He married MARY ANN PARKER March 18, 1859 in Talledega, Alabama, daughter of GEORGE PARKER. She was born 1838 in Virginia, and died September 04, 1920 in Jonesboro, Alabama.

Notes for ISAAC VEITCH:

Isaac Veitch was born in Lincoln County, North Carolina. In the fall of 1863, Isaac decided to join the newly formed 1st. Tennessee/Alabama Independant Vi dette Cavalry. This unit was only together for about a year, then was disbanded where all able bodied men were signed up for the regular army.

This unit was formed to take advantage of the Union sentiment in the hills of Northeast Alabama and Northwest Georgia and the adjacent areas of Tennessee. Joining was attractive because the young guys didn't want to be conscripted by the poorly equipped Confederate army and sent to distant places.

The cavalry gave them the opportunity to stay around home.

When Isaac joined, he was 28 years old, stood 5' 6" tall, and his hair and eyes were dark.

His occupation was a molder. He was a private in Company H. On March 15, 1864, he deserted, but shows back on roll June 16, 1864 where he served the rest of the war.

His brothers John Thomas, Ellis Monroe, George E., and William F. joined the South.

They served with Cpt. Joseph Seldon's company, attached to Gid Nelson's Light Artillery. William F.

was captured 9/19/1864, at Tinson Parish, Alabama. He was imprisoned in New York and was released

May 15, 1865.

All ended up in Alabama. Isaac is buried in Oxmoor, Alabama. After his death, Washington passed a pension bill for those who served in the Civil War. Mary, Isaac's wife filed for a pension. She was turned down. Washington D.C. said the desertion charges were still on his record. She hired a Lawyer and fought it for some twenty years. His name would have been clear if she could come up with his discharge papers. His discharge papers had been lost in a hurricane at a friend's house in North Carolina. His name was never cleared.

This is me. I work at the Fairfield Fire Department. I've been there for twenty-eight years now (2003). Currently I am a Fire Captain. I came up from the bottom as firefighter. In 1993, I was promoted to Apparatus Operator, in 1994, I became a Lieutenant. In 1999, I was promoted to Fire Captain. I also teach CPR classes for the American Red Cross. The family name will have to go on through my nephew, Steven. My brother's son.

The origin of the name seems to come from Uache or la Vache, and no connections has been proved between the Scottish Veitches and other families of similar name in other countries (such as the English family de la Vache). The earliest examples were people who signed as witnesses to various documents in the mediaeval times. It is unlikely that they had written their own names- more likely signed with an X or a seal ring. In those days, literacy was not common. (Henry 1 of England was famous for the fact that he was able to write his name- not very usual at that time). Documents of that period were generally written in Latin, and the names were latinised, so it is not easy to tell what names they actually used from the names on these documents. In particular, U and V were interchangeable, and W was non-existent. In those days, surnames as such had not really been invented, and people were known by personal nicknames, which usually derived from their occupation, birthplace, appearance or some particular event in their life. Therefore, many surnames developed independently in different places - especially the occupation names. You do not expect 2 people named Smith to be descended from a common ancestor named Smith, so why should 2 Veitches from different countries be related?

There are many possibilities as to the original meaning of the word. Various Scottish dictionaries give:

Vaick - to attend to

Vake - to watch

Vetcher - a man of suspicious appearance

Vitcher - a visitor

Wheech - to swipe or snatch

Wicht - brave, valiant, strong

It is unlikely to derive from Vache (cow), since the name goes back before the Normans. If a Vaiche was an occupation meaning cow herd, (as somebody suggested earlier), it probably derives from Vaick or Vake (meaning watch) rather than from Vache (meaning cow). "The Surnames of Scotland <http://www.clanmcalister.org/glossary.html> " gives early examples: Wulstan Ucca in 960, Radulphus Uacca in 1150 and Alexander la Uache in the early 1200's - who may also be Sir Alexander de Vacca of the mid 1200's (or possibly that was his son).

William de Vache 1316 and William Veitch 1331 may have been the same as the above, or anyway members of the same family.

Barnabe la Vache was an armour - bearer to Archibald, Earl of Douglas, who died in 1424. The Veitches obtained Dawick in the 15th. Century, and William the Wache of Dawic was a bit of a troublemaker in the late 1400's. Also known as William Vache and William the Vaich. John Vache of Dalkeith was summoned before the Privy Council in 1566. Dandie Vauche was a tenant in Kelso in 1567. James Waitche, son of Alexander Waitches of Hamilton, inherited some land from Andrew Waitche in 1628. Johannes Weatche was a burgess of Edinburgh in 1645. Consistent spelling on the Parish Register was due to the parish clerk, as people did not get to fill in their own entries, even if they were able to write. The Levach/Levack family may also be related to the Le Vache family. This family flourished in Caitness and Aberdeenshire, and spread from there. Their name changed to Levy as they travelled South.

If the name did come from a french word meaning cow, the name could have come from the Norman invasion into the Britton area. There is no way to tie this name into any origin.
