RIEGLE, BENJAMIN, retired farmer, was born in Tulpehocken township, Berks county, Pa., March 24, 1805. His parents are George and Anna Mary (Leshner) Riegler. His paternal grandparents are John and Elizabeth (Zeller) Riegler, and his maternal grandparents John and Barbara Leshner. George Riegler, his father, died at the age of eighty-six years and eight months; his wife died aged about eighty-three. They had twelve children: Benjamin, Daniel, who died at the age of twenty-two, John, Jacob, Jonathan, David, George, Henry, Elias, Elizabeth, Mary, and Catherine.

Benjamin Riegler was carefully trained from earliest childhood at home, and his parents made willing contributions for the support of a school in the neighborhood in which he was a pupil. This was before the establishment of the admirable public school system, maintained by general taxation; these subscription schools were the only educational advantages within the reach of people of moderate means. The family removed to Northumberland county when Benjamin was nine years old. His education being limited, having attended school only a few months for two or three winters, he continued to attend subscription schools until he was nineteen. These schools were only kept open during the winter season, when farm work was not pressing; in the farming season all the girls and boys were industrious helpers in home and farm work.

Mr. and Mrs. Riegler thinking it well that a boy should know a trade, Benjamin was placed with Jacob Welker, of Millersburg, to learn that of cabinet making. At the end of two years Mr. Welker pronounced him a well trained mechanic, and he went to work as a journeyman. After following this occupation for one year, Mr. Riegler decided to return to farm work; so, after due consideration, he rented a farm in Upper Paxton township, from Jacob Landis, for three years.

Military Service,

This is excerpted from a book on Schuylkill County in the Civil War, printed in the year 1865.

In July, 1863, President Lincoln issued a proclamation ordering a draft for five hundred thousand men to fill up the armies of the Union. The draft for the Tenth District, composed of Schuylkill and Lebanon counties, commenced in Pottsville on Wednesday, Sep. 23, 1863. The drawing was done by a blind man named William DOUBERT, of Schuylkill Haven, Schuylkill County. The drafting-box was on a table on a platform, placed in full view of spectators, adjoining the Provost Marshal's office. The committee of citizens invited to be present, were Samuel HUNTZINGER, William F. MORTIMER, Robert F. WEAVER, Hon. Strange L. PALMER, Hon. Solomon FOSTER, J. Franklin HARRIS, Oliver IBERSON, Daniel H. LEIB, and Jacob KOHLER.

The draft was made in the following manner: The Deputy Marshall, John M. MARK, of Lebanon County, turned the wheel and the blind man drew the names out. The latter passed them over to the Commissioner, John H. KINPORTZ, of Lebanon who read the names, the clerk at the same time entering them in a book. The drawing took place in the order of sub-districts laid down and the number of names drawn for Schuylkill County was 3,334.

Immediately upon the return of the three months' volunteers, Col. James NAGLE, Col. Henry L. CAKE, Col Benjamin C. CHRIST and Col. George C. WYNKOOP, of Schuylkill County, received authority to raise regiments "for three years, of the war." Recruiting became active, and during the months of August, September and October, 1861, the drum and fife of recruiting officers were seldom idle in our streets, while their rendezvous were almost as numerous as our stores. In addition to the volunteer officers, several officers of the regular army were here, and did quite a brisk business. We hazard nothing in saying that in the space of three months, over three thousand men were recruited in this County.

Col. NAGLE's Regiment, the Forty-Eighth, P. V., was encamped at Harrisburg, while being organized, and was composed entirely of Schuylkill County companies.

Col. CAKE's Regiment, the Ninety-Sixth, P. V., also composed of Schuylkill County companies, was encamped at Pottsville, until November.

Col. CHRIST and Col. WYNKOOP encamped their Regiments, the Fiftieth, P. V. and Seventh Pennsylvania Calvary, at Harrisburg. These Regiments were only partially made up of companies from this County.

Single companies and individuals from the County, were scattered through other Regiments of the State.

On Monday, September 2nd, 1861, the Citizens' Cornet Band, numbering twenty-five members, left Pottsville for Harrisburg, to join Col. NAGLE's Regiment.

THE LOYAL ORDER OF THE MOOSE
AMERICAN LEGION BUILDING

The American Legion Building in Lykens has a unique history. The site was originally the base of the large home of the Jake Solena family. When the lot was purchased for the purpose of erecting a Moose Lodge, the Solena home was moved down Main Street and south on West Street to its present location on the northwest corner of West and South Second Streets. An interesting note is that while the workers were moving the house on large rollers, and they were almost at the new site, the noon whistle blew. The workers quit where they were. The house sat in the middle of West Street until the workers had their lunch break. When the local Loyal Order of the Moose Lodge #1176 was first organized in 1912 by V.W. Barrett, they had eighty charter members. The membership grew steadily and in 1922 had a membership of 700.

The committee in charge of construction of the new Lodge consisted of: Louis Wentzler, chairman, A.L. Welker, secretary, J.S. Reiff, C.J. Witmer, D. Ed Trout, V.W. Barrett, Cornelius Mahoney, C.P. Whitman, Elijah Dietrich, A.A. Rudisill, Dr. W.E. Lebo, Ezra Newbold, William Host, Joseph Kramer, and Frank Kramer. They held their meetings and gatherings in one of the oldest buildings in Lykens - one of the eight original log cabins that was built about 1828. This building was situated in the 400 block of North Second Street. It was torn down in 1969.

In 2003, Robert A. Welker remembered the uncovering of the log cabin, and recognized many of the names in this article.
