory to the tribe of Jackson!
Hurrah, hurrah, for all the Jacksons!
The clan goes marching on.

Henry, Adam, John and "Nick" were fathers of our clan.
Stonewall, John, and William were heroes who never ran.
"Old Hickory", the President, was a brave and famous man.
The clan goes marching on!

The Jackson blood is mingled with the royal bloods of old.
Each century our numbers have increased a hundred fold.
Among the world's great families our family is pure gold.
The clan goes marching on!

The House of Jackson cherishes traditions of the past,
With the world's great movements they have all their fortunes cast;
And when they pledge their honor they are loyal to the last.
The clan goes marching on!

The Jacksons fought at Flodden, Fredericksburg and Waterloo;
In every righteous cause our kinsmen fought as heroes do;
They died in seventeen seventy-six, and nineteen eighteen too.
The clan goes marching on!

We have our dukes and peasants, common folk and blue bloods too;
We greet each other with a smile and "Cousin, howdy-do!"
This goes with all the Jacksons and it goes with me and you.
The clan goes marching on!

To every corner of our land we sound the bugle call;
Four hundred thousand cousins hear and answer one and all;
The echo of their footstep's like Niagara's waterfall.
The clan goes marching on!

We must prove worthy of our place on Jackson Family Tree;
Let Jackson standards with the highest in the world agree.
We owe a duty to the generations yet to be.
The clan goes marching on!

ORIGINAL PLAT FOR GEORGETOWN

Located on the South and East Quarters of Section 22, Town 6 North Range 1 West; in the District land office, for sale at Cincinnati, Ohio.

This plat for Georgetown, was first given by the descendants of John Jackson, recorded June 1818. These first records were lost or damaged in the Court House fire on 5th March 1826 and also a flood at that time.

At the Dearborn County Indiana Court House in the Recorder's Office, Book BB No. 882, I find where this record was redone as follows: Ezekiel Jackson, agrees to vacate to the town of Georgetown, the lots 1 thru 88 also Front Street, Walnut Street, East Street, Graham Street, Water Street and West Street, together with all alleys in the said town, leaving however, a sufficient space of ground, that all other persons owning lots in said town shall have free access thereto.

Ezekiel Jackson
June 10, 1821

That the said petition was acted upon at the August session 1821, as this deponent verily believes and the aforesaid lots of ground and the streets and alleys were vacated by the said commissioners, there being no objection thereto to the best of the deponents knowledge and recollection reserving free ingress and egress to all proprietors on invacated lots in said town, this deponent has no hesitation in saying that such part of Georgetown as is embraced in the advertisement of which the foregoing is a copy was then vacated by the Board of County Commissioners of Dearborn County according to law, the record of which vacation was consumed by fire on the night of March 5, 1826.

James Dill
May 3, 1830

Another record of this fire found in the Dearborn and Ohio County History of 1885, page 249 says:

“March 13th 1826, the Court House at Lawrenceburg was burned and all the records destroyed - it was during a flash flood of that year, the water was up around the building at that time. After the fire, it was so cold that the next morning there was frozen ice around the building.”

OLDEST HOUSE IN THE COUNTY WORTH GOING TO SEE

Written about 1925

Archibald Shaw, the President of the Dearborn County Historical Society, has recently written an account of the oldest house in the county. It is yet standing, says Mr. Shaw, in good condition, on the Georgetown Ridge in Miller Township. It is credited with being built in 1807, and by some it is claimed to be of an earlier date.

The Jackson family came into the county about 1798, and it is claimed, located at this place and it is very probable that the house was erected when the family first came. It is claimed that it was originally built for a stockade, and that a portion of the house, as it now stands, shows the portholes in the second story that commanded a view of the walls all around, making it impossible for the enemy to approach.

Nearby is a brick house, now the property of Henry Miller, which it is claimed is the oldest brick house in the county and that it was built in 1815.

The Jackson house has been the property of the Whipple (Jackson) family for several generations and the widow of Ferris Hibben Whipple(4), son of Nancy Jackson Wooters Whipple (3), daughter of Ezekiel Jackson (2), son of John H. Jackson, Sr. (1), recently deceased, resides there with her family.

The neighborhood is a historic one. During the War of 1812, the settlers erected a block house there and at one time, the place was plotted for a town site. It is claimed that a post office was located in the old brick house 1815-1826 when John U. Jackson (1798-1826) carried the mail from Cincinnati to Indianapolis past this place; the carrier stopping there en-route to the latter place for his dinner.

It was also the place where the men met on muster days, and the location, has in those early days been the seat of much merriment and old fashioned sport. Nearby is an old time graveyard that was laid out at an early date; Authorities differ as to when it was first used for a burying ground, but among the earliest headstones are some dating back to 1814. It is very possible that some of the graves were made at a much earlier date.

HISTORY OF DEARBORN COUNTY, INDIANA

PP 685: Before any survey was commenced in 1798, the plan had been followed of making grants of land tracts to persons or companies who might procure settlement and resell the land. No land was sold by the government until 1801 and it was not until 1802 when the line between Ohio and the territory of Indiana was finally determined and Ohio was admitted as a state. No purchase of land was permitted in a tract of less than one full section of six hundred and forty acres.

These early "Jacksons" had large families - ten to fourteen children.

John Dawson, born 1774 and died in 1848 was married to Susan Jackson in Kentucky in April 1799 and moved in the same year to the Tanners Creek neighborhood. In 1796, John Dawson settled here with a friend, John White, who built the log cabin in this settlement in which he died in 1852 in the 90th year of his life. This cabin was the third built in the Tanner's Creek neighborhood.

John and Susan Jackson Dawson came to this locality from Kentucky and brought all their household effects on horse back. He is said to be the first man to settle on Tanner's Creek and at one time owned 2,000 acres of land in that vicinity. He once saved the life of his wife and himself because he spoke the Indiana language. He once shot a large panther and killed a large elk on Darling Ridge. At another time he carried upon his shoulder while riding a horse back from Cincinnati to his cabin, a large iron kettle.

John Jackson, Sr., the father of Susan Jackson Dawson, settled with his family on Georgetown Ridge, where he built back in the hills, shut off as it were from the civilized world without a mill, road, a bridge or anything beyond their own immediate resources. They erected their log cabins. In 1807, or earlier, they built (and it was standing until it was torn down in 1930 or later) the oldest house in Dearborn County. It was originally built for a "stockade" and a portion of the house shows the port-holes in the second story. The old historic house was in the family of Luman Whipple, who married two of the Jackson girls. Their son, Ferris Whipple and family lived in the old house their entire life. The barn which was built in 1820 still stands.

From the year 1798 until 1925, when Mr. & Mrs. Walter Doan bought the farm from the Ferris (Hibben) Whipple family, the place had remained in possession of the Jackson heirs for 117 years.

The first brick house in Dearborn County on Georgetown Ridge was built about the year 1815. The bricks were made on the land on which the house was built. It stands today as a monument to the skill and ability of this father and son. It has stood for over 145 years. Howard and Marilyn Diddle are living in this old Jackson home as of 1960.

The neighborhood is a historic one. During the war of 1812, the settlers erected a block house there and at one time the place was platted for a town site. A post office was located in the brick house and around 1820, the mail was carried from Cincinnati to Indianapolis past this place, the carrier stopping there for his dinner. It was also the place where the men met on muster days. The location has in early days been the seat of much merriment and old fashioned sport.

Nearby is an old time graveyard that was laid out at an early date. Among the earliest head stones are some dating back to 1820. It is very possible that some graves were made at much earlier dates as some are only rough sand stone.

The burying place was set aside by John Jackson who was born 1746 and was drowned in crossing Tanner's Creek in 1814. He is buried there.

Much of this was copied from history written by Archibald Shaw in 1924. Mr. Jackson also left ground for a church which like the town, was never built.

Around the block house, 16 acres were enclosed by heavy hedge fence and at one time during a riot, there were 16 families gathered here. There were originally 2 big log rooms built, later more newer and better rooms built on until it was a six room house; but the center rooms, where the logs were heaved and squared and corners notched to fit neatly and securely and no nails, only wooden pins were used, still remains in 1926.

After this historical house had been in the Jackson family for 127 years, the fifth generation of the Luman and Nancy securely and no nails, only wooden pins were used, still remains in 1926.

After this historical house had been in the Jackson family for 127 years, the fifth generation of the Luman and Nancy

Jackson Whipple's great-great grandchildren sold the farm to Mr. & Mrs. Walter Doan in the year 1925 and they built a lovely two story house a little further back in 1928.

So many people drove back to see the old historical house. The Doans were fearful of fire from careless smokers. They decided to tear it down. The old port-holes were still there and the big chimney was 7 feet through. The Spring where the water was drawn by a long pole with bucket on one end and a rope on the longer end, the old fashioned way, to draw water is not there but the spring is there with the cool refreshing water.

A PLACE TO GROW AND BUILD

Valley Hill Farm on Salt Fork Creek in Dearborn County, IN has been the home of one of the Jackson Families since 1798 when John Harrison Jackson, Sr. (1745/46-1814) staked his claim to the lush rolling countryside as early as 1792. Here in the small valley was a salt lick that attracted buffalo, deer, elk and many smaller kind of game. The quiet stream that rippled through was a constant source of clear water. The land showed promise of fertility. It was a place where a man could settle and grow and build.

Jackson was not alone when he found the lush valley with the salt supply and the abundance of wild life. John H. Jackson, Jr. (1776-1848), then less than twenty years old, marked the place well in his mind as a place the Jacksons could call home. But in 1792, Indiana Territory had few white settlers and there were no settlers near the "Salt Fork" creek area. For protection from the Indians and for the sake of the family, Jackson Sr. and his family, moved on down the Ohio River to Nelson County, KY. Here the family prospered and planned for the day when they would all return to the beautiful valley.

The call to return to the Salt Fork area came to the Jacksons in 1796 or 98 and John Jackson, Sr. and his family, including his two son-in-laws, John (1774-1848) and Charles Dawson (?-?), recently from Georgetown, KY., came back into IN and settled on what they called Georgetown Ridge - a hill just east of the Salt Fork Creek. The family bought a full section, 640 acres, paying $1.25 per acre which was later measured off in parts of Sections 21 and 22 of Miller Twp., Dearborn Co., IN.

Here on the hill west of Salt Fork Creek and in view of their first settlement, John Jackson, Jr. built the first log house on the present location, a story and a half house of black walnut logs.

Reuben Christophy Jackson (1810-1887), fifth son of John Jackson, Jr., chose to improve this house and built a two-story frame house about eight feet north of the original log house, which had a second room added to it. These two houses were connected by a roof between them.

John Harrison Jackson (1854-1929), fifth son of Reuben C. Jackson, improved the two houses and enclosed the walkway and made a hall between them. On and on the story goes of a family building, adding new conveniences, and all the time making the Jackson house a more comfortable house for southeastern Indiana's Jackson family.

The next noticeable change in the outward appearance of the house came when Floyd S. Jackson (1881-1958), second son of John H. Jackson, decided to make it his permanent home, and his first big improvement was to make the story and a half log section and the two-story frame house have the same roof line.

Since the early 1900's, the front appearance of the house has remained much the same. But more room was added to the back making it a ten-room spacious country farm home. But with all the changes, the original log walls remain as the heart of the home. For more than 150 years, virgin timber logs have housed this Jackson family.

Almost all the historical writings of the Jackson farm were done by Nora Elizabeth Bonham Jackson (1881-1963), wife of Floyd S. Jackson. Volumes of historical accounts, complete with drawings of buildings on the farm are available. Other items of interest, in the family history, are personal accounts of bartering and trading during the pioneer times.

Today, Mrs. Ruby Jackson Hart (b. 1914) is mistress of the home place with her husband, Keith (b. 1913), and their two daughters, Kay (b. 1942) and Carolee (b. 1945). She maintains the Jackson traditions.

The Jackson home is filled with the collected heirlooms of 150 years. On every hand is an antique, but these are more than antiques - these are reminders of a grandfather, a great aunt, a distant cousin and a great great grandfather clock of the Jackson heritage; still running and still in this Jackson family. Each item has a very close personal history. That old iron kettle flower pot in the front yard? that's not just any old iron kettle. That is the one great great grandfather, John Jackson, carried on his shoulders all the way from Cincinnati.

One item still in use on the farm, as old as the log house itself, is the open well. Although the Harts have an electric pump and a large water pond, they still have the windless and the bucket in the well and they use it. The well pit is now screened in.

Still another building of interest on the Jackson land is a large community-sized milk house in the valley. A stone structure, the house was used as a ice house and food cooler for the community. Later, it was used as a local cream station. Still later, it was used as a harness shop by Phillip Emmert Jackson (b. 1877), who was born and raised in the house nearby and later owned the Jackson Hardware Company in Lawrenceburg. This home on the creek, Enoch M. Jackson's (1781-1868) home, is as old or older than the John Jackson home on the hill which this article is written about.

Salt Fork school was a "Jackson" institution in the beginning, a little log community house where they had school through the week and on Sunday, the circuit riders brought news of the outside world and preached the gospel in the school room.

This log building was replaced by a nice frame school house in 1840 or earlier. Then owned and operated by Miller Township until 1920-21 when large brick schools were built combining several townships and using buses to haul the children.

The present generation attends the Bright Methodist Church. Down through the years this place has been called Saltilla, Bunkum, and now known as Bright Methodist Episcopal Church. As the Jackson family put it, "The Church name has changed but the Jackson name has been on the Church roll for generations."

Thus it has been for generations in Dearborn Co. on the Valley Hill Farm. Mrs. Hart looks hopefully forward into the future when generations of "Jacksons" will keep the land in the family. "Wouldn't it be great," she says, "if our grandson Jimmy would keep the land; it would then be in the family for more than 200 years."

The Jackson family has seen changes over the years. They have seen a dynamic and prosperous state grow out of the virgin wilderness.

Over the years, they have built and grown with the Hoosier State. They are a living part of the great Hoosier heritage that is being celebrated this Sesquicentennial year, 1966.

HISTORY OF DEARBORN CO., INDIANA

AS PRESENTED IN THE YEAR 2001

Dearborn County, located along the Ohio River in Southeastern Indiana, is the third oldest county of the Indiana Territory and thus contains some of Indiana's earliest and most significant architecture. The county's northern boundary is Franklin County, and the eastern is Hamilton County, Ohio. The Ohio River and Laughery Creek form the southern boundary, and the western boundary is Ripley County--the county line being the Greenville Treaty line arranged by General Anthony Wayne in 1795.

Geographically, Dearborn County is a mixture of flatlands in the northwest and rolling hills divided by several creeks forming long valleys throughout the county. The principle waterways are the Whitewater River in the northwest corner of the county, the east and west forks of Tanners Creek, North and South Hogan Creeks, and Laughery Creek.

Dearborn County was organized in 1803 by Governor William Henry Harrison, who named it after General Henry Dearborn, at that time the Secretary of War under President Thomas Jefferson. All or part of six other counties were carved from the original Dearborn County with the present boundaries being established in 1845. Official organization of most of the fourteen townships of Dearborn County occurred in the 1830's and 1840's. The last township, Washington, was organized in 1852.

The town of Lawrenceburg was established as the county seat in 1803, a year after its original plat was laid out by Samuel Vance, James Hamilton, and Benjamin Chambers. In 1810 a two-story frame courthouse was built. Destroyed by fire in 1826, it was replaced by a new building which served until 1836 when the county seat was moved to the town of Wilmington where a new brick courthouse was erected. Wilmington remained the county seat for only eight years with Lawrenceburg permanently retaining its position in 1844. The present County Courthouse was built in 1870.

Settlers began entering Washington, Center, and Lawrenceburg Townships in the late 1790's. Most of them moved down the Ohio River from homes in the eastern United States. There were numerous land entries through the Federal Land Office in Cincinnati beginning in 1801, occurring primarily in the lower creek valleys and along the Ohio River bottomland.

In 1820 the Manchester Pike was established as part of Indiana's Internal Improvements Program, and in 1823 a road was constructed from Madison through Vevay, Rising Sun, and Aurora, to Lawrenceburg. From 1836 to 1843 the Whitewater Canal was built through Dearborn County. River and canal trade dominated the county's commerce until the construction of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad in the 1850's.

From the 1820's to the 1870's there was a steady immigration of European settlers into Dearborn County. German Catholics and Lutherans settled in the St. Leon and New Alsace areas of Kelso Township as well as in portions of Jackson and Caesar Creek Townships. English immigrants settled in Caesar Creek, York, Harrison, Logan, and Lawrenceburg Townships, and Irish immigrants moved to Sparta, Clay, Washington, and Manchester Townships. Many of them came from such eastern states as Maine, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware. The mixture of European settlers provided an interesting source of town names such as Wilmington, Yorkville, Guilford, and New Alsace. Examples of early immigrant commercial efforts remaining in the county include the Zix Brewery near New Alsace, Miller's Mills in Sparta Township on South Hogan Creek, and the Hayes Branch Saw and Grist Mill located in Clay Township.

The population of Dearborn County grew from 4,424 in 1815 to 23,000 by 1890. Early in its history the county had a strong agricultural base; in 1910 there were more than 2,200 farms with an average of 83 acres each. Many industries were built throughout the nineteenth century including distilleries, furniture, glass, pump, and coffin companies, as well as a boat building company.

The Civil War affected Dearborn County in the 1860's when John Morgan Hunt's soldiers marched through Manchester, Jackson, Kelso, Logan, and Harrison Townships, destroying several railroad bridges. The period following the War was one of great stability and manufacturing expanded with new plants being built, including the distilleries now owned by Joseph E. Seagram and Sons and Schenley, the Aurora Casket Company founded in 1890, the A.D. Cook Pump Company, founded in 1870, and the Cochran Chair Company founded in 1879. Both Aurora and Lawrenceburg were

Joseph E. Seagram and Sons and Schenley, the Aurora Casket Company founded in 1890, the A.D. Cook Pump Company, founded in 1870, and the Cochran Chair Company founded in 1879. Both Aurora and Lawrenceburg were devastated by severe floods in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. One of the most severe occurred in 1937, after which massive lock and dam construction was undertaken. Lawrenceburg reacted by building a high earthen levee surrounding the town.

Dearborn County today retains a diverse mixture of agriculture and industrial enterprises. Its architecture is equally diverse with styles ranging from the Federal and Greek Revival of the early decades of the Nineteenth Century to the Queen Anne and Bungalow of the early Twentieth. Many structures are architecturally and historically significant to Dearborn County and the State of Indiana, and while some are being saved and restored, many still provide great potential for preservation and reuse.
