

Descendants of Theodore Pichler I

Generation No. 1

1. THEODORE¹ PICHLER I was born 1839 in Vienna, Austria, and died 1905 in Vienna, Austria. He married MARIA KIESEWETTER. She was born 1822 in Vienna, Austria, and died 1915 in Vienna, Austria.

Notes for THEODORE PICHLER I:

According to a Pichler family legend, the father of Theodore, owned a salt mine in the village of Pichl (near Wolfgang) at the time of Franz Joseph. During the political unrest of this period, this ancestor is said to have been on the losing side and had his salt mine confiscated. Before the Government could take it, however, he flooded it with water, ruining the mine. Those old salt mines are tourist attractions now in Austria's beautiful countryside, in the Salzburg area.

The Aug. 1960 National Geographic Magazine tells about these mines and shows the village of Pichl (salt).

Theodore 1 was born in Vienna and died there. Maria and Theodore owned a slaughter house in Vienna and lived in the same house for 70 years, it is said.

Generation No. 2

2. THEODORE² PICHLER II (THEODORE¹) was born 09 Nov 1863 in Vienna, Austria, and died 21 Jul 1937 in Butler, WI. He married ELEANORA MARKOWITZ 1882 in Vienna, Austria. She was born 03 Aug 1864 in Vienna, Austria, and died 29 Feb 1948 in Snohomish, WA.

Notes for THEODORE PICHLER II:

Theodore II made his living making and assembling mouth organs for the Hohner Co. His son, Ludwig, tuned most of the reeds; each boy did his part. This work was done in the small village of Mauerbach and then taken to Mr. Hohner in Vienna, walking the 7 kilometers (about 6 miles) with more supplies. They were paid 3 cents a piece. These mouth organs were signed "Pichler". There seems to be none left in the family.

Theodore and Eleanore had 12 children. Their home in Mauerbach was a 7-acre farm, which was worked by hand (no horse). The children delivered milk on their way to school to an old monastery which had a moat and draw bridge. If they arrived before 6:30 a.m., they were given a piece of cake by the Nuns; otherwise not. One son, Leo, walked about 9 kilometers on alternate days to deliver about 50lbs. of tobacco and cigarettes for "Mrs. Enders" to resell. The other boys who were supposed to be working on mouth organs, first had their shoes taken away by their mother, and finally she put them in dresses to keep them from going down to the skating pond with their friends.

In summer, they were sent to the river for mountain trout, reaching in an underwater cave, and bringing the fish out by hand until they had enough for a meal for the large family.

Theodore had purchased the farm from his sister Leopoldina, who had married "a millionaire" named Herman Bauer, owner of the Ottakringer Brewery, after she had been a maid in the Bauer home. Herman and Theodore rode out to Mauerbach in a horse-drawn coach to look at the farm. A price of 8000 gouldas was agreed upon. The chauffeur then drove them to the Court House where they bought the farm. Four years and many improvements later, Theodore went to Vienna to pay up the full amount of the farm. Leopoldina said, "But Theodore, it's worth three times tha much now." An argument followed. Leopold called a butler who threw Theodore out of the home. On his way home to Mauerbach that day, Theodore sold his cows, then sold the rest of their belongings and a few weeks later came to America, with 3 of their sons: Alois, Ludwig and Carl. Eleanore followed later with five of their nine (living) children: Hermine, Leopold, Paul, Otto and Edward. They sailed on Otto's birthday, and arrived on Eleanore's birthday via the "Amerika" steamship. (Compiled by Josephine (Reeve) Eisenmann).

Notes for LEOPOLD JOSEPH PICHLER:

Leo Pichler once relayed a story about the Pichlers. Apparently, during a war in Austria in the mid 1700's the family lost a "Gute" of more than 100 acres to which they had title. Here they were free to hunt, fish and garden. After 100 years, they could reclaim the land. Theodore was urged by his son to go to court to win back the land, but his father resisted, and the "Gute" was never reclaimed. Leo said that his father, Theodore II, was a boy of about 15 at that time. Leo recalls hearing that there was a Mardi-Gras-like celebration in those early days. A man named Kopeckinec dressed himself as an army officer and impersonated an important person - a "hauptman". He invaded and robbed banks, stole money and documents, presumably the "Gute" papers.

He married ANNA BARBARA BARTL 25 Aug 1915 in Milwaukee, WI, daughter of JOSEF BARTL and BARBARA REINHOLD. She was born 23 Jul 1898 in Milwaukee, WI, and died 11 Nov 1983 in Milwaukee, WI.

Notes for PAUL MARTIN PICHLER:

Paul and Anna homesteaded about 2000 acres or more in Thunderhawk,

South Dakota. They paid taxes to Thunderhawk. As he often demonstrated, Paul was the temperamental one among the brothers. There were seven boys. When Louis died his 6 surviving brothers were his pall bearers. Louie never married.

One day, Paul went to town for supplies and a luxurious shave and haircut. A man came into the barber shop who wanted to buy Paul's team and wagon. Paul traded the fellow for his car, a 1925 Dodge or Buick. As he drove home he waved to his neighbor, but didn't stop. When the family heard the odd sounds of the car, they came outside to see Paul make a proud circuit of the yard, pulled up to the porch and hollered "WHOA", and ran into the porch!!

Paul and Anna used to go dancing to Lawrence Welk's music in Yankton or Rapid City where he got his start.

Eddie and Otto were shooting blackbirds as they were sitting on the ranch porch. Paul was milking a cow near by, when she kicked over the pail several times and then stepped in it. Paul was beating the cow with the mild stool, when he looked at Otto and said "Shoot the S.O.B." and Otto did!!

9. OTTO HENRY³ PICHLER (THEODORE², THEODORE¹) was born 23 Jul 1900 in Vienna, Austria, and died 15 Oct 1977 in Cedarburg, WI, USA. He married MARY BARBARA BARTL Oct 1925 in Milwaukee, WI, daughter of JOSEF BARTL and BARBARA REINHOLD. She was born 12 Oct 1905 in Milwaukee, WI, and died 29 Apr 1937 in Milwaukee, Milwaukee, WI, USA.

Notes for OTTO HENRY PICHLER:

At one time, Otto took a train to S.D. to visit the family. The train stopped for water, so Otto went to a nearby tavern. He bargained with another customer for a gun, but after he paid the man, he had to fight for the holster. He went over to the Justice of the Peace, paid the $2.00 fine for Assault and Battery, then returned to the tavern and beat the man up for the holster!

Two years later, Otto drove his car to the ranch. After a lunch stop, two men followed him down the road. He let them pass, but put his "45" on the seat next to him. Up ahead the two men had parked crosswise in the road.

Otto opened the windshield and shot his way through the road-block!!
